GAINS VICTORY IN 42 STATES; WHOLE OF WEST

Electoral Vote Is Record Breaker

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

By the greatest landslide in more than two generations, Gov. Franklin Delano Roosevelt of New York, Democrat, was elected President and John Nance Garner of Texas Vice President of the United States in the national election yesterday.

The Democratic ticket carried every state west of the Allegehenies, while in the east Roosevelt and Garner captured all the big Republican states except Pennsylvania.

Hoover Only Wins Six.

President Hoover, who carried only six of the 48 states, was defeated more overwhelmingly than he defeated Al Smith four years ago. In fact, he was defeated more disastrously than any major party candidate for the presidency in a straight two party contest since Gen. George B. McClellan, the Democratic candidate against President Lincoln in 1864.

The six states which the incomplete returns place in the Hoover column are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

Electoral Estimate.

The returns at the hour this edition went to press give the following result of the election as expressed in electoral votes:

For Roosevelt.....472
For Hoover.....59
Total.....531

Gov. Roosevelt's electoral college majority over President Hoover is 413. The Democratic candidate received 206 votes in excess of the 266 necessary to a choice.

Congress Democratic.

Riding in on the avalanche of votes for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket came the 73d congress, Democratic in the senate as well as the house, and overwhelmingly wet, committed to the disestablishment of national prohibition.

The overturning of the normal Republican majority of the country was the most sensational in our history, not even excepting the upheaval of 1912, when the Republican party was split and Woodrow Wilson won with 435 electoral votes. Mr. Hoover, who defeated Al Smith in 1928 by a popular majority of more than 6 million votes, was defeated yesterday by a Democratic majority that may touch 5 million votes in the final count.

Sweeps G. O. P. Strongholds.

Roosevelt swept such traditionally Republican strongholds as New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin. On the face of the incomplete returns he carried Michigan, which has not cast its electoral vote for a Democratic candidate for President since 1852.

In the returns so far tabulated Roosevelt appears to have won two other outstanding Republican states—Iowa and Kansas.

Wide G. O. P. Wreckage.

Shortly after 11 p. m. Chicago time President Hoover conceded his defeat and from his home at Palo Alto, Cal., telegraphed to Gov. Roosevelt his congratulations and best wishes.

SWANSON GOES TO DEFEAT WITH COUNTY TICKET

Prosecutor Loses by 340,000 Votes.

County Ticket Winners

STATE'S ATTORNEY—Thomas J. Courtney [D.].
RECORDER—Clayton F. Smith [D.].
CIRCUIT COURT CLERK—John E. Conroy [D.].
SUPERIOR COURT CLERK—Frank V. Zintak [D.].
APPELLATE COURT CLERK—Sheldon W. Govier [D.].
CORONER—Frank J. Walsh [D.].
COUNTY SURVEYOR—Henry Riedl [D.].
COUNTY COMMISSIONER—John E. Traeger [D.].
SANITARY DISTRICT TRUSTEES—John J. Touhy, J. L. Friedman, Ross A. Woodhull [D's.].

Cook county elected Thomas J. Courtney state's attorney yesterday and swept all his running mates on the Democratic county ticket into office. Returns from more than two-thirds of the precincts in the county, available early today, indicated that Senator Courtney's plurality over State's Attorney John A. Swanson, Republican, may top 340,000.

Almost the same size victory, proportionately, was achieved by the other Democrats running with Courtney. They made a clean sweep, collecting the court clerkships [Appellate, Superior and Circuit], the post of coroner, recorder of deeds, the three candidates for the sanitary trustees who were running for reëlection, the county surveyor, and the new county commissionership.

Hope Fades for Republicans.

Hope faded for the Republicans early in the evening. Not once did one of their candidates lead his Democratic opponent. Even the veteran vote-getter, Circuit Court Clerk Thomas A. Wallace, went down in the avalanche.

State's Attorney Swanson ran more evenly in the country town districts, while Courtney got about 61 per cent of the Chicago vote.

Courtney, who is a state senator, will be one of Chicago's youngest prosecutors. He is 37 years old, lives at 7820 Loomis boulevard, and came up in the political ranks through the city hall, the sanitary district, and into the upper house of the legislature, where he is now minority leader.

First Democrat Since 1916.

The state's attorney-designate is the first of his party to be elected to that post since Maclay Hoyne was reëlected to his second term in 1916. Robert E. Crowe, Republican who succeeded Hoyne in 1920, had two terms in office, and was succeeded by Swanson four years ago.

Courtney conducted a whirlwind campaign in the county, made hundreds of speeches in both primary and election campaigns, and sought election under the banner "Drive Out the Gangsters," which was almost identical with the slogan that put Swanson in office in 1928.

Passmore Is Defeated.

Clayton F. Smith, the present recorder of deeds, beat John H. Passmore by a large vote, Passmore was a former Republican clerk of the Criminal court. He went down under the crush of Democratic sentiment.

Early today Smith was leading Passmore by over 200,000 with 2,082 of the county's 3,522 precincts heard from. Th vote stood: Smith, 532,943; Passmore, 329,369.

Indicative of the size of the Democratic landslide was the vote for clerk of the Circuit court, with 2,082 precincts heard from, Conroy had 494,563 votes to 355,234 for Wallace.

The successful court clerks are: Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th], who was elected clerk of the Appellate court; John E. Conroy, Circuit court, and Frank V. Zintak, Superior court. Mr. Zintak is the incumbent, having been elected following the appointment of M. S. Szymczak, his predecessor, as city controller.

Defeats John T. Dempsey.

Ald. Govier defeated a young Republican, John T. Dempsey, former assistant state's attorney and a follower of Robert E. Crowe. Conroy defeated the veteran Wallace, and

JUDGE IS VICTOR OVER SMALL BY 555,000 VOTES

Democrats Take All State Offices.

BULLETIN.

Almost complete figures on Illinois this morning indicated that Judge Horner's plurality is 555,000, of which 432,000 came from Cook county. Similar returns gave Gov. Roosevelt an estimated plurality of 420,000, of which 280,000 came from Cook county. Congressman Dieterich's plurality in the state was estimated as 215,000, his Cook county plurality as 125,000.

State Officers Elected

U. S. SENATOR—W. H. Dieterich [D.].
GOVERNOR—Henry Horner [D.].
LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—Thomas F. Donovan [D.].
SECRETARY OF STATE—Edward J. Hughes [D.].
STATE AUDITOR—Edward J. Barrett [D.].
STATE TREASURER—John C. Martin [D.].
ATTORNEY GENERAL—Otto Kerner [D.].
UNIVERSITY TRUSTEES—Dr. Karl A. Meyer, Mrs. Stella S. Freeman, O. M. Karraker [Dems.].
CONGRESSMAN AT LARGE—Martin A. Brennan [D.] and Walter Nesbit [D.].

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt carried Illinois by 410,000, but the Democratic nominee for governor, Judge Henry Horner, defeated Len Small by 525,000. And Congressman William H. Dieterich was elected United States senator over Otis F. Glenn by about 225,000.

But not only did the state go Democratic for the first time since the Republican split in Bull Moose year twenty years ago, but on the face of almost complete returns it elected the entire Democratic state ticket, effecting an almost complete change of party in the administration of state affairs.

Dry Congressmen Defeated.

Illinois also shook up its congressional delegation, ousting a number of Republican drys, and shifting so many seats in both houses of the general assembly to the former minority that the Democrats in all probability have won control of the legislature.

In still one other field of contest where there were hard battles—that for the local offices of the 102 counties—reports indicated that the Democrats also had increased their holdings beyond their wildest dreams.

Horner Wins Downstate.

In some of these relatively minor races there may be changes shown by the final figures, but there appeared to be no doubt of the outcome of the presidential and state battles.

Judge Horner received an estimated plurality of 415,000 votes in Cook county and an estimated margin of 110,000 downstate. Gov. Roosevelt's pluralities were calculated as 280,000 in Cook and 130,000 downstate. Congressman Dieterich's lead in Cook was estimated as 130,000 and downstate his lead was indicated as 95,000.

In Chicago Judge Horner led by 275,000 in the estimated totals and his corresponding lead in the country towns was placed at 40,000. Gov. Roosevelt's pluralities in the two divisions of this county were 265,000 and 15,000.

Voters Neglect Senatorship.

One of the unusual features of the whole election in this state was the fact that many thousands who voted for candidates on the presidency and the governorship failed to vote on the United States senatorship. Just about an even 100,000 in Cook county did so and there were even a larger number that followed suit in the downstate sections.

This fact, although the knifing of Glenn by the Small state workers was considered an important contributing cause for his defeat, was considered something of a factor in Dieterich's victory for the senatorship. The lack of attention to the senatorship was

Next Congress Wet; Control to Democrats

BULLETIN.

Associated Press returns from congressional districts at 5 a. m. on contests for the 435 seats in the new house of representatives showed:

Democrats surely elected, 178; in present congress, 218.

Republicans elected, 49; in present congress, 209.

Farmer-Labors elected, none; in present congress, 1.

Still doubtful, 208.

Necessary for a majority, 218.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will have a Democratic congress, both house and senate, when he takes office as President on March 4. Incomplete returns indicate the Democrats made a net gain of eleven seats, possibly twelve, in the senate yesterday when senators were elected in thirty-three states.

This indicates the Democrats will have 59 or 60 members of the next senate. It gives them a larger control of the upper chamber than in 1913 when Woodrow Wilson became President. In fact, it is the largest number of senators the Democrats have ever had, the previous high mark being 56 in 1915.

Both houses will be overwhelmingly wet, so the partial figures portend.

Five G. O. P. Leaders Lose.

Five Republican leaders in the senate appear to have been engulfed in the anti-Hoover wave. Others fell by the way in the primaries. Among the familiar faces that will be missing in the United States senate after March 4, it appears, will be the following:

HIRAM BINGHAM of Connecticut.
REED SMOOT of Utah.
OTIS F. GLENN of Illinois.
JAMES E. WATSON of Indiana.
GEORGE H. MOSES of New Hampshire.
SMITH WILDMAN BROOKHART of Iowa.
JOHN J. BLAINE of Wisconsin.
SAMUEL M. SHORTRIDGE of California.

Bingham, Smoot, Glenn, Watson, and Moses lost in yesterday's election. Brookhart, Blaine, and Shortridge were defeated in the primaries.

5 and 10 Jones Behind.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the Jones 5 and 10 law, also may be among the missing. Early returns from Washington showed he was running 8,000 votes behind Homer T. Bone, Democrat.

Among senate minor lights who were flickering low in the partial returns were Senators John Thomas of Idaho, pal of Borah, and Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada, two Republicans who are trailing their Democratic rivals.

The size of the Democratic majority in the house is as yet undetermined. Returns from many states are slow in coming in. But incomplete reports indicate the Democrats have increased their seats substantially, and will have a large working majority in the house.

25 Wets Get Senate Seats.

Indications are that 25 wets were elected to senate seats yesterday. Of the holdover senators, 27 voted wet either on the Bingham beer bill or the Glass resubmission resolution, or both. From this the wets claim at least 52 votes in the senate, a major-

New York for Roosevelt by 642,000 Votes

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 9.—[Wednesday.]—[Special.]—A Democratic whirlwind yesterday swept New York's national, state, and city tickets to victory and early today staggering pluralities were being tabulated. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate for President, carried the state by about 642,000, while Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, the Democratic nominee for governor, was leading Col. William Donovan by a plurality of 860,000, a record for a Democratic candidate in this state.

Mr. Lehman ran more than 100,000 ahead of Gov. Roosevelt in New York City and had a plurality of 905,166 in the five boroughs.

Under Previous High Vote.

Gov. Roosevelt's plurality was slightly under his previous high vote in the state, 725,000, which he received in his race for the governorship two years ago.

Returns from 8,252 election districts out of the state's 8,837 give:

Roosevelt.....2,438,101
Hoover.....1,795,185

The governor came down to the New York City line approximately 150,000 votes behind President Hoover and then in the city with the united support of Tammany and Alfred E. Smith polled the staggering total of more than 1,437,231 votes, a city plurality of almost 862,000 over Mr. Hoover, who polled 575,031 votes.

The Roosevelt plurality was about 100,000 less than the city-wide figures estimated by Tammany a week ago. The plural" was just twice as large

Roosevelt Has 2 to 1 Lead in Wisconsin

BULLETIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 9 (Wednesday).—(AP)—In 1,302 precincts the vote for U. S. senator: Duffy (D.), 201,239; Chapple (R.), 139,976.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—[Wednesday.]—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt on the face of returns from more than one-half the precincts in the state in yesterday's election, has carried the state by 225,000 votes.

Returns from 1,510 of 2,899 precincts in the state gave Gov. Roosevelt 378,712 votes and President Herbert Hoover 185,344.

A large number of split ballots made the race between Walter J. Kohler, Republican nominee for governor, and Mayor A. G. Schmedeman of Madison, Democratic nominee for the office, doubtful on the early returns. In 1,044 precincts Kohler received 137,554 votes and Schmedeman 174,586, a margin conceded by Republican leaders to be more than their nomines could overcome.

Leaders of the Democratic party consider the returns a true indication of the vote throughout the state, and they predicted that Gov. Roosevelt would carry Wisconsin by at least 200,000 votes. They believe also that Mayor Schmedeman is elected by at least 50,000 votes.

Duffy Appears Winner.

The force of the support for Gov. Roosevelt appears to have carried F. Ryan Duffy, Democrat, of Fond du Lac, into the United States senate to cane was strewn with Republican wreckage. Republican candidates for congress, state, and local offices were buried beneath the Roosevelt avalanche. One of the most conspicuous victims was Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, author of the "five and ten" prohibition enforcement act, who was tossed into the discard by the Roosevelt wave which swept that state.

Although Mr. Hoover carried New Hampshire, Senator George H. Moses, Republican president pro tem of the senate, was defeated for reëlection.

Indiana went into the Roosevelt bag to the tune of a 150,000 plurality. The veteran Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader of the senate, who was a candidate for reëlection, went down in the Republican wreck.

Out in Utah another Republican wheel horse, Senator Reed Smoot, was buried under the avalanche of votes which put that state in the Roosevelt column.

Illinois for Roosevelt.

Illinois, which, with the exception of 1912, has not been carried by a Democratic candidate for President since 1892 and which gave Coolidge a 900,000 plurality in 1924, plumped for Roosevelt by a margin well over 400,000, according to the incomplete returns.

Senator Glenn, Republican, was carried down by the Democratic tidal wave; Democratic Henry Horner beat Republican Len Small for governor, and numerous Republican congressmen were lost in the wreckage. Roosevelt not only swept Chicago, but carried the hitherto strongly Republican downstate territory.

New York, which like Illinois had not been carried by a Democratic candidate for President since 1892 with the exception of 1912, gave Roosevelt a 656,000 plurality. For his victory in his home state the New York governor was indebted to the Tammany and allied organizations of New York City which piled up a margin of 852,000 votes for him in that area. Mr. Hoover carried the normally Republican upstate territory by little more than 200,000.

Concedes New York Defeat.

William H. Hill, assistant eastern manager of the Republican campaign headquarters and Hoover representative in New York political affairs for several years, conceded the Empire state's 47 electoral votes to Roosevelt three hours after the closing of the polls. That signalized the defeat of the President for without those 47 votes he could not possibly win. Immediately thereafter the New York Herald Tribune, leading Hoover organ, conceded the election of Roosevelt.

West of the Mississippi the election was a Republican debacle. Roosevelt swept the corn and wheat belts. Missouri that has gone Republican in the last three presidential elections reverted to the faith of its fathers, with all lesser Democratic candidates swept into office along with Roosevelt.

Kansas, which the President was adjudged to have a better chance of carrying than any state west of the Mississippi, went to Roosevelt by a plurality in the neighborhood of 50,000 on the face of the incomplete returns.

Iowa, which Mr. Hoover was supposed to have saved to his cause by his Des Moines speech, went over to Roosevelt by a margin estimated at 100,000.

South Solid Again.

The Roosevelt-Garner ticket was leading by substantial margins in the latest returns from California, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, West Virginia, Maryland and Minnesota.

The south became solidly Democratic once more, Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas, which Hoover carried four years ago, getting back into line for the Democratic ticket by overwhelming pluralities. The border states, including Tennessee which Hoover won in 1928, also went Democratic, although figures were not available from Kentucky which does not begin its official count till today.

Maine, which went Democratic in the state election in September and thereby foreshadowed Democratic victory in the national election, according to the old saw, gave Hoover its electoral vote by a popular plurality of 40,000. Vermont went to Hoover by 25,000 and Rhode Island by about 15,000 on the face of the incomplete returns.

Discuss Roosevelt Cabinet.

With Roosevelt elected, public interest shifts to the makeup of the cabinet he will choose. It transpires that the Democratic managers have already been busy with this matter, so confident they were of the election of the Democratic ticket.

In fact, according to one report, the makeup of the cabinet figured in the understanding whereby Al Smith finally came out in wholehearted support of his party's ticket. Mr. Smith had broken with Gov. Roosevelt last spring over the tendency the latter displayed to cater to radicals and radicalism.

Following Mr. Roosevelt's apostrophe to the "forgotten man" in his St. Paul speech Mr. Smith in his Jefferson day dinner address in Washington referred to the New York governor as a demagogue. Then Gov. Roosevelt's consorting with the Norrises, La Follettes, Brookharts, Huey Longs, and other left wing elements of both parties both before and after the Chicago nomination only made Mr. Smith the madder.

Smith Withholds Support.

For months following the nomination of Roosevelt Mr. Smith showed only perfunctory interest in the success of his party ticket. His following, composed largely of Roman Catholics who deeply resented his rejection for the nomination, displayed every evidence of an intention to bolt Roosevelt.

This was a threat to his success, second only in importance to the menacing attitude of Tammany Hall as a result of the fate of Jimmie Walker, and was particularly serious in such preponderantly Roman Catholic states as Massachusetts and Rhode Island, both of which were carried by Smith in 1928.

Great pressure was brought to bear upon Smith to come out for Roosevelt. He did so eventually in a series of speeches in which with progressive warmth and enthusiasm he indorsed Roosevelt and Garner, referred to the presidential candidate familiarly and affectionately as Frank and finally appeared on the same platform with the nominee and was photographed with his arm around Roosevelt's shoulders.

"Understanding" Is Reported.

According to the gossip among the politicians Smith consented to take up the stump for the ticket only after a talk he had with Roosevelt in which he satisfied himself that the candidate had not committed himself to the appointment of any of the "sons of the wild jackass" to his cabinet and did not intend to.

About the same time other eminent Democratic conservatives began evincing concern regarding the character of the official advisers Roosevelt would select in the event of his election. A group of them met at the Biltmore hotel in New York City and discussed the matter.

The point made was that the depression is far from over, that the Democratic party, if intrusted with power, will need to summon to the direction of affairs the ablest men at its command and that nothing would alarm business interests so much as the selection of radicals of either party for positions of importance.

The point of view of the group, composed of men in whom he has the greatest trust, was brought to the attention of Roosevelt by a trusted emissary. The point was stressed that the welfare of the country and of the party would depend, in the event of his election, upon the selection by Roosevelt for cabinet and other important offices of the ablest and most widely known Democrats, the mere announcement of whose appointment would inspire public confidence.

The word brought back was that Gov. Roosevelt was in complete agreement with these representations and that he had not made any commitments regarding cabinet selections.

Numerous names have figured in the speculation on the men Roosevelt, if elected, might be expected to choose for his cabinet. It was the well nigh universal opinion of Democratic leaders that Mr. Roosevelt would offer a high office either in or out of the cabinet to Mr. Smith despite the early rift in their relations. It was, however, thought possible that Mr. Smith might decline a cabinet post in conformity with a previously disclosed disposition to maintain a certain attitude of detachment toward the administration.

Some suggested that because of his deep interest in the radical reduction of the cost of government, as evidenced by his leadership in the National Economy league, Mr. Smith would be asked to take the chairmanship of a commission created to reorganize the federal government.

For secretary of state John W. Davis, the party's candidate for President in 1924 and formerly an ambassador to Great Britain, seemed a likely choice to the politicians. For secretary of the treasury, probably the most important post in the government in the next four years, speculation is busy with the names of Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, and Owen D. Young, chairman of the boards of the General Electric company and the Radio Corporation of America. Newton D. Baker of Ohio, it was suggested, would be almost certainly a member of the cabinet, either in the position of secretary of state, if Mr. Davis were not available, or in his old position of secretary of war, which he held during the war with Germany.

Other likely selections for the cabinet figuring in the gossip at Democratic headquarters were Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and Bernard Baruch of New York, who was chairman of the war industries board in the Wilson régime. Still others were Senator Carter Glass and former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Question of McAdoo.

William G. McAdoo, if defeated for senator from California, would be an aspirant, it was thought, to a cabinet position, possibly the place of secretary of the treasury he occupied in the Wilson administration. He doubtless would regard himself entitled to the highest reward for his part in the deal whereby the Garner delegates from Texas and California were swung to Roosevelt in the Chicago convention, thereby compassing the nomination of the New York governor.

But McAdoo would not get anything as important as a cabinet post if Al Smith could prevent it, and one of the current stories at Democratic headquarters was that Al had added McAdoo to the aggregation of radicals whose proscription by Roosevelt he had exacted as the price of his support.

Whether Smith had turned thumbs down on Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska among the other radicals was a matter of interested speculation for the reason that Norris was one of the few Republicans west of the Mississippi, only nominal Republican though he is, who openly supported Smith in 1928 and whose support was welcomed by Smith.

Democratic National Chairman James Farley would be the logical selection for postmaster general if political tradition were adhered to.

Although the depression producing the deep seated grouch on the party in power was from the beginning of the campaign the chief advantage enjoyed by Roosevelt, he won widespread respect for his political ability.

A case in point was his swing round the far west. The western Democratic leaders were virtually a unit in opposition to this trip.

But Roosevelt insisted on going and he made the trip without committing any of the blunders feared by the Democratic leaders. He aroused no great amount of enthusiasm. It is doubtful that he gained any appreciable number of votes, but it gradually dawned upon the western leaders that Roosevelt had undertaken the arduous tour to demonstrate not only that he is no wheel chair invalid but that he is equal to demands upon his physical strength and fitness comparable to the physical demands of the presidential office.

THE NEW POLITICAL MAP OF THE UNITED STATES?

The above map shows the new political complexion of the various states as indicated by incomplete returns. Gov. Roosevelt is indicated as winner in 42 states, with President Hoover winner in six states.

'GREAT MAN HAS BEEN DEFEATED,' SAYS SANDERS

Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, issued the following statement last night:

"A very great man has been defeated. The millions of votes that have been cast for him constitute not only a marvalous tribute to him but approval of his policies. America has never returned to power any administration in a period when we had 'hard times.' That this was not just 'hard times' but a world depression, for which the administration was not responsible, has been brought home to those who have thoroughly understood conditions.

"Millions have hoped that a political change would better their economic condition. This vote has outnumbered the votes of those who did understand. The millions of votes that have approved Herbert Hoover are a great vindication of a great President. So far as I have the power to do so, I shall give every support to the incoming President in all of his policies that are for the best interests of our country."

ASK ROOSEVELT TO ENUNCIATE HIS RECOVERY PLANS

Democratic Chiefs Want Action on Tariff.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—A group of leading Democratic members of the senate and house tonight telegraphed President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt urging him to lose no time in enunciating his program for pulling the nation out of the slough of depression. The governor especially was urged to advise the country as to whether he would call a special session of congress as soon as inaugurated to deal with the tariff.

The hope was expressed in the messages that the Democratic party would so expedite its tariff program that business would know what was to be expected by not later than midsummer so it could adjust itself to the new rates. Although admitting they had sent telegrams to the above effect the Democratic legislators declined on grounds of propriety to make the telegram public or to allow their names to be used.

Seeks to Reassure Business.

In the opinion of the Democratic senators and representatives steps should be taken at once by the Democratic President elect to let the country know what he proposes in the way of relief. The road to recovery can be shortened, they stated, if business can be reassured as to his legislative program at once.

Shortly after the returns disclosed that the Republican party was being snowed under, Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee, issued a statement in which he asserted his belief that the new President and the senate and house would coöperate and use their influence to end the depression at once and bring industrial and agricultral conditions back to normal.

Responsibility on Democrats.

"Everything indicates a decisive Democratic victory as I had foretold, and I am satisfied that the Democratic party will be in control of all branches of the government," said Senator Swanson. "This gives the Democratic party the great responsibility and opportunity which we should avail ourselves. The most important question confronting the American people now is to end the depression and to bring industrial and agricultural conditions back to normal.

"I am sure this was the main issue presented in this campaign upon which the decision was given to us. I am suer that all the President elect and Democrats in the house and senate will coöperate and use their influence to achieve this result promptly."

SEN. LEWIS FINDS HE CAN'T VOTE, AND DOES THE NEXT BEST THING

United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis appeared yesterday in his regular polling place in the 1400 block of North State street, bowed in a courtly manner and announced that he would like to vote. He was informed that he couldn't, as his name was not registered.

"But," said the senator, "there must be some mistake."

He then explained that he had been in a hospital during the regular registration days and that he had complied with the formalites required for registering by mail. His secretary had mailed the application for registration, he added. The secretary supported this contention. But James Hamilton Lewis was not registered and he did not vote.

"I did the next best thing," he commented. "I found a Republican friend—I have several—and told him what had happened. Just to make things even he agreed that he would not vote, either. So I have done my part for the Democratic ticket."

The senator declined to tell the name of the accommodating friend.

Two of the pouches, slit open with a knife, were recovered early this morning by Henry F. Tambke, superintendent of mails. They were found under a building.

F. D. ROOSEVELT GIVES VICTORY PLEDGE TO U. S.

Retires Before Hoover's Message Arrives.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Roosevelt Headquarters, New York City, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—[Wednesday.]—The President-elect of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, had a busy time of it last night and this morning receiving telephone calls from all over the land, and then, without issuing any statement of victory, he went home and to bed.

Although President Hoover telegraphed a message of congratulation to his conqueror, President-elect Roosevelt did not receive it up to the time of his departure, shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, so he did not answer.

Pledges His Best to Nation.

The only statement which did come from Mr. Roosevelt, upon this most momentous occasion in his life, was one addressed to the loyal workers who have struggled for him in this campaign, and that was delivered to them in the ballroom of the Biltmore hotel, where his headquarters are located. The statement follows:

"While I am grateful with all my heart for this expression of the confidence of my fellow Americans, I realize keenly the responsibility I shall assume and I mean to serve with my utmost capacity the interest of the nation.

"The people could not have arrived at this result if they had not been informed properly of my views by an independent press, and I value particularly the high service of the New York Times in its reporting of my speeches and in its enlightened comment."

Farley Claims Record Plurality.

When Mr. Roosevelt left for his home the reports delivered to him by news services, by messenger, and by telephone messages which he received personally from all over the country indicated that he would carry 44 states of the Union and James A. Farley, his campaign manager, was issuing a statement holding that Mr. Roosevelt's plurality was greater than had ever been received by a Democratic candidate in a two party struggle.

During the early hours of the time in which the governor was awaiting the verdict of the nation he sat at the head of a long table in his headquarters, a table at which a dozen girls sat with telephone instruments glued to their ears, receiving calls from the various states.

Frequently the governor himself got on the wire, asking how the battle had gone in the various states.

It was a wild, wild celebration at headquarters tonight, with all of the mighty and the near mighty and the would-be mighty badgering for admittance to give the glad word of congratulation to the victor.

Al Smith "Delighted."

Thousands of people of every sort tried to wedge their way into the headquarters, but policemen stood in their way, the cops getting so officious finally that they even stood in the way of members of the governor's own family.

Al Smith came along about half past nine, and he didn't have a bit of trouble getting in.

He sauntered right into the big room in which the governor was seated, with his battery of telephone operators and Jim Farley around him, and he stayed there 15 minutes, chatting with the governor.

When the man in the brown derby, who had so hoped that this might be his victory, but who during the last weeks of the campaign came to the fore for Gov. Roosevelt, came out of the room he stopped for a minute and talked with newspaper men.

"All the returns indicate a Democratic landslide," he said.

"I am delighted with it all. What more can I say?"

There was nothing more he could say, and everybody knew it.

London Seeks a Talk.

While Al Smith was in the governor's room, the long distance operator came in on the wire, announcing a call from across the sea, from a London newspaper, seeking an interview with the governor.

"Wait until we hear from the west," the governor replied, and he was most business like as he asked that the line of vistors be cut down a bit so he could pay more attention to the returns.

But Jack Dempsey came in to say his congratulations. So did old John McCooey, the Brooklyn leader, and Sam Levy, president of the Tammany borough of Manhattan. Jim Curley, mayor of Boston, who was a Roosevelt stalwart in the pre-convention campaign, dropped in and was given a hearty welcome.

Victor Is Carefree.

Gov. Roosevelt really was just as carefree tonight, when it came down to it, as he had been through this whole campaign, and the most spontaneous thing about his headquarters celebration tonight—and what a celebration it is!—is the hearty laugh that springs every once in a while from the throat of the governor.

He is telling stories, listening to stories, and with all tension and restraint off, the balloting done, he seems to be enjoying life thoroughly.

There are few absentees from this party. The governor's mother, his daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and two of his four sons, James and Elliott, are in the happy circle. His other two sons, Franklin Jr. and John, were not permitted to leave their classes at Groton school in Massachusetts.

Close Advisers in Group.

But almost the whole host of the governor's advisers, his intimate friends and the workers who labored for him in the campaign, are also en famille this night and are joining in the good natured badinage of the evening.

Shortly after noon today a whole corps of newspaper men, most of whom have been with Gov. Roosevelt over the whole strenuous stretch of his campaign, met him at his Hyde Park house.

Looking as though he hadn't a worry in the world, the governor joined with the correspondents in a four way pool, each participant putting in his reckoning on how much the governor's plurality would be in the country, how much in New York state, how many states he would carry, and what his electoral majority would be. Each ballot was signed but kept secret, and especially were the reckonings of his excellency kept secret. No one seemed to be betting on any Hoover pluralities.

Then everybody piled into automobiles and drove over to the village of Hyde Park, where in a little old yellow frame building, labeled "Town Hall," the governor and Mrs. Roosevelt and Elliott Roosevelt cast their votes.

A crowd of the Roosevelts' neighbors were waiting for them and set up a cheer as the governor drove up. When he got inside he found four people in line ahead of him, waiting to get into the two voting machine booths.

The election officials greeted Mr. Roosevelt and ostentatiously prepared to have him and Mrs. Roosevelt vote ahead of those awaiting.

"No," the presidential candidate said, "let them go ahead. I'll wait my turn."

Chats as He Waits.

And he did wait, standing along the rail beside the clerk's desk and chatting in neighborly fashion while he waited. The clerk told the governor how he had enjoyed his campaign speeches, and had listened to all of them.

"You must have been sitting up pretty late while I was in California," the governor said. "The time is so much different there."

"You're certainly lookin' fit, Mr. Roosevelt," the clerk ventured.

"I am. Yes, sir, I lost five pounds in the campaign, and I'm proud of my figure. Look here," and the governor indicated his girth, "there's nothing extra in there."

The governor took less than a minute to vote, and it seemed safe to assume that he wasn't scratching his ballot anywhere, but was pulling down all the Democratic levers on the voting machine.

As he came out he posed for the talkies for the seventy-five thousandth time in the campaign. Coming down the steps of the old town hall again, the governor stopped for a few minutes to chat with old friends.

"Hello, Mrs. Higgins," he called to one. "Are your children voting today?"

Those who knew Mrs. Higgins' children were only 7 and 9 years old laughed at the sally.

Sets Off for New York.

Then the governor, with the members of his family and his newspaper men followers, set off for New York in a motorcade—which newspaper men thankfully realized was the last of a series of hair raising ones in the campaign.

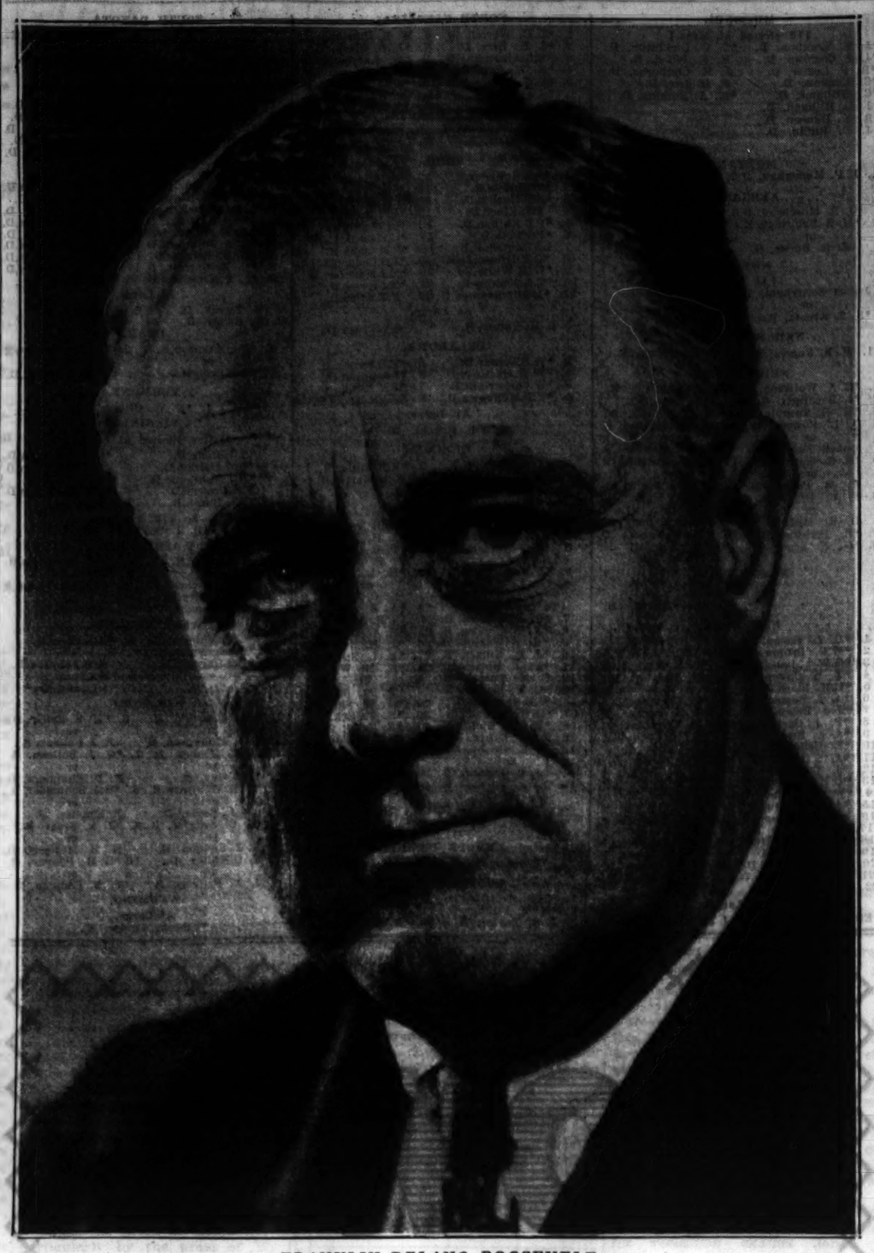
All the way down the Hudson, in every village, the citizenry had been forewarned of Roosevelt's approach, and they turned out in droves to greet him. At Ossining the jam was so thick that the governor's car got through with difficulty.

At North Tarrytown the governor was joined by his daughter, Mrs. Dall, who lives in that city, and in addition he was greeted by as thick a jam of citizens as has met him anywhere.

It was at North Tarrytown that the governor humored one of his numerous superstitions by stopping at a fire house. Four years ago, at the close of his first campaign for governor, Mr. Roosevelt stopped at the fire house to telephone his daughter.

He ordered the motorcade onward, and at a pace that again threatened casualties. This time the rush was on so that the governor's bodyguard, Gus Generich, might get to New York in time to vote.

THE PRESIDENT-ELECT



FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT.

ROOSEVELT WINS 22 YEAR FIGHT IN POLITICAL ARENA

Presidential Campaign Is Typical of Career.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The country's choice for the presidency, Franklin D. Roosevelt, leaped into the political arena 22 years ago with a slashing attack on "bossism" and has been bowling over precedents and time earned traditions ever since.

Inspired by the career of his cousin, the late Theodore Roosevelt, the President elect bolted his party chiefs as a young senator in 1910 and forced Tammany Hall to bow to his wishes.

In his presidential campaign Mr. Roosevelt set out to champion the cause of the "forgotten man," declaring his belief that the country's chief problems are interwoven with unemployment and industrial and agricultural insecurity.

In Politics as Youth.

Mr. Roosevelt, now 50, entered politics soon after his graduation from Harvard and Columbia.

Dutchess county was Republican. The leaders of the controlling party laughed openly when the tall, robust young son of James Roosevelt announced he was a candidate for the senate.

In a none too reliable automobile, a new contrivance of that day, Roosevelt and Louis McHenry Howe, a reporter, dashed over the country roads of the Hudson valley district, meeting farmers in their fields and talking at every crossroad. Roosevelt won.

Howe since then has been Mr. Roosevelt's closest adviser and one of his intimate friends.

Scarcely had young Roosevelt settled himself in the senate before he was battling Tammany Hall and leading a revolt against the election of Tammany's choice for the United States senate. The deadlock continued for months and eventually Tammany shelved its choice and put up a compromise that the balky Democrats accepted.

Again Opposed by Tammany.

Mr. Roosevelt was to find Tammany against him two decades later when the prize was the party's nomination for the presidency. Throughout the Chicago convention John F. Curry, the Tammany leader, held his group away from Roosevelt. Tammany supported former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to the end.

Roosevelt found himself again at odds with Tammany when Mayor "Jimmy" Walker was called before him on ouster charges. Walker's resignation made a Roosevelt decision unnecessary.

After one term in the state senate the young New Yorker went to Washington as assistant secretary of the navy. Secretary Daniels had seen the active and enthusiastic Roosevelt at the Baltimore convention working for Woodrow Wilson and had liked him.

Daniels turned over a lot of work to Roosevelt and the world war activities provided an outlet for his energy. One who admired his enthusiasm and action in those days was Joseph P. Kennedy, Boston and New York financier, who was in charge of the Bethlehem Steel company's plant at Providence, R. I.

"He was a tough guy in those days," said Kennedy. "He didn't let anything stand in the way of the output of war craft and materials."

Kennedy was one of the first to rally to Roosevelt when he became a possible presidential nominee.

In 1920, Roosevelt began nominating Alfred E. Smith for the presidency. He seconded the Smith nomination at San Francisco. When James Madison Cox of Ohio won, the factions all centered on Roosevelt as his running mate.

Roosevelt stumped the country from end to end. His press representative that year was Marvin McIntyre, a Kentuckian, who served that rôle again this year.

Stricken, Starts to Fight.

Infantile paralysis struck at Mr. Roosevelt in 1921. He immediately began his successful fight to gain control of his lower limbs.

As soon as he was on the road to recovery, Mrs. Roosevelt and Howe began surrounding him with his friends of Washington, New York, and Albany. Only once did a member of the Roosevelt household hear him cry out against his ill fortune. He once became impatient because he could not jump up and rush out for some papers that an aid was slow in bringing to him.

Between 1921 and 1924 he devoted most of his time to making a living as an insurance executive and to efforts to restore muscles of his legs incapacitated by paralysis. Some of his time, however, was given to letter writing and to informal visits with political leaders. He is a prodigious letter writer and for years has maintained contacts with hundreds of persons scattered throughout the wrold.

Calls Smith "Happy Warrior."

He emerged from his seclusion to nominate Smith and to label him with the unforgettable "happy warrior." He marshaled the Smith forces in that bitter battle at Madison Square Garden. Roosevelt sought to have both Smith and William Gibbs McAdoo withdraw in the interest of party harmony. McAdoo refused. McAdoo eight years later was to insure Roosevelt's nomination over Smith when he announced that California and Texas had forsaken Speaker John N. Garner for the New Yorker.

Again in 1928, Roosevelt, this time much improved in his walking, nominated Smith. He yielded to Smith, John J. Raskob, national chairman; Herbert H. Lehman, New York banking friend and others and ran for governor.

Smith lost and Roosevelt won by a scant 28,000 votes. Immediately he set to work building a Democratic machine upstate, never before sought by the Democrats. James A. Farley, smiling, friendly chairman of the state boxing commission, was the spearhead of Roosevelt's drive into Republican territory. Farley seemed never to tire, or lose his calm. In 1930 Roosevelt won by the unprecedented plurality of 728,000 votes.

Farley Started Campaign.

Afterward, Farley packed his bags and was off to find out what the country thought of "F. D." Where thought was lacking, "Big Jim" supplied it. He "sold" Roosevelt in every state and tied up many state delegations for the next convention.

Roosevelt, never a devotee of precedent, disregarded many in his campaign for the presidency. He flew to Chicago to deliver his acceptance to the delegates that named him. He went on long campaign trips when advisers said long swings were fatal to presidential hopes. He visited the south.

The New York governor said his fight was not with the "rank and file of the Republican party but the leadership," and attracted a group of Republican independents, Senators Norris of Nebraska, La Follette of Wisconsin, Johnson of California, and Cutting of New Mexico, to his cause.

Enjoys Hard Campaign.

Roosevelt traveled more than 17,000 miles by land, sea, and air; visited 37 of the 48 states, and at the end of the strenuous summer said he was "sorry it's over."

The Roosevelts have five children. Anna Eleanor is the wife of Curtis Dall, a New York stock broker; James is married to Betsy Cushing, daughter of the famous surgeon, Dr. Harvey Cushing of Boston. Elliott is married to Betty Donner, daughter of a Pennsylvania steel magnate. Franklin Jr. and John are students at the Groton school in Massachusetts. The Dalls have two children and Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt one.

Besides the ancestral home at Hyde Park, the governor and Mrs. Roosevelt have homes in New York City, Warm Springs, Ga., and Campobello, New Brunswick.

ROOSEVELT IS FIFTY; ANCESTORS SETTLED IN AMERICA IN 1662

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The President elect's name is pronounced as if it were spelled "Rosevelt." His second name, Delano, is sometimes miscalled "De Lano," instead of "Dellano."

Gov. Roosevelt is of Flemish and Dutch extraction. His father's ancestors came to America in 1663 and his mother's forbears, seafaring Flemish folk, in 1640.

The governor is over 6 feet tall and weighs around 190. He has deep set gray eyes, a long prominent nose, and a wide, expansive smile.

Mr. Roosevelt was graduated from Harvard and Columbia as a lawyer, but devoted little time to his Blackstone. Most of the time since he left school has been taken up with politics and public office.

The Roosevelts have five children and three grandchildren.

The governor was 50 last Jan. 14. Mrs. Roosevelt is two years younger.

Mr. Roosevelt's walking was handicapped by infantile paralysis. When he walks he wears leg braces.

The governor speaks French and German fluently and has some knowledge of Italian. He reads widely and is an international authority on naval history.

Roosevelt is well known as a stamp collector and keeps up a correspondence with scores of fellow collectors, several of them boys.

ROOSEVELT KIN OF A PRESIDENT THROUGH MOTHER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Franklin Delano Roosevelt can trace his ancestry back to two families each of which has already sent a President to the White House.

As is generally known, Mr. Roosevelt will be the second member of his father's famous family to hold the presidency. But what is not so well known—he will likewise be the second President furnished by the ancestral Delano family of his mother.

Mr. Roosevelt's maternal forebears have their roots in this country in Lieut. Jonathan Delano, the Pilgrim commander who fought Indians in Massachusetts in 1676. And among other descendants of Jonathan Delano, according to genealogists, was Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, eighteenth President of the United States.

NEW CONGRESS WET; CONTROL TO DEMOCRATS

Republicans Lose Eleven Seats to Rivals.

ity, enough to put over immediate modification of the Volstead act. In the house the wet strength is greater.

With the returns far from complete, the outlook is that Mr. Roosevelt will open his presidential term with a Democratic congress numerically strong enough for the redemption of party pledges both on prohibition and governmental economy, the two great issues at the polls.

The Democrats are pledged by their national platform to work for repeal of the 18th amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit beer.

It was a wet day for drys in many a former bone dry area. In Illinois, Richard Yates, dry of drys, was defeated for congressman at large. Two years ago Yates, a former governor, managed to survive the Democratic landslide which elected Senator James Hamilton Lewis by 744,000.

Knocking Out Dry Laws.

On incomplete figures Michigan—which went dry in 1918—was voting to repeal the bone dry clause in the state constitution and to authorize the legislature to set up a liquor control commission. In 442 precincts, the vote was: For repeal, 123,035; against, 50,344.

New Jersey was rolling up a ten to one lead in early returns for repeal of its enforcement act. Connecticut was running eight to one for a petition asking congress to submit repeal of the 18th amendment to the states. Louisiana was voting overwhelmingly for repeal of its state enforcement act. Wyoming was running three to one on a proposal favoring repeal of the 18th amendment. Early returns showed voters in Colorado, a former bone dry state, voting to repeal the state prohibition act. In one-third the precincts the vote stood three to one.

Watson Concedes Defeat.

In Indiana Senator Watson—forty years in politics—Republican leader of the senate, ran far behind his Democratic opponent, Frederick Van Nuys, former United States district attorney. Van Nuys ran as a dripping wet, Watson as a hemi-semi-demi-dry on the Republican straddle plank.

Van Nuys favors repeal of the 18th amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act, and is equipped to fight for his views on the senate floor. Senator Watson sent a telegram of congratulation to Van Nuys after returns from one-fifth of the precincts showed Van Nuys was 55,000 ahead.

In Utah the veteran Senator Smoot—30 years in the senate—was trailing his Democratic opponent, Dr. Elbert D. Thomas, in the incomplete returns. Smoot was a pillar of the 18th amendment. Thomas is a wet.

Early this morning Senator Smoot sent Dr. Thomas a telegram conveying his best wishes, addressing him as "Senator Elect."

Senator Glenn in Illinois was swept under by the anti-Hoover wave. Glenn, a two fisted opponent of prohibition in the senate, was defeated by Democratic William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, a dripping wet.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, president pro-tem of the senate, met defeat at the hands of Fred H. Brown, Democrat. Brown is a former governor. Moses—fourteen years in the senate—has been an outstanding figure in Republican politics. He it was who sprung the phrase, "sons of the wild jackass." The Manchester Union at midnight conceded his defeat.

Bingham Is First Victim.

Curiously enough, the first victim of the Democratic sweep was Senator Bingham of Connecticut, dripping wet Republican and author of the Bingham beer bill. He led the fight for the dripping wet plank in the Republican national convention which was beaten by states controlled through postmasterships and other federal patronage. Bingham, it is indicated, was beaten by Augustine Lonergan, Democratic wet.

The Democrats up to midnight had not lost a senate seat with the possible exception of one in Colorado. In New York the Democrats reëlected Senator F. R. Wagner; in Ohio they reëlected Senator Robert J. Bulkley; in Kentucky they put over Senator Alben W. Barkley—all wets.

Out in California returns from which were late in coming in, the race was going in favor of William G. McAdoo, Democrat. He was ahead of Tallant Tubbs, wet Republican, who beat Senator Shortridge in the primaries. It was McAdoo who swung California and Texas to Roosevelt in the Democratic national convention, gaining the vice presidential nomination for Speaker John N. (Cactus Jack) Garner.

In Iowa, Louis Murphy, dripping wet Democrat, in the incomplete figures was leading by a substantial margin, Henry Field, the Shenandoah nurseryman and radio merchant who defeated Senator Brookhart in the Republican primaries. In one-half the Iowa precincts Murphy was leading Field by more than 40,000. Brookhart, running as independent, was trailing far behind, getting less than 5 per cent of the vote so far.

Duffy Ahead of Chapple.

Wisconsin elected a Democrat to the senate, F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac. In one-fourth of the precincts Duffy was running 3 to 2 ahead of John B. Chapple, Republican editor of Ashland. In the primaries Chapple gave Wisconsin a seismic upheaval by defeating Senator John J. Blaine, one of the kingpins of the La Follette camp. After the primaries the La Folletteites swung to the Democratic side.

In Missouri Bennett C. Clark, Democratic candidate for senator, was leading his Republican opponent, Henry W. Kiel, by more than two to one in the incomplete returns.

Senator George McGill, Democrat, of Kansas, was leading Ben S. Paulen, Republican, former governor. McGill is the Democrat who two years ago defeated Henry Allen, ex-senator, ex-governor, and close friend of President Hoover, for Vice President Charles Curtis' old seat in the senate.

In Vermont Senator Porter H. Dale, Republican, whose attitude on the liquor question was styled "evasive" by the organized wets, was running ahead of his Democratic opponent, Fred C. Martin, in the early returns. Dale—ten years in the house, ten in the senate—was regarded as the likely winner in rock-ribbed Republican Vermont.

In the early returns from Maryland Senator Millard E. Tydings, militant wet Democrat, was running two to one ahead of Wallace Williams, Republican.

First returns from South Dakota gave Senator Peter Norbeck, Republican, an indicated lead over U. S. G. Cherry, Democrat.

One senate seat was captured by the Democrats in New Jersey, for the unexpired term caused by the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow. Returns from one third of the precincts gave a 30,000 lead to Percy H. Stewart, Democrat, over Senator W. Warran Barbour, Republican, who was appointed last December to fill the vacancy.

In North Dakota Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican, was leading his Democratic opponent, P. W. Lanier.

Returns on House Slow.

House returns were late, but those already tabulated showed that elected to the new house were 55 Democrats and 15 Republicans catalogued in the reports of wet organizations as being for repeal, 9 Democrats and 3 Republicans for submission, while the views of 22 others had not been obtained.

The wet revolt reached astonishing proportions in the corn belt congressional contests. In the incomplete returns from Iowa—former rockribbed Iowa—Democrats, all wets, were in the lead in seven out of the nine districts. In the present congress Iowa has only one Democrat.

In Illinois, incomplete returns gave leads to Democrats, all wets, for 23 of the 27 seats in the house. In the present congress the Illinois Democrats have 12 members of the house.

La Guardia Is Washed Out.

In New York the Democratic wave ran high enough to wash out F. H. La Guardia from his seat in the house. He supported Senator Brookhart in his last Iowa fight. Ruth Pratt, Republican, only woman member of the New York delegation, likewise was left by the way.

Connecticut has sent a Democrat, Francis T. Maloney, mayor of Meriden, on the basis of incomplete returns, to fill the seat of John Q. Tilson, former Republican floor leader, who was not a candidate this time.

RELIEF AT LAST! FROM PILES!

Yes, no more suffering! No more pain, strain or itching. No more torture at the stool. No matter what form of Piles you suffer from—genuine relief for you is at hand in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo stops the pain and itching at once. More, it actually tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. For Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus, it not only allays the inflammation and repairs sore and torn tissue, but it actually reduces the swollen blood vessels which Piles are. Thousands say that Pazo is the only thing that ever gave them real relief from Piles. Thousands say that it saved them the need of a painful operation. The method of application (see picture below) makes Pazo doubly effective. Try Pazo yourself and see that it means the end of your suffering. All first-class drug stores sell Pazo in Collapsible Tubes with Perforated Pile Pipe, complete for 75c.

Perforated Pile Pipe Attached to Collapsible Tube Makes Application Correct and Easy

The PAZO Collapsible Tube and Perforated Pile Pipe makes it very easy to apply the Ointment high up in the rectum where it can reach and thoroughly cover all the affected parts. Complete interior treatment in all cases of Piles is plainly important.

Look 10 Years Younger Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair for your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

HOOVER HEARS RETURNS AT HIS PALO ALTO HOME

President Appears Calm in Face of Defeat.

Palo Alto, Cal., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—President Hoover conceded the election and sent to Gov. Roosevelt the following telegram of congratulation:

"I congratulate you on the opportunity that has come to you to be of service to the country. I wish you a most successful administration. In the common purpose of all of us, I dedicate myself to every possible helpful effort."

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palo Alto, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—President Hoover tonight sat in his home on Leland Stanford university campus and grimly, but without complaint, listened to the election returns ending his hope of another four years in the White House.

Sitting with but two or three friends in the study, he chewed at his cigar and saw the reports from state after state slowly wear away the hope that his record in office would be vindicated by the ballots of the nation.

Relatives and Friends Present.

In honor of the President's homecoming relatives and friends were invited in for dinner. But the President left the table early. Other friends, members of the Stanford faculty, and their families dropped in. Blackboards were set up in the low oak beamed living room. On them were the names of states with double columns in which the changing returns were listed. Except for a casual glance by some newcomer, the blackboards were neglected. Perhaps their story was too cheerless. It was politer to gossip and chat as one would at home. From the flat roof of the low, rambling house modeled on the simple lines of a Hopi Indian dwelling searchlights beat down—a precautionary measure installed at the instigation of the secret service. They lit the gardens about the home, the lawns, the pergola, and the blue tiled pool.

Below lay the valley, sprinkled with lights. In the front drive newspaper men and camera men gossiped and chatted. It wasn't politeness with them—just business.

Sends Roosevelt Message.

And up on the second floor, where the lamplight crept out between the drawn curtains, a President defeated for reëlection was listening to the fateful words coming to him over leased wires from New York and Chicago campaign headquarters and from the White House at Washington. In addition from a press association wire and a telegraph in the basement of the house were coming bulletin after bulletin telling of the mounting Roosevelt tide.

Nine o'clock, Pacific time, came. There wasn't much use keeping up hope longer. Another bulletin and still another. A message from Chicago. One from New York. Even Kansas was showing a Roosevelt plurality.

Nine-thirty came. The President looked up and sighed. He nodded grimly. Four minutes later the message to Gov. Roosevelt at the Biltmore hotel in New York was on its way.

Students Cheer President.

Then into the curtained room a sound of trampling feet and murmuring voices made its way. Stanford had not forgotten its most famous son. In the courtyard a thousand boys and girls were gathered. Four years ago they had gathered so to send up a shout of triumph.

Tonight, it was a defeat. But the cheer went up just the same. "Siss, boom, ah—Hoover!"

A French window pushed open and President and Mrs. Hoover walked out on to the terrace. A movie photographer fired his magnesium flare and the blinding white light filled the courtyard, enveloped the two figures up above, and the thronging students below.

"All I can do is to thank you for this demonstration of fine loyalty," said the President.

"Hoover, Hoover, Hoover."

The cheers and the billowing smoke of the flares towered up into the dark purple of the California sky.

Sing, "Hail, Stanford, Hail."

The President and Mrs. Hoover waved once more and went in.

The flares burned out. Still the students stood there.

They began softly. The chorus swelled.

"Hail, Stanford, Hail," they sang. Then they, too, drifted away.

And still the wires ticked on, spelling out a tragic sequel to a last dramatic day, which had seen the President arrive in his California home to cast his ballot in person.

Hopes were high late in the afternoon when S. D. Townley, inspector of elections for the Stanford university precinct, stuffed a large brown piece of paper into the slot cog of the ballot box and announced firmly:

"Herbert Hoover has voted."

He took another brown ballot, stuffed it in the slot and announced, "Lou Henry Hoover has voted."

The President arrived in Sacramento early this morning.

Lashes Hearst Press.

He was met there by Gov. "Smiling Jim" Rolph. He was met there, too, by the whirling atmosphere of an old-fashioned campaign that has set brother against brother here in California.

The President immediately accepted the challenge. In a speech at the station he vigorously denounced what he said were false "insults" directed by the Democrats at him personally. Then he went on:

"And that leads me to make a remark on the conduct of this campaign in California. There has been unceasing untruth and misrepresentation in some of the press of California, and particularly by the press of W. R. Hearst. One would have thought that the President of the United States, coming from California was a monster. If Hearst represented the ideals and the character of California he would have been President long ago."

Thousands Cheer President.

There was a parade through the state capital. But the real demonstration took place at San Francisco. At Oakland the presidential party descended from the train and crossed famous San Francisco bay by ferry. Planes roared overhead, boats whistled, the guns of the army post banged, and a fire boat went completely enthusiastic and turned a half dozen spouting jets of water into the air.

By automobile the procession went up San Francisco's Market street. The curbs were lined solid. There was goodly cheering. At the civic center a stop was made. The President appeared on the high balcony of the city hall.

"I accept this welcome," he said, "not as President of the United States, but as a Californian returning to his home state."

The motorcade started for Palo Alto. The 30 mile route was lined with people waiting to see the President go by. The schools were turned out and at South San Francisco, Burlingame, San Mateo, Belmont, San Carlos, Redwood City and Atherton momentary stops were made that the cheering children might get a better look at their President.

Then into Palo Alto. The President's home town was a town gone beside itself. Its streets were jammed. Its throats were bursting with yells of welcome home.

From the city hall, where the President and Mrs. Hoover were greeted by Mayor Earl C. Thomas, they drove into the Stanford university campus. The procession was all but submerged in the crowd, hurrying like a school of fish, to be on hand.

Acting President Robert Swain of Leland Stanford welcomed the President and Mrs. Hoover on behalf of the university. A pretty girl and a young man with a football bruise on his nose welcomed them on behalf of the student body.

HOOVER'S EASTERN CAMPAIGN MANAGER CONCEDES DEFEAT

New York, Nov. 9.—[Wednesday.]—[Special.]—United States Senator Felix Hebert, eastern campaign manager for the National Republican committee, issued a statement at 1 a. m. today.

"The great body of the electorate of the country has spoken," he said. "We, who have been faithful to the Republican cause, bow to the whim of the majority. After all, that is the spirit of America. President Hoover is no less magnificent in defeat than he has been in his victory against the forces of depression. It remains for every citizen of our country to wish unbounded success to the President that is to be and to express the hope that his administration will meet the most sanguine expectation of his supporters."

Vare Fails to Carry His Own Ward for Hoover

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—William S. Vare, veteran Republican leader of Philadelphia, lost his own ward, the 26th, Roosevelt carrying it over Hoover by a majority of 2,941. Lawrence Rupp, the Democratic candidate for United States senator, also carried the ward over Senator Davis by a majority of 2,298.

VERMONT STICKS TO G. O. P.; LOSES BY COMPARISON

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Complete returns from Vermont in today's election showed the usual Republican majority for President, governor, United States senate and congress. Final returns from the state's 248 cities and towns gave Hoover, 77,665; Roosevelt, 54,751.

Hoover's vote was nearly 13,000 less than he received in the 1928 election in this state, while Roosevelt's was approximately 14,000 more than the Democratic vote of four years ago.

Ernest W. Gibson, Republican, who will occupy Vermont's lone congressional seat after March 4, polled the highest vote in any of the four contests, 84,428 against 46,910 for his Democratic opponent, Joseph A. McNamara.

Gov. Stanley C. Wilson received 80,166 votes in his successful contest for reëlection against James P. Leamy, Democrat, who polled 47,863 votes.

The closest contest was that between Porter H. Dale, Republican, who was returned to the United States senate, where he has represented Vermont since 1923, and Fred C. Martin, Democrat. Dale received 72,975 votes as compared with 58,679 for Martin.

Near Death, Has His Wish; Gets to Vote for Roosevelt

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 8.—(AP)—James McDonald may not live much longer, physicians say, but he's had his wish.

The 83 year old Democrat who pleaded with physicians last week: "Don't let me die. I want to vote for Roosevelt," cast his vote for President today.

A short time after relatives took him from the hospital to the polls, he was returned to the hospital, however, and a serious operation performed.

25 WETS WIN ILLINOIS RACE FOR CONGRESS

Eight Drys Defeated in Downstate Fight.

Eight downstate Republican dry congressmen appeared to have been swamped by wet Democrats and the result of the Illinois election of congressmen appeared to be 25 wet and 2 dry early this morning. On the basis of incomplete returns the Democrats have captured at least 22 of the state's 27 congressional seats.

Leading with Richard Yates, congressman at large, the Republican drys who seem to have been overwhelmed by their opponents are Frank R. Reid, 11th district; John T. Buckbee, 12th; John C. Allen, 14th; Burnett M. Chiperfield, 15th; Homer W. Hall, 17th; William P. Holaday, 18th, and Charles Adkins, 19th.

Wets Gain Ten Seats.

The wets made a clear gain of 10 congressional seats, according to the Crusaders, who recommended wet candidates in each district except the 24th, where both Democratic and Republican candidates were dry. Two years ago the drys elected 15 of the 27 Illinois congressmen and the party division two years ago was: Democrats, 14; Republicans, 13.

The two winners of the list endorsed by the Anti-Saloon league are Leo Allen, Republican in the 13th district, and Claude V. Parsons, present Democratic congressman of the 24th district.

Cook county made a clean sweep of wet candidates, every one of the candidates of the major parties in the 10 districts having the indorsement of the Crusaders.

The list of probable winners was as follows:

The vote on congressmen at large in 1,674 precincts out of 7,211 in the state was: Brennan [D.], 354,613; Nesbit [D.], 350,850; Yates [R.], 235,558; Klein [R.], 233,955.

Early figures in the 11th district were as follows: 15 precincts in Will county: Reid, 2,053; Howell, 3,379. Two precincts in Du Page county: Reid, 282; Howell, 14. Three precincts in McHenry county: Howell, 526; Reid, 234. Five precincts of Elgin: Reid, 1,202; Howell, 1,034. Fifteen precincts of Kane county: Reid, 2,506; Howell, 4,059. Of the Kane county figures ten precincts were from Aurora, Reid's home town, where the vote was: Reid, 1,700; Howell, 3,101.

Results in Other Districts.

In the 12th district Linscott had 958 in the first 6 precincts and Buckbee had 898.

In the 14th district 9 precincts gave: Allen 1,995, Thompson 2,185.

In the 15th district, 8 precincts of Knox county gave Chiperfield 1,333 and Adair 1,551; 37 of 53 precincts in Adams county gave Chiperfield 3,766 and Adair 10,446.

In the 17th district 64 of 198 precincts gave Gillispie, 14,321; Hall, 10,834.

In the 18th district 6 precincts of Holaday's own county, Vermilion, gave Holaday, 1,980; Meeks, 2,232. In Clark county 6 of 21 precincts gave Holaday, 1,359; Meeks, 1,605. Holaday's only hope was a strong vote in Kankakee county, the home territory of Small, the defeated candidate for governor.

In the 19th district Dobbins claimed that one-third of the precincts gave Dobbins, 23,155; Adkins, 16,464.

Congress at Large

WALTER NESBIT. MARTIN A. BRENNAN.

BRITTEN IS AHEAD, DE PRIEST LOSING IN CONGRESS RUN

Congressman Fred Britten of the Ninth district, veteran Republican member of the national house of representatives, who appeared to be losing to his Democratic opponent, James McAndrews, in the early returns, crept ahead in the count at 5 o'clock this morning. Returns from 115 precincts out of 176 in the district gave Britten 25,015 votes and McAndrews 22,598. Congressman Oscar De Priest, Negro representative from the First district, was trailing his Democratic opponent, Harry Baker.

The result in the Tenth district was in doubt, County Commissioner Charles Weber, Democrat, having a lead over James Simpson Jr., Republican. Former Congressman M. A. "Leaky Trunk" Michaelson was pressing Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz strongly in the Seventh district.

All the Cook county candidates proclaimed themselves wet and were indorsed by the Crusaders, wet organization.

The indicated winners were the following:

First district—115 precincts out of 155 give: Baker [D.], 23,857; De Priest [R.], 27,703.

Second district—136 precincts out of 547 give: Schlaeger [D.], 31,023; Moynihan [R.], 41,824.

Third district—264 precincts out of 515 give: Kelly [D.], 58,493; Sproul [R.], 45,178.

Returns were slow in the 2d, 6th, 7th, and 10th districts, which take in territory outside the city of Chicago, the 10th district including all of Lake county where Simpson expected to poll a large vote.

Girl Day Under 21 Is Permitted to Vote

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Miss Edwina L. Crowen, Adelphi college student, won't be 21 until tomorrow, but she is voting today. She is casting her first ballot as the result of a decision handed down by an attorney general of New York state in 1898. Miss Crowen's registration at first was refused, but she retained an attorney, who found the old decision. The board of elections then accepted it.

HORNER DEFEATS LEN SMALL BY 525,000 VOTES

Entire Democratic State Ticket Is Swept In.

explained in some quarters by the fact that the interest of the voters had been concentrated on the presidency at the top of the ballot and the governorship which occupied third place, so that voting for the senatorship, which was second on the ballot, was overlooked.

No Ballot Record Broken.

The total vote apparently was less than had been expected. Experts will be surprised if it exceeds the total of 3,107,489 cast in the last preceding presidential year, 1928, although the belated returns were said to be those of the large precincts where the voting was heavy. On the face of incomplete figures a greater interest in the election was taken in Cook county than downstate as the "upstate" vote was the larger of the two. Each cast about 1,500,000 votes.

Minor Parties Dwindle.

The minor parties—Socialist, Farmer-Labor, communist, and Prohibition—failed to live up to the predictions in this state. It was estimated that they had not cast 3 per cent of the entire vote.

There was clear evidence of a wet sentiment in favor of the Democrats and there was proof that the defection among the normally Republican farmers had not been cured by any of the efforts of the national administration to placate them.

In Cook county, Democratic leaders pointed out that the Democratic sweep not only had piled up record breaking pluralities in Democratic wards but had cut in two some of the old Republican pluralities in wards in which Democratic nominees have been swamped in the past.

Democratic Gains Downstate.

Taking up the incomplete reports from downstate, the Democratic leaders pointed out that the Democrats not only had shown large increases in their vote in the southern one-third of the state, where all of Alfred E. Smith's counties of four years ago lie, but had made great inroads in the normally overwhelmingly Republican counties in the central and northern sections of the state.

They were loud in their declarations that the Roosevelt-Horner ticket had won not only in many counties carried by Hoover four years ago by narrow margins, but had even carried some of the counties which in 1928 gave Hoover pluralities from 10,000 upward.

The Republican banner counties four years ago, except for Cook, were Winnebago and Kane, giving the presidential nominee margins of 25,574 and 22,052, respectively. This year reports from Rockford, the big center of Winnebago, were that the Roosevelt-Horner ticket was holding its own and might carry the county. And observers in Aurora and Elgin said the same thing in Kane.

In the northeastern sector of the state—Lake and Du Page counties—went heavily normally Republican in 1928, but county leaders for both sides were in doubt last night as to how they had gone in this contest.

Note Democratic Swing.

Other strong Republican counties four years ago were Knox, McLean, Sangamon, Champaign, and Macon, all in the 10,000 plurality class, but the first reports from their big centers—Galesburg, Bloomington, Springfield, Champaign, and Decatur—was that there had been a big swing toward the Democartic side in the day's voting.

La Salle county was Republican in 1924 by 13,731 and remained in that column by 3,232 for Hoover four years ago, but this year it appears to have gone Democartic not only for Roosevelt and Horner but for most of the state ticket as well.

Kankakee county, the home county of Len Small, was doubtful territory four years ago when Small was not a candidate in the election—having been beaten in the primary—and it was said at the time that the "regulars" had proved irregular and had knifed the nominee, L. L. Emmerson, but yesterday's results tended to indicate that the defection was continuous and that the Republican plurality was slight.

Among the banner Democratic counties downstate, according to early analysis, were St. Clair, which includes East St. Louis, and its neighbor, Clinton county. Madison, another large county on the river to the north, was said to have switched from Republican to Democratic.

Small Trails on Ticket.

The fight between Senator Glenn and his Democratic opponent, Congressman William H. Dieterich, was considered much closer than the governorship contest. Glenn ran at least neck and neck with President Hoover everywhere, it was said, and in some counties ahead of him. Nowhere did he suffer from the scratching that dragged Small down.

Stratton, with a wide acquaintance due to his four years in the office of secretary of state, and a record of aloofness from fractional battles, also suffered less from scratching than did Small. Although originally a Small-Lundin man, he turned against Small four years ago, ran for secretary against Small's wishes, and defeated the Small slate candidate for the office. This record is said to have counted in his favor.

Two Chicago Republicans, Brooks, running for treasurer, and Northup, for attorney general, are both said to have suffered from the effects of the Small burden, largely because of Small's effort to stir up anti-Chicago hostility for his own benefit outside of Cook county. Brooks was the greater sufferer because his opponent, John C. Martin, comes from Salem, while Northup's opponent, Judge Otto Kerner, is a Chicagoan like Northup.

Yates Shows Some Strength.

A possible victory for one of the two Republicans running for congressman at large, Richard Yates, a dry, was hinted slightly in the early scores. In Chicago, however, it was said the prohibition question was an important factor in this four man contest, with the chances in favor of the two Democrats, Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington and Walter Nesbit of Belleville.

NEBRASKA GIVES ROOSEVELT LEAD; BRYAN IS AHEAD

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Nebraska, which has voted for Republican Presidents since 1916, swung toward the Democratic column tonight as Gov. Roosevelt took an early lead, and Democratic state candidates appeared to be running ahead. Gov. Bryan, Democrat, gained a lead of more than 100 for reelection in the first eight precincts over Dwight Griswold, Republican.

CHICAGOAN HELD AS BRAZIL REBEL WINS FREEDOM

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANERIO, Nov. 8.—A police passport visa will be issued to Orton Hoover of Chicago in time for him to sail Thursday for the United States on the Southern Cross. Intervention by Ambassador Morgan enabled Hoover to sail of his own accord and avoid deportation. Hoover, who was for several months an instructor in aviation for the state of Sao Paulo, has been held for several weeks in Brazil in connection with the recent rebellion in Sao Paulo.

BATTLES CLOSE IN 6 COUNTIES NEAR CHICAGO

Returns early this morning indicated close contests for the county offices in the territory near Chicago which is usually strongly Republican.

Will county appeared likely to remain in the Republican fold, although earlier indications had pointed to a Democratic trend. Returns from 58 out of 87 precincts gave William R. McCabe, Republican candidate for state's attorney, 16,454 votes, against 15,436 for his Democratic opponent, Francis J. Loughran. All other candidates on the Republican county ticket were in the lead.

Lake County Doubtful.

For the first time in forty years the Democrats placed a full county ticket in the field in Lake county and at midnight the choice of officials was in doubt.

The last Democratic official elected by Lake county was Sheriff A. F. Conrad, who was elected in 1892.

With 34 out of 75 precincts in, the Republican nominee for state's attorney of Lake county, Charles E. Mason, had 10,049 votes to 8,389 for William A. Deane, Democrat. In 31 precincts, however, Edward W. McDermott, Democrat, was leading Robert J. Pearsall for county auditor, 8,978 to 6,857. Several other county races were close.

In the 8th State Senatorial district, composed of Lake, Boone, and McHenry counties, Ray Paddock, Republican, was leading Leo Dailey, Democrat, 18,699 to 18,747, with 64 out of 120 precincts counted for state senator.

Carbary Leading in Kane.

With returns in from 78 of 81 precincts in Kane county, State's Attorney George D. Carbary was leading his Democratic rival, Clarence J. Ruddy, 26,378 to 25,239. The missing precincts were in Elgin, where Carbary ran almost 2 to 1 over Ruddy.

McHenry county seemed to be safe for the Republican nominees. Vincent S. Lumley, for state's attorney, was leading Connell McDermott, Democrat, 8,167 to 5,124 in 20 of a total of 31 precincts.

The reelection of C. W. Reed, state's attorney, over Joseph Perry, Democrat, was indicated in Du Page county. With 63 out of 78 precincts reported Reed had 17,502 votes against 15,890 for Perry. Other Republicans on the ticket also were leading.

In Kankakee county, with 10 out of 41 precincts counted, the Democratic candidate for state's attorney, Varnon Parrish, was leading T. R. Johnson, Republican, by 90 votes.

THE Forgotten Woman

WHO WANTS DISTINCTION IN HER CLOTHES

Stevens' vote was for the Forgotten Woman... the woman who has always believed in the economy of good quality, who has proved to herself time and again the value of dressing distinctively. There is no doubt about it, she has been having a hard time of it these last two years! She has had to hunt feverishly for the type of clothes to which she has been accustomed... looking for modern prices to fit her today's spending power ... and has found a sad dearth of choices.

Stevens' special talent lies in bringing to this woman the finer quality, the greater style sureness of a specialty shop . . . with the wider variety of a great store. As always, Stevens is ready with a superb collection of distinctive fashions . . . distinctive in smartness, in quality, in individual charm. And the prices are as low as you pay for ordinary fashions!

CIVIC LEADERS PROMISE TO AID NEW PRESIDENT

'Sure Country Isn't Going to the Dogs.'

Leading Chicagoans seemed generally of the opinion that the "country is not going to the dogs" when they were asked by reporters for THE TRIBUNE for comments on their views of the election of Roosevelt.

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western Railroad company, said: "The Democratic victory will be gracefully accepted by every one. We are going to make an honest and strenuous effort to aid the Roosevelt administration in bringing back prosperity."

Charles Sumner Pearce, president of the Colgate-Palmolive Peet company, celebrated the election at the Casino club. "This Democratic victory doesn't surprise me," he said. "If we have a Democratic President I'm for him. I don't believe the country is going to the dogs. My attitude we will make the best of the situation."

"Country Will Carry On."

Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said "I expected the Democratic landslide. I'm not at all worried. I never believed the threats made by either party. The country will carry on."

"I wish the Democrats luck," said Silas Strawn, who was one of the leaders in the Republican campaign. "There is a tough job ahead and I wish them success in handling it. I will do all I can to help."

The comment of A. W. Harris, banker and a Republican, was brief. He said, when informed of the Democratic victory: "Worse things than that could happen."

Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, former Vice President, had no statement to make.

"While I am a Republican and naturally disappointed at the result of the election, I am not one who believes that things will stay gloomy," said George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National bank. "Perhaps recovery might have been a little quicker if President Hoover had been reëlected, but the intelligence and determination of the American people will soon bring a change to better conditions anyhow. It is the duty of all to accept the new President as their President and do their utmost to bring better days."

Credits Dry Law Stand.

R. M. Shaw, attorney, said: "I attribute the election of Roosevelt in a large measure to the unequivocal and frank stand he took on the prohibition question and to the straddling position of the Republican platform. The prohibition stand gave the Democratic party an impetus it could have obtained in no other way. If Roosevelt remains true to his pledges and to his platform and repeals the 18th amendment, thus diverting the enormous income now received by bootleggers and gangsters to taxes, I think that his election will be very beneficial to the country."

"As a whole, I think that the election of Mr. Roosevelt will prove to be beneficial," said Arthur Cutten, grain and stock market operator. "If the public wanted a change and got it the result should be of benefit. I believe everything is well liquidated and believe conditions are improving anyway."

Pleased With the Outcome.

B. M. Winston, real estate broker, said: "The election of Roosevelt and Horner was the proper thing. I am highly elated with the results, both state and national."

"While the depression was a very large factor in the defeat of Mr. Hoover, the lack of unity between the congress and the President also was a contributing factor," said Dr. John Thompson, pastor of Chicago temple. "I feel that with the election of Mr. Roosevelt there will be unity between the President and the government which will do much to create confidence in the people."

Dr. John Timothy Stone, noted Presbyterian minister, said: "I voted for President Hoover, but I feel that we all ought to swing in line and assist the government in every way possible. I am particularly glad that Judge Horner was elected. I believe he will be a good governor."

Sure U. S. Won't "Go to Dogs."

"The election proved to be just what had been expected," declared Dr. James B. Herrick, physician. "I am sure the country won't go to the dogs because of it."

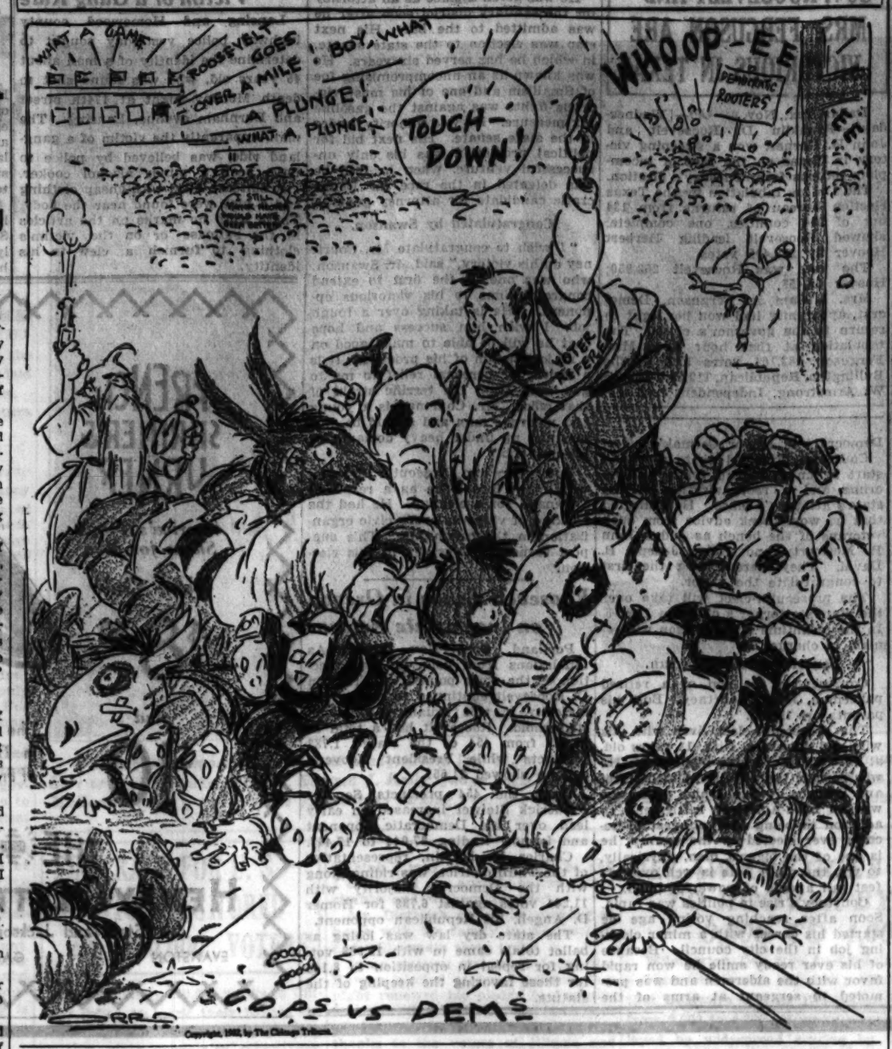
Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel, commented: "I am very happy over the Democratic victory. I sincerely hope that the country benefits because of it, and I feel that it will."

"I should say that Gov. Roosevelt's election gives to the executive and legislative branches of the government a unity very desirable," asserted Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago. "This expressed desire for unity is a clear mandate to go ahead. Every good citizen will accept the will of the majority and get behind the new President."

William J. Chalmers, retired manufacturer, declared: "I'm a Republican and I voted for President Hoover. I would rather have had the President reëlected, but I am not at all alarmed at the election of Gov. Roosevelt. We've got to stand up and face the situation in this country, and in doing that I don't believe that Mr. Roosevelt will make all the mistakes that have been predicted for him."

LOSES LIFE BY MOTOR FUMES.

Walter Schaak, 36 years old, a butcher, was found dead early yesterday in the garage at the rear of his home at 2837 Park place, Evanston. He had been repairing the car, police said, and was asphyxiated by the fumes from the exhaust.



ROOSEVELT'S MOTHER IS TOLD OF HIS SUCCESS

New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Some one told Mrs. James Roosevelt, the 78 year old mother of Franklin D. Roosevelt, tonight that she was the first woman since Mary Washington to see her son elected President of the United States.

Her rejoinder was: "You know, Franklin is only 50. He looks older tonight, but that's because he's tired."

After it became apparent that her son had been elected, Mrs. Roosevelt bade him good-night.

"I never thought particularly about my son being President," she said, "but, if he's going to be President, I hope he'll be a great one."

Jones of 5 and 10 Fame Loses His Seat in Senate

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 8.—Wesley Jones, author of the 5 and 10 prohibition law, lost his seat in the senate. He is trailing Homer Bone badly. Latest figures show Bone, 103,508; Jones, 60,085. The Democrats also elected Clarence D. Martin as governor. The latest figures on President are: Hoover, 82,262; Roosevelt, 129,580.

LOUISIANA VOTES TO REPEAL ENFORCEMENT OF STATE DRY LAW

New Orleans, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—If the same trend holds as shown on returns from approximately one-fifth of the precincts of the state the electorate of Louisiana has voted overwhelmingly to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act and to petition congress to repeal or modify the eighteenth amendment.

Ballots on the referenda were counted slowly tonight, but they represented returns from both the normally wet and dry areas of the state. Figures from 207 of the 1,190 precincts stood:

Repeal of state enforcement act—For, 47,397; against, 1,383.

To petition congress on the eighteenth amendment — For, 45,141; against, 2,293.

The majority for Roosevelt for President mounted to staggering heights, returns from 287 precincts of 1,452 standing: Roosevelt, 70,505; Hoover, 5,108; Thomas, 95; Al Smith, 1.

GOV. ROOSEVELT SLIGHTLY AHEAD IN COLORADO

Denver, Colo., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Split tickets gave Franklin D. Roosevelt a slight lead in the presidential race in Colorado tonight while Alva B. Adams, Democratic candidate for senator, trailed Karl C. Schuyler, Republican, on the basis of early returns.

The Denver vote on the presidency was close. Incomplete unofficial returns gathered before the polls closed in 147 city precincts gave Roosevelt 9,772, Hoover 9,443.

Fragmentary returns from outside Denver gave Roosevelt a lead of 2,105 to 1,799 in 16 precincts complete of 1,459 in the state.

Schuyler led Adams in 18 precincts reported complete, all outside of Denver, 2,363 to 2,154. In the contest for the short senatorial term Walter Walker, Democrat, had 1,751 votes in 18 precincts and Schuyler 1,742.

Edwin C. Johnson, Democratic nominee for governor, had better than a two to one lead over his Republican opponent, James D. Parriott. The count in 18 precincts was Johnson 4,264, Parriott 2,025.

COURTNEY LEADS DEMOCRATS TO A COUNTY VICTORY

Swanson May Lose by 425,000 Votes.

Zintak was successful over Jacob D. Allen, long a Deneen Republican leader who has managed many campaigns for that faction.

Coroner Frank J. Walsh was far in the lead over Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], a physician who campaigned under the slogan, "A Doctor for a Doctor's Job." Ald. Ross was backed by many of the professional men of the county but could not withstand the landslide.

Coroner Walsh was elected to his post by the county board following the resignation of former Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, who quit to become president of the board of health.

The three Democratic trustees of the sanitary district, Ross A. Woodhull, John J. Touhy, and J. L. Friedman, polled almost the same vote and easily defeated their opponents, former Alderman Guy Guernsey, Henry Nowak, west side realtor, and A. W. Komarek, who managed the district's real estate department until some months ago.

Counted on to Win.

Mr. Guernsey was another Republican who had been banked upon to win a place among the victors because of his favorable record in the city council. His supporters, however, found it impossible to stem the tide of opposition sentiment.

John E. Traeger, son of the former sheriff, was elected to a seat on the board of Cook county commissioners to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mayor Cermak. Traeger defeated Thomas I. Healy, west side druggist. With 1,800 precincts in Chicago heard from the vote was: Traeger, 443,833; Healy, 293,178.

The new commissioner was elected a county assessor in 1930 and had served little more than a year when the Kelly bill reorganizing the tax machinery was passed by the legislature early this year and his office abolished. Mr. Conroy, the successful candidate for clerk of the Circuit court, was another assessor so ousted. The successful county surveyor is Henry Riedl, who defeated the Republican nominee, O. A. Rogers.

Elected Sanitary District Trustees

VOTERS APPROVE 20 MILLION BOND ISSUE FOR RELIEF

Other Propositions on Ballot Win.

Illinois voters apparently voted overwhelmingly yesterday to fund the 20 million dollar state relief bond issue from gasoline tax revenue. Returns from Cook county and downstate precincts which were available at midnight indicated that the proposition carried 9 to 1. If it had failed the state tax rate for 1933 would have been almost doubled.

This money already has been spent by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in giving state-wide aid. To supply it, $18,750,000 worth of state tax warrants were sold and the remainder of the sum furnished from state funds. The warrants anticipated the collection of 1933 taxes. To make them good an additional 20 million dollars in taxes would have been levied that year, had not the bond issue been approved at the polls.

The bond issue proposition gives the state treasurer power to withhold from each county's allotments of cash collected under the gasoline tax act sufficient money to retire its pro rata share of the bonds and interest.

Two Other Propositions Win.

The two propositions printed on the large ballot also carried, the early returns indicated. The first of these is an amendment to the Illinois state constitution which will allow amendments to three articles of the constitution to be proposed to the general assembly during the same session, instead of one as at present. The amendments must then be submitted to the people for adoption or rejection at the following general election. The amendment apparently passed, 6 to 1.

The other proposition is an amendment to the banking act which will allow receivers of closed banks to pledge assets of such institutions for loans which are approved by Circuit court judges. It passed by a 7 to 1 vote.

Majority of Votes Required.

It was necessary for all three of these propositions to receive a majority of all the votes cast for members of the general assembly to assure their passage. The vote margin is sufficiently large to insure the passage of all three proposals.

The last proposition, an amendment to the Municipal court act, passed by the general assembly at its last session and submitted to referendum, was approved by Chicago voters, who alone are involved in the change. The amendment is designed to save $100,000 annually in the operation of the Chicago Municipal court and to expedite the hearing of both criminal and civil cases. The proposal carried 4 to 1 on the basis of 900 out of 3,029 precincts counted.

HANGS SELF IN SHED.

Litchfield, Ill., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Frank Lowman, 48, telegraph operator of Omaha, Neb., who had been visiting relatives in Wagoner, near here, hanged himself in a shed at his mother's home this afternoon.

DEMOCRATS LEAD IN SANITARY RACE BY A BIG MARGIN

The three Democratic trustees of the sanitary district, who were candidates for reelection, were swept into office yesterday along with the rest of the Democratic county ticket. The successful candidates are Ross A. Woodhull, John J. Touhy and J. L. Friedman. Early today they were leading their Republican rivals by nearly 170,000. The defeated Republicans are Guy Guernsey, Henry Nowak and A. W. Komarek. The vote from 2,089 out of 3,522 precincts in Cook county follows:

DEMOCRATS.		REPUBLICAN.
Touhy	507,344	Guernsey	360,553
Friedman	501,650	Nowak	367,752
Woodhull	530,037	Komarek	296,916

Guernsey, who war the leading vote getter of the Republican trio, is a former Chicago alderman. Nowak is a west side realtor and Komarek managed the sanitary district real estate department until recently.

DISAGREE OVER PLOT TO WRECK HOOVER'S TRAIN

Elko, Nev., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Railroad officials were in disagreement tonight as to whether two men frightened away from the Southern Pacific right of way near Palisade, Nev., last night had planned an attempt to wreck the special train speeding President Hoover across the great American desert to California.

Several sticks of dynamite were found near the place where Watchman Charles E. Fish surprised the men, one a Negro.

Otis Weeks, division engineer for the Southern Pacific, declared after an investigation that the two "undoubtedly had planned to wreck the Hoover train" by dynamiting an overhead crossing of the Western Pacific so that it would crash on the tracks below.

Weeks, who was riding the pilot engine preceding the President's special, conducted a careful examination of the entire vicinity after the pilot train had been flagged down by Fish.

No evidence was found, he said, to indicate that the bridge had been tampered with.

Both Daniel O'Connell, chief investigator, and A. A. Lowe, northern district inspector of transportation, said they found no evidence of an attempt to wreck the train.

Lowe, however, stated that twenty-two sticks of dynamite were found near the roadbed, while O'Connell said all that was found was an old stick of giant powder which had no caps or fuses attached and was not dangerous.

Blizzard Hits Nebraska, Iowa, Dakotas, Minnesota

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The Missouri river sections of northwest Iowa, northeast Nebraska, South Dakota, and southwestern Minnesota were in the grip of a northwest blizzard tonight.

COURTNEY VOWS SWIFT CLEANUP OF RACKETEERS

He's Youngest Prosecutor for Cook County.

Thomas J. Courtney, the youngest state's attorney ever elected in Cook county, announced last night that he is ready to come to grips at once with the gangsters and hoodlums of the community. He is 37 years old, by far the youngest man ever placed in charge of the prosecutor's office which has been termed by lawyers as the "biggest law office in the world."

"I certainly am very happy at the tremendous vote given to me," said Mr. Courtney. "As state's attorney of Cook county I intend to use the power and influence of that powerful office in a vigorous and energetic manner to give the people the administration which they have been demanding these many years.

"The gangsters and hoodlums must go. We are having a fair next year and this city must be cleaned up like it never has before. I promise to use every power at my command to clean up.

Promises Racket Cleanup.

"To the business men I wish to state that I intend taking very vigorous action to drive the racketeers out of the city. I intend to free business of this community from the curse of the racketeers."

Courtney said that he would make good on every promise he made during his campaign. He said he owed a debt of gratitude to the civic organizations which supported him, and that he would show them that their confidence was not misplaced.

The prosecutor-elect received congratulations of his friends and fellow Democrats in Mayor Cermak's office.

Courtney promised that he would start at once to plan for a war on crime and a reorganization of the state's attorney's office. He indicated that he would seek advice from such veterans of the bench as Judge John P. McGoorty and Judge Joseph B. David. They were among the first to congratulate the victor.

The prosecutor-elect will take over the state's attorney's office on Dec. 5. In the meantime Mr. Swanson will remain in charge.

Son of Retired Policeman.

Courtney is the son of a retired policeman, James Courtney. Both his parents are living.

The prosecutor-elect lives with his wife and daughter, Rita, 12 years old, at 7820 South Loomis boulevard. He was born in the vicinity of 29th street and Wallace avenue, which years ago was an Irish-American settlement. In addition to being the youngest prosecutor ever elected in the county, he is one of the biggest men, physically, to win the office. He is well over six feet tall and is of powerful build.

Courtney's rise in politics was rapid. Soon after reaching voting age he started his career with a minor clerking job in the city council. Because of his ever ready smile he won rapid favor with the aldermen and was promoted to sergeant at arms of the council. He studied law in his spare time.

He was given a place as an attorney for the sanitary district soon after he was admitted to the bar. His next step was election to the state senate, in which he has served six years. He was known as an uncompromising foe of Smallism and one of his most vigorous fights was against the gasoline tax measure. He was minority leader in the state senate. His next bid for political promotion was his only unsuccessful venture, when in 1928 he was defeated in the race for Democratic candidate for attorney general.

Congratulated by Swanson.

"I wish to congratulate Mr. Courtney on his victory," said Mr. Swanson, who was one of the first to extend congratulations to his victorious opponent. "He is taking over a tough job. I wish him success and hope that he will be able to make good on a major portion of his promises. It is a source of personal relief to me to get away from the terrific strain of that office. Mr. Courtney is a young and vigorous man and should be able to stand up under heavy demands of his new job."

Four years ago Prosecutor Swanson was swept into office as a result of a demand for a cleanup. He had the backing of virtually every civic organization in the community. This support turned to Courtney in this election.

GOV. ROOSEVELT AND MRS. FERGUSON ARE VICTORIOUS IN TEXAS

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 9.—(AP)—[Wednesday.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt and John H. Garner, won a sweeping victory in Texas on the face of incomplete returns from Tuesday's election.

The 1 a. m. tabulation by the Texas election bureau of returns from 134 out of 254 counties, one complete, showed Roosevelt leading Herbert Hoover by 212,495 votes.

The vote was Roosevelt 253,950; Hoover 34,455.

Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Democrat, apparently had won her fight to return to the governor's chair. The tabulation at that hour gave Mrs. Ferguson 183,104 votes and Orville Bullington, Republican, 119,560. George W. Armstrong, Independent had 465.

Roosevelt Leads in Oregon on Incomplete Returns

Portland, Ore., Nov. 8.—(AP)—As tabulations from polls in every section of the state poured in, Franklin D. Roosevelt continued to gather the majority in this usually Republican stronghold. Roosevelt had a total of 28,459 from 454 of the state's 1,733 precincts while President Hoover's column showed 21,551.

From the 454 precincts Senator Frederick Steiwer increased an early lead over his Democratic opponent and is now leading 27,044 to 17,447.

Charles H. Martin, representative of the Third district, was riding along with the Democrat majority with 11,244 votes against 6,738 for Homer D. Angell, his Republican opponent.

The state dry law was losing as ballot totals came in with 12,983 voting for repeal in opposition to 8,144 for those favoring the keeping of the statute.

Police Try to Identify Victim of a Gang Ride

Lansing and Homewood county highway police yesterday sought to determine the identity of a man about 45 years old, who was found shot to death Monday night at 174th street and Burnham avenue, Lansing. The man, apparently the victim of a gangland ride, was believed by police to have been a minor alcohol cooker.

A suitcase filled with cheap clothing and a pipe were found near the body. There were no marks on the articles in the suitcase or on the victim's clothing to furnish a clew to his identity.

BRITISH BANKER'S SON FOUND DEAD ON TOP OF TRAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The body of Richard Francis Kindersley, third son of Sir Robert Kindersley, former governor of the Hudson's Bay company and a director of the Bank of England, was found in strange circumstances on the top of a train early today. Head wounds were evident.

Sir Robert explained that his son had been in an automobile accident in Surrey yesterday, which had apparently caused a severe concussion. He said he does not suspect foul play.

MISS SHARKIN'S A BIT INFORMAL IN HER ATTIRE

Miss Helen Sharkin, 37 years old, 2468 Blue Island avenue, left a party at 2829 South Kolin avenue, early yesterday in search of her missing friend, Anton Stronbach, 39 years old, 2638 West 34th street, who had gone home. She neglected to don conventional searching attire, and roamed the neighborhood clad only in her underclothes. Her plaintive screams for the fugitive Stronbach roused the neighbors, who called Lawndale police.

They took her back to the home of her host, Joseph Zazac, 38 years old, where she was urged to put on her outer clothing. With Zazac and William Brindansky, 37 years old, 1538 South 56th court, Cicero, Miss Sharkin was taken to the Lawndale station. All three were released when Brindansky and Zazac explained that Miss Sharkin was merely a bit thoughtless.

HOOVER CARRIES NEW HAMPSHIRE BY 2,500 VOTES

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 9 [Wednesday].—(AP)—President Hoover carried New Hampshire in yesterday's election and United States Senator George H. Moses, president pro-tem of the senate, was defeated, final tabulations of returns today showed. The figures were:

President—Hoover, 103,185; Roosevelt, 100,621.

Senate—Moses [R.], 95,807; Brown [D.], 96,917.

Roosevelt Leads Hoover in Montana Voting

Helena, Mont., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Pointing strongly toward the Democratic banner in the presidential race, but with the Republican candidate for governor running well ahead of President Hoover, Montana presented tonight its usual independence of party lines. In 83 precincts out of 1,443, Roosevelt was given 11,548 votes, Hoover 7,394. In 61 precincts, Gov. Erickson's total was 7,969, Hazel Baker's 7,589.

Election Judge Stricken at Polling Place; Dies

Magnus Olsen, 59 years old, a Democratic election judge in the 22d precinct of the 42d ward, died yesterday of heart disease in the polling place at 402 North Clark street. Olsen lived at 116 West Austin avenue. Victor Sullivan, a tenant of the building in which the polling place was situated, was sworn in by the board of election commissioners to take Olsen's place.

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man."

To lose fact SAFELY and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, cut down on fatty meats and starches.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any druggstore in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. All good druggists will be glad to supply you.

HORNER GIVES A VICTORY PLEDGE: TO RULE FOR ALL

Attributes His Big Vote to an Aroused Public.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Henry Horner, next governor of Illinois, gay with victory, grave with the responsibility of that victory, has laid but one limitation on this interview.

"Don't paint me as a hero; picture me as a man."

It is not an unpleasant task.

Late last night, after weeks of campaigning that would have made many a candidate crabby; after hours of congratulations that would have made many a politician pompous, Judge Henry Horner was still the same quiet, friendly fellow he was when he started out to lick Len Small.

An Aroused Public.

That he licked him is no surprise to Governor-elect Horner. That the licking was so large pleases the victor, but also moves him to pledge:

"I have a responsibility, not only to the party, but to the public. For it is the public, aroused and militant, who gave me the big vote."

But even if the Republicans had not, in determined hundreds, cast their ballots for him, Illinois' new governor would have felt an obligation to the entire state, regardless of political party.

"Any man or woman" he declared last night, "who goes into office at this critical time, has a responsibility to the public, and I mean the whole public, Democrat, Republican, Socialist, or whatever party. This is no time for solo work, however brilliant. This is the time for coördination. Any winning candidate, I say it solemnly, who doesn't put his duty to the public above his duty to his party is either a shirker or a traitor."

No Illusions About His Job.

Judge Horner proposes to be neither a shirker nor a traitor. He has no illusions that his path will be strewn with roses the next four years.

"It's a big job," he predicted, and he sounded just a little weary.

"But nothing is burdensome," he instantly added, "that we do willingly," and he didn't seem the least bit weary.

As a matter of fact he doesn't know whether or not he's tired. He feels just the same as he did three weeks ago when he was in the midst of the campaigning which he carried into 99 of Illinois' 102 counties.

Telegrams, confident of victory, began pouring into his office long before the polls had closed. And telephone calls. And flowers.

Judge Horner, himself, made a long distance telephone call to New York early last evening.

"Congratulations, that's fine," he shouted into the wire, to the man who was then being elected next President of the United States.

"That's fine, yourself. Congratulations," Franklin D. Roosevelt called back.

Two Problems to Lick.

"Yours is the major problem," Mr. Horner continued. "Mine is the minor problem. But we're both going to attack it, and we're going to lick it."

"Indeed yes," Mr. Roosevelt replied. "Come and see me soon."

As the crowds rushed in about him, wherever he went, he met them, not as a crowd, but as individuals.

To the earnest man who asked about unemployment relief, he paused to promise that "one of the first things I shall do, after my inauguration, is to consider the problem of unemployment relief. But even more urgent is the need for thoughtful, nonpolitical consideration of unemployment. Our people don't want free bread, they want the opportunity to buy their bread."

To the enthusiastic woman who gushed, "My dear judge, every single soul I know voted for you," he bantered, "Everybody who had a soul, you mean."

And to the people of the third largest state in the union he said, "I will be the governor of all the state and of every person in the state."

Have we made him a hero or a man?

Dieterich Thanks Voters.

William H. Dieterich, elected to the United States senate, last night issued a brief statement of thanks to those who made his success possible.

"My election," he said, "is indicated in the reports I have received. I wish to deliver my heartfelt thanks to all those who voted for me. I desire also to thank the newspapers, and especially THE TRIBUNE, for the fairness with which they presented my case to the electorate.

"Senator Glenn has my deep appreciation for the fine campaign he made. I think I may fairly say that he and I conducted our appeals to the voters cleanly and without rancor."

Mr. Dieterich spent the evening at home with his family in Beardstown and will remain there today.

In an election statement Judge Otto Kerner, elected attorney general, last night renewed his pledge to "administer the office honestly, fearlessly, and efficiently." Mr. Kerner expressed his thanks to the voters of Illinois and added his appreciation of the manner in which his opponent, John E. Northup, had conducted his campaign.

FIND RACE FOR U. S. SENATOR IGNORED BY 100,000 VOTERS

Approximately 100,000 voters in Chicago failed to mark their ballots for United States senator, and, judging by this, state candidates other than governor were likewise neglected.

It was evident as the count progressed and the returns for the first 1,000 precincts were received, that the senatorial candidates were falling behind the heads of the tickets. In the first 1,000 Chicago precincts the vote was as follows:

PRESIDENT.
Roosevelt [D.]	267,890
Hoover [R.]	160,868
Total	428,958
GOVERNOR.
Horner [D.]	282,830
Small [R.]	143,609
Total	426,439
U. S. SENATOR.
Dieterich [D.]	231,400
Glenn [R.]	165,318
Total	396,718

There are 3,029 precincts in the city. Thousands of voters went to the polls with clippings of newspaper preferences and using these as a guide voted for Hoover or Roosevelt, and Horner or Small, apparently disregarding some other candidates, election experts said.

"The voters apparently concentrated on the key candidates and were so intent on these that they forgot the senatorial candidates and probably some of the ones following the heads of the tickets," said County Judge Jarecki, who is in charge of the election machinery.

SUNDAY MOVIES VICTORIOUS IN OAK PARK VOTE

By a heavy majority the voters of Oak Park yesterday approved the opening of Sunday motion picture shows in the suburb. The vote was 16,725 for and 12,351 against the Sabath shows, with only 6 of 42 precincts missing. Three previous votes on the proposition had resulted in victory for the Sunday closing advocates. In 1925 the vote was 4,266 for and 11,041 against. Sunday opening was also voted down in 1920 and 1923.

DELAWARE GOES TO HOOVER BY 3,000 TO 4,000

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Observers early tonight predicted that Delaware will go Republican by from 3,000 to 4,000. Returns were delayed by widespread cutting by the voters. A prominent Republican from Sussex county at about 9 o'clock predicted that Sussex county will give 3,000 majority for the Democratic party and in Kent county the majority for the same party will reach 2,000.

Fifty districts out of 226 gave Hoover 7,671, Roosevelt 5,973.

Wilmington and rural New Castle county will go Republican, it was estimated by Thomas W. Peeney, secretary of the department of elections. He said the Republican party will turn in a majority of approximately 12,000 in Newcastle county to overcome the 5,000 lead given by the two lower counties.

He predicted that the entire state and national ticket will be elected by the Republican party.

CITY DEMOCRATIC LEADERS ACCEPT VICTORY CALMLY

Vote Winners Gather in Mayor's Office.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Leaders of the Illinois, Cook county and Chicago Democracy took their victory in a spirit of calmness last night. In the party headquarters at the Hotel Sherman and in Mayor Cermak's office at the city hall, they gathered—sober faced at first, but as the evening advanced and their margin of victory began to widen their attitude relaxed into geniality.

Even in the moments of exuberance following the announcement that victory was assured, there was little of the whoopee making generally associated with overwhelming political victories. There was hand shaking and back slapping aplenty, but in general the party leaders maintained an air of dignity throughout their public and semi-public appearances, leaving the more uproarious celebrating to lesser members of the Democracy and to the winners of election bets.

Gather in Cermak's Office.

Early in the evening the newly elected officials began dropping into Mayor Cermak's office. Among the first to arrive was Thomas J. Courtney, who defeated John A. Swanson, the Republican incumbent, in the contest for state's attorney.

Sitting in the mayor's chair, surrounded by Democratic supporters, Courtney delivered two brief addresses over the radio. After him came Thomas F. Donovan, the newly elected lieutenant governor, and Judge Otto Kerner, who had just won the battle for attorney general. Mayor Cermak also spoke twice.

Democratic judges, politicians, and business men gradually swelled the crowd in the mayor's office. John John P. McGoorty, Judge Joseph B. David, Melvin A. Traylor, and many others appeared to offer their congratulations to the successful candidates and the party leaders.

Mayor Sees Trade Revival.

"The people of the United States have been aching for this chance to express themselves on the manner in which our government has been conducted in the last four years," Mayor Cermak said. "With a Democratic President, a Democratic senate, and a Democratic house we will have a chance to prove our assertion that we know how our government should be run. We will take legislative measures in the state and in the nation which will tip the flywheel of business off dead center."

Across the street in the Hotel Sherman the jubilant Democrats set off a display of fireworks about the time the theater crowds were beginning to go home. Strings of firecrackers a yard long were hung out of the windows and ignited, while flaming torches cast a red glow upon the walls of the building.

After leaving the city hall Mayor Cermak went to the Congress hotel, where there was another gathering of party leaders, and at a later hour the Democratic chiefs assembled in the Illinois Athletic club for a victory supper.

DEMOCRATS VICTORS IN MOST STATES IN RACES FOR GOVERNOR

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Democratic victory in a big majority of the thirty-five gubernatorial contests was indicated early today on the basis of incomplete returns.

The Democrats had elected six of their candidates and were leading in twenty-two other states shortly after 1 a. m. eastern time.

Republicans had won definitely in but one state and were leading in three others. Gov. Stanley C. Wilson of Vermont, Republican, was reelected.

The Democratic governors elected are J. M. Futrell in Arkansas; George White in Ohio, Wilbur H. Cross in Connecticut, Eugene Talmage in Georgia, Joseph B. Ely in Massachusetts and Herbert Lehman in New York. Louis J. Brann was elected Democratic governor in Maine in September.

The thirty-five governorships are now filled by eighteen Democrats; fifteen Republicans and one Farmer-Labor.

Republicans were leading in Kansas, New Hampshire and Wyoming.

Democrats led in Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Indiana, Illinois, Idaho, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Paul V. McNutt, Democrat, had a substantial lead over Raymond S. Springer in Indiana for a governorship now filled by a Republican. Henry Horner was far in the van of Len Small, Republican, in Illinois, indicating another turnover.

Out in Wisconsin, A. G. Schmedeman, Democrat, jumped into the lead over Walter J. Kohler, Republican who defeated Gov. La Follette in the primaries.

MAINE RETURNS TO G.O.P.; HOOVER LEADS BY 37,000

Roosevelt Increases Vote of Party in 1928.

Portland, Me., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Maine swept back into the Republican column tonight after the Democratic victory in the state election two months ago, but with a majority greatly reduced from that of four years ago.

With only 31 scattered precincts out of 632 missing and most of those of small voting strength the count was, Hoover, 160,102; Roosevelt, 121,894.

Democrats Break Through.

The complete vote four years ago: Hoover, 179,923; Smith, 81,179.

The Democrats broke through to carry Androscoggin county, home of Democratic Governor Elect Louis J. Brann, 14,464 to 9,819, while the best they could do in that comparatively strong Democratic section in 1928 was to come within 300 votes of the Republicans.

Roosevelt made inroads in every county and carried the cities of Biddeford, Lewiston, Old Town, and Waterville. Old Town returned a majority of less than 200 for Hoover four years ago, while the others went Democratic at that time also.

Thomas Increases 1928 Vote.

Four of the 16 counties in Maine—Cumberland, Penobscot, Piscataquis, and Lincoln—gave 553 votes for Norman Thomas, Socialist, in today's presidential election. The same counties gave Thomas 237 votes in 1928.

FALLS DEAD AT ELECTION.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Patrolman Norvell Willis, 40, of the local police department fell dead today during election excitement in the Triangle Negro district where city and county officers were on duty to keep peace at the polls.

INDIANA SWINGS TO ROOSEVELT; WATSON BEATEN

Democrats Get State and County Offices.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Indiana has apparently voted Democratic in a national election for the first time since 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt Progressives split the normal Republican vote.

Not only has Gov. Franklin Roosevelt apparently carried Indianapolis, and Marion, the key county, but also most of the larger cities and counties of the state.

Ticket Is Swept In.

The Roosevelt swing carried in the entire Democratic ticket, including Paul V. McNutt, Bloomington, dean of the Indiana Law school for governor to succeed the Republican Gov. Harry G. Leslie and also all Democratic candidates for state offices not captured in the Democratic victory in Indiana in 1930.

The Democratic county tickets also were generally victorious. Incomplete returns indicate the Democrats not only strengthened their control of the Indiana house of representatives, but also have taken command of the Indiana senate. The Indiana legislature now elected meets in January.

In 1,370 of the state's 3,691 precincts Roosevelt had 378,464, Hoover 307,142, while Senator J. E. Watson conceded the election of Frederick Van Nuys as United States senator. Van Nuys in 814 precincts polled 270,235, while Watson got 211,233 votes.

McNutt for governor in 770 precincts led his Republican rival, Raymond Springs. The vote cast was: McNutt, 255,135; Springer, 205,934.

State Vote Sets Record.

Indiana cast a record vote today. From dawn on through the twelve hours the polls were open Hoosierdom's ninety-two counties without exception reported throngs waiting in long lines. Voters usually balloted quickly, indicating little scratching.

Personal visits to Indiana the last few weeks of both President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt, and persistent verbal bombardments from batteries of cabinet members, former cabinet members and other party bigwigs attracted to the polls many persons, particularly women, who never had voted before.

Klan Charges Made.

Two attempts at revival of the Ku Klux Klan prejudices that dominated Indiana politics not so long ago were reported. Republican workers here, allegedly distributing Klan literature, were assailed by what they described as "Democratic thugs." A fiery cross was burned in downtown Rochester by fifty robed klansmen, who denounced communism and prohibition repeal. The Anti-Saloon league, also a one time political power in Indiana, cut little figure in this autumn's campaign.

Terre Haute, Muncie, Evansville, Lake county and Negro precincts here, in years past trouble centers, were reported quiet by federal and county officials checking possible fraud attempts.

Hoover's School Teacher Among Early Voters

West Branch, Ia., Nov. 8.—(AP)—President Hoover's elementary school teacher, Mrs. Mollie Brown Carran, was among the first to vote for him here today. Mrs. Carran, a guest of the President when he opened his campaign in Des Moines, also sent a message of encouragement to the chief executive. First at the polls here was Mrs. Jennie Scellars, owner of the house in which the President was born.

ROOSEVELT IS ASKED TO VISIT HOME TOWN OF COUSIN'S MOTHER

Roswell, Ga., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Electors of this little town, the home of Theodore Roosevelt's mother, voted 252 to 4 for Franklin D. Roosevelt today and then sent him the following telegram.

"The home of Theodore Roosevelt's mother gave you a vote of 252, Hoover, 4. We were honored by a visit by Theodore Roosevelt while President. Will you do us the honor by giving us a like visit on your next trip to the south? Congratulations.

"C. B. VAUGHAN,
"Mayor."

WATSON, G. O. P.'S SENATE LEADER, ADMITS DEFEAT

Offers to Help Van Nuys.

Rushville, Ind., Nov. 8.—(AP)—United States Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader in the senate, tonight conceded the election of Frederick Van Nuys, Democrat, as senator. Van Nuys, who is an Indianapolis attorney, favors repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the immediate modification of the Volstead act.

Senator Watson, who has been a figure in state and national government for thirty-eight years, sent a telegram of congratulation to Van Nuys after returns had been received from 742 of Indiana's 3,691 precincts.

Sends His Congratulations.

At that time Van Nuys had 251,544 votes to 195,577 for Senator Watson.

"I congratulate you on your election and offer my services to be of any assistance to you in any way I can," Senator Watson said in that message.

Senator Watson has been in the senate at Washington since 1916. He also served for many years in the house of representatives.

In 1928 he sought the Republican nomination for President at the national convention in Kansas City. Following the nomination and subsequent election of President Hoover, he was made majority leader in the senate.

Will Tell Plans Later.

Senator Watson celebrated his 68th birthday last week. He said tonight he would issue a statement regarding his future within a few days. He came to Rushville last night to vote and heard the results of the election at the residence of a friend.

Van Nuys has been a Democratic worker for thirty years.

He was in the Indiana senate in 1913 and 1915, was Democratic state chairman in 1918, and then was appointed by President Wilson as United States attorney.

Van Nuys was born at Falmouth, Rush county, Ind., April 16, 1874, is married, and has one son.

15 Voters Fall Into Cellar at Fall River Polling Place

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Fifteen voters and a policeman were dropped into the basement of a polling place here today when a portion of the floor collapsed. As a result, several went home without voting. The policeman helped the voters to climb to safety.

ROOSEVELT HAS MICHIGAN LEAD IN CLOSE RACE

Comstock Running Ahead of Gov. Brucker.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Michigan settled more firmly into the Democratic column early today as new returns failed to disturb leads built up in outstate precincts by Gov. Roosevelt and the Democratic nominee for governor, William A. Comstock.

When approximately one-third of the state's 3,417 voting precincts had reported, Roosevelt had a lead of 16,000 over President Hoover, and Comstock was running 34,000 votes ahead of the Republican incumbent, Wilber M. Brucker.

The returns included only 166 precincts of the 1,031 in Wayne county [Detroit], which Republicans admitted would be the source of the greatest Democratic strength.

In contrast with 1928, when Hoover carried every one of Michigan's 83 counties, incomplete returns from 40 counties showed Roosevelt ahead in yesterday's contest.

Returns at 2:30 a. m. left congressional races in doubt, most of the thirteen Republican incumbents being hard pressed. One, James, in the 12th district, held a substantial lead on returns from one-fifth of his district. Hart, the only Democratic representative from the state, was 3,000 votes ahead on returns from 76 of 190 precincts in the eighth. In the ninth district, McLaughlin, incumbent, trailed Musselwhite, his Democratic opponent, by 3,000 votes in 115 of 203 precincts. The margins in other outstate districts were smaller, and favored the Republicans.

Returns from upstate Michigan showed a heavy majority in favor of the repeal of the prohibition law by a majority of better than three to one. It had been predicted that this amendment would be beaten in the rural districts, but early returns failed to bear this out.

Report Yale Dean Offered Presidency of Princeton

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—No comment was forthcoming early today on reports that Dean Clarence W. Mendell of Yale college had been offered the presidency of Princeton university to succeed Dr. John Grier Hibben, resigned. Dean Mendell is at present in Rome on sabbatical leave of absence.

ENVOY TO GERMANY NOT ALLOWED TO CAST HIS KENTUCKY VOTE

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Ambassador and Mrs. Frederic M. Sackett of Louisville came all the way from Germany to vote and then discovered they were not entitled to cast their ballots because neither had registered under the new law.

When the case of Sackett, who is United States ambassador at Berlin, was explained at registration headquarters, Democratic attorneys agreed to waive objections, but there was no legal way for the Circuit judge to sign an authorization allowing him and his wife to vote.

ROOSEVELT WINS IOWA; MURPHY ALSO IN LEAD

Brookhart and Field Both Trail Wet.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The Des Moines Register, independent Republican newspaper, late tonight conceded that Gov. Roosevelt will carry the state.

Gardner Cowles, member of the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is publisher of the Register.

The concession followed that of H. G. Spangler, Cedar Rapids, Republican state central committee chairman, and was made on the basis of returns from 946 of the state's 2,435 precincts.

This partial total gave Hoover 165,038; Roosevelt, 227,415.

This is the first time since the civil war that the Iowa electorate has given a majority to a Democratic presidential candidate. In 1912 President Wilson received a plurality of the votes cast, but Roosevelt and Taft divided a three to two majority.

Louis Murphy, wet candidate of the Democratic party for the senate, is leading both Senator Smith W. Brookhart and Henry Field.

Returns from 716 precincts give Murphy, 135,803; Field, 101,704, and Brookhart, 9,119.

ESTIMATES $5,000,000 SPENT BY PARTIES FOR CAMPAIGN BROADCASTS

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Senator Clarence C. Dill of Washington, co-author of the radio act of 1927, estimated that 5 million dollars worth of radio time had been devoted to the presidential campaign.

Senator Dill said the cost of a nation-wide hookup over the NBC red network of 88 stations was $12,250 an hour; over the Blue network of 55 stations, $10,110 an hour; and over the Columbia chain of 91 stations, $15,600 an hour. He added that the three major parties spent $1,250,000 on national hookups alone.

2 Men One a Policeman, Fall Dead at Polls

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Election excitement here today caused two fatalities. After requesting precinct officials to mark his ticket "straight Democratic" A. D. Sims, 65, retired merchant, fell dead late today. The other fatality was Patrolman Norvel Willis, 40, who succumbed to a heart attack while guarding a Negro district from election disturbances.

75 MI. PER HOUR TROPICAL STORM LASHES JAMAICA

HAVANA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Northwest Jamaica was being lashed by a tropical storm curving up out of the low Caribbean latitudes, Father Gutierres Lanza of Belen university observatory said late tonight. Winds as high as 75 miles an hour were reported from Jamaica, he said. He located the center of the disturbance near Point Negrin.

Rush to Aid of Disabled Ship.

COLON, Panama, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The British ship Killerig wirelessed tonight that the Blue Funnel Line freighter Phemius was reported off Cape Gracias a Dios, Nicaragua, with its wireless transmitter gone.

This was the first news of the Phemius to reach here since it was struck by a hurricane two days ago 150 miles off Cape Gracias a Dios. The Killerig wirelessed that it was proceeding at full speed to the aid of the stricken ship.

Another ship arriving tonight reported picking up a message authorizing it to broadcast that the Phemius was in tow of a United States navy ship. These reports were unconfirmed here by the naval district headquarters which is in hourly communication with the aircraft tender Swan, the last position of which was given as near the Phemius. The Swan and the U. S. destroyer Overton had gone to the rescue.

TENNESSEE VOTES FOR GOV. ROOSEVELT; RATIO ABOUT 2 TO 1

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt and the entire Democratic state ticket rode to a smashing victory in Tennessee today.

Hill McAlister vanquished two opponents to win the governorship.

With returns tabulated from 1,762 out of 2,368 precincts, Roosevelt had 150,018, and Hoover 74,742. Four years ago Hoover carried the state by 38,000.

Reports from 1,768 precincts gave McAlister 93,967 to 73,717 for John E. McCall, Republican, and 64,532 for Lewis S. Pope, who called himself the "nominee of the straight Democrats." Pope, claiming to have been defrauded of the nomination in the Democratic primary, ran as an independent.

KO's morning grouch

You know the feeling. The alarm clock is probably to blame. Its insistent, nagging ring gives you something to grumble about before your day has hardly started, puts you in a rather ugly mood until something pleasant happens to jar it out of you.

That's what Winnie does to those fortunate Childs guests who breakfast at her tables. She knocks "morning grouch" right out of them. How? We wondered, too, until we asked her.

"Well, first I smile and say a cheerful good morning. And then I'm careful never to hurry them. But, say, don't give me all the credit. How about the breakfast itself? Childs breakfasts are enough to sweeten even the sourest morning-afters."

Have you tried one lately? A Childs breakfast, we mean. Childs policy of selecting only the best foods plus Childs talent for making them especially tasty make Childs breakfasts a real treat from fruit to coffee. In fact, almost a gift—at our new low prices.

ELECTION HERE IS CALM DESPITE 1½ MILLION VOTE

Few Evidences of Violence Are Reported.

More than a million and a half residents of Cook county voted yesterday in what officials said was one of the quietest elections in years. The offices of the election commissioners and the state's attorney's office was bombarded with a record breaking number of complaints, which kept investigators scurrying throughout the day, but few evidences of fraud and comparatively little violence could be found.

"Considering the huge number of voters, more than a million and a half, the election was exceedingly quiet and orderly," said County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

"It was undoubtedly one of the quietest elections we ever had," said Election Commissioner Fred V. Maguire.

Police Commissioner Allman expressed gratification last evening at the manner in which the election was conducted.

"Just as I predicted," he said. "There was no serious trouble up to the time the polls closed. The polls were manned properly and therefore little difficulty was experienced."

G. O. P. Precinct Captain Beaten.

Philip Schwartz, 28 years old, Republican captain of the 14th precinct, 39th ward, was assaulted by a dozen or more men in the polling place at 3654 Lawrence avenue early yesterday and seriously hurt before being rescued by a traffic policeman. He was taken to the American hospital. Benjamin Arkin, the Democratic captain, was arrested for questioning.

Four hoodlums evicted Peter Manella, 7433 Barton avenue, from his automobile in front of a polling place at 1164 North La Salle street, and drove away with his car. Charles Locasi, 1041 Sedgwick street, and Frank Laverdi, 921 Sedgwick street, were later arrested with the car at Sedgwick and Division streets, but the other men escaped. One of them was recognized by police as Dominick Muccio, a known election terrorist.

Raymond Muth, 5740 South Richmond street, was arrested for carrying a gun into the polling place at 5844 South Sacramento avenue. Warren Brown, 5748 South Richmond street, was arrested with Muth.

Jack Citow, 3442 Grenshaw street, and Edward Ross, 3342 Roosevelt road, both with police records, were arrested for impersonating voters on the registered list at 1453 Cleveland avenue. Judge Jarecki held them in bonds of $5,000.

Swanson Gets Complaints.

At the Criminal courts building State's Attorney Swanson remained on duty until 1 p. m. scrutinizing complaints, which came in with such frequency that the 400 special investigators under Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Lieut. John Leonard, one of three policemen left the office after Commissioner Allman's transfer order of Monday, were constantly on the go.

John E. Northup, the Republican candidate for attorney general, also was in and out at the Criminal court building, but he spent most of his time in the 24th ward "to see that Moe Rosenberg and Jakie Arvey don't put anything over on me."

Three Arrested, Freed on Writ.

Joseph Walsh, 1039 West Jackson boulevard; James Christianson, 222 South Morgan street, and Arthur McDonald, 1607 West Jackson boulevard, were arrested when police suspected that a basement flat at Morgan street and Jackson boulevard was being used as the "payoff headquarters for floaters."

Walsh sat at a desk surrounded by Democratic literature and in front of him was a ten dollar roll of quarters and two ten dollar rolls of half dollars, as well as seven one dollar bills. The men were later released on a writ of habeas corpus when police could produce no evidence of fraud.

Police continued their campaign to harass hoodlums, begun a week before the election, and more than a dozen were seized yesterday on suspicion or charges of disorderly conduct, gun toting, or booze violation.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker saw Rocco Belcastro, one time Circus gangster, riding in an automobile at Grand and Western avenues. Belcastro got out and started to flee, but the chief collared him. Inside the car was found a can of alcohol, whereupon Belcastro was arrested.

Sylvio De Grazio, 954 West Erie street, was arrested at 2709 West Washington boulevard and found to be carrying a revolver. Arrested with him and charged with disorderly conduct was Frank Laino. Other hoodlums arrested included Philip Mangano, said to be a cousin of Dago Lawrence Mangano; Joseph Mundo, Dominick Marzano, Eugene Belmonte, Samuel Lucy, Joseph Liscandrella, Dominick Brancato and Dominick De Bello.

Examples of Complaints.

Two examples of the numerous complaints received were as follows: Assistant United States Attorney Benjamin Landis reported to United States Attorney Dwight H. Green that photographs of the presidential candidates were being displayed in the polling place at 5423 North Fairfield, 17th precinct, 50th ward.

Mrs. Caroline Granata, 20 South Hermitage avenue, caused the arrest of Vito Giacalone and McKinley Williams at 823 South Paulina street. She said they were buying votes at 50 cents apiece. One of the men had 40 cents and the other nothing.

United States Marshal Henry C. W. Laubenheimer, whose special deputies investigated some 400 complaints, said the government had not made a single arrest. The marshal agreed with the election officials that the voting was unusually orderly.

LONDON "HUNGER ARMY" LEADER SENT TO PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—W. A. L. Hannington, communist organizer of the recent "hunger march" to London by British unemployed, was sentenced to three months in prison in the Bow street police court today. He was charged with attempting to incite London police to mutiny. Hannington, who pleaded his own case, quoted statements from the Police Review, which said that there was dissatisfaction among the police because of a reduction in wages. The magistrate in passing sentence said he thought that Hannington had lost sight of the distinction between the words dissatisfaction and disaffection.

CUBANS LISTEN TO U. S. RETURNS OVER THE RADIO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 8.—Intense interest prevailed here tonight in the presidential race in the United States. Cuban sentiment greatly favored Gov. Roosevelt inasmuch as it believed that he will scale down the tariff against Cuban sugar.

President Machado, government officials and business leaders were guests of the Heraldo de Cuba tonight to receive election results.

Havana's important radio stations and the telephone company's chain of four stations are broadcasting the results throughout the island. Leased wires have been installed at the National hotel, the American club and other organizations patronized by socially prominent Cubans and Americans.

HOOVER CARRIES PENNSYLVANIA ABOUT 200,000

Senator Davis Re-elected, Returns Indicate.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Pennsylvania voted today to retain her historic position in the Republican column, although the pluralities everywhere fell far short of party expectations.

Returns from 3,304 districts out of 8,199 gave Hoover 583,921, Roosevelt 483,443. In 1928 Hoover defeated Al Smith by nearly 1,000,000. Indications now are for about 200,000.

Senator James J. Davis, Republican, appeared to be certain of reelection over his Democratic opponent, Lawrence H. Rupp.

Hope for Congress Victories.

The Democrats were hopeful of winning at least six and possibly eight of the state's 34 congressional seats, although leaders of both parties agreed the complexion of the state's delegation probably could not be definitely determined before tomorrow.

Full returns in Philadelphia area, from whose voters Republican leaders anticipated Hoover would get 150,000 to 200,000 plurality, gave the President only a margin of 72,000. It was: Hoover, 327,806; Roosevelt, 255,922.

In the 1928 contest Gov. Smith rolled up an impressive total in the so-called Vare wards but lost the city by 143,800.

The Roosevelt strength was surprisingly great today in the industrial districts where a big protest vote was registered by thousands who have been out of work, many of them for as long as two years.

Davis Well Ahead.

In the senatorial election Senator Davis in some instances was running ahead of President Hoover's totals, but generally speaking both Davis and Rupp, the Democratic nominee for the senate, were behind the presidential candidates of their respective parties.

The lowered figures for Senator Davis in some instances were believed to be due to his indictment of federal charges in connection with lotteries operated by the Moose lodge. The case still is pending in court.

There was little doubt that Republicans would make a sweep of the state offices for which there were contests.

WELFARE GROUP TO GIVE CIRCUS TO RAISE FUNDS

An "Old-time Yankee Circus" will be held Dec. 16 and 17 in the Chicago Stadium to aid in raising the $7,500,000 fund to carry out the general relief work in Chicago and Cook county this winter. The women's division of the emergency welfare fund, aided by the women's division of the Salvation army, is sponsoring the circus.

Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, 1430 Lake Shore drive, has been named honorary chairman of the circus committee, and Mrs. William S. Monroe, 64 East Elm street, vice president of the women's division of the Salvation Army, is active chairman.

The date of the performance was set for the holiday period of circus performers to make it possible to assemble the best attractions of the leading circuses for the charity shows. More than 2,000 members of the women's division of the Salvation Army will aid in the sale of tickets, according to Mrs. Charles King Corsant, 3400 Lake Shore drive, president of the organization.

ROOSEVELT GETS LEAD ON HOOVER IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Gov. Roosevelt held a substantial lead over President Hoover in early returns from Minnesota voters tonight with first rural returns strongly buttressing a smaller but definitely Democratic trend in urban centers.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson, Farmer-Laborite, who announced his support of Roosevelt early in the campaign, led with small but representative returns giving him a vote equal to that of both of his opponents, Earle Brown, Republican, and John E. Regan, Democrat.

North Dakota Returns Show Roosevelt in Lead

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Early returns gave Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt a lead over Herbert Hoover for the presidency tonight. Returns from 139 of 2,240 precincts gave Roosevelt 14,571 votes to 9,450 for Hoover.

The Democratic candidate for governor, H. C. De Puy, led his Republican opponent, William Langer, 2,191 to 1,749 on returns from 19 precincts.

Florida Gives Roosevelt Big Lead Over President

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 8.—(AP)—With 72 scattered precincts tabulated, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt had amassed 3,370 votes compared with 2,856 for President Hoover.

KANSAS VOTERS RETAIN LEAD FOR ROOSEVELT

A. M. Landon (Rep.) Ahead for Governor.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York held his lead over President Hoover in Kansas late tonight with approximately 943 precincts complete and incomplete reporting out of a total of 2,676. At that hour unofficial figures gave: Roosevelt, 147,141; Hoover, 119,930. If that ratio is maintained Roosevelt should carry Kansas by 25,000.

Governor Seems Defeated.

Alf M. Landon, Independence oil man and Republican nominee for governor, apparently is winning over Gov. Harry Woodring, Democratic incumbent. On unofficial figures from about 1,015 precincts Landon had 104,123 votes and Woodring 103,149. Dr. John R. Brinkley, Milford, Kas., physician and independent candidate, was trailing with 82,644

Senator George McGill, Democratic candidate for reelection, had fallen slightly behind in his race against Ben S. Paulen, Republican, although the margin was but a few hundred. Paulen had 50,232 and McGill, 49,974. With the vote probably not over a fifth counted it could easily swing either way.

Present Congressmen Lead.

Congressional races showed all the present congressmen leading in their races for reelection, although some were by narrow margins. W. P. Lambertson, Republican in the First, and W. A. Ayres, Democrat in the Fifth, apparently were having easy races. Harold McGugin, Republican in the Third, was pulling away from E. W. Patterson and was claiming reelection by a majority of from 5,000 to 8,000. Randolph Carpenter, a young attorney, was giving Homer Hoch, Republican incumbent in the Fourth district, a hard race. Clifford Hope, Republican incumbent in the Seventh, was pulling away from Aaron Coleman, Democrat, on latest returns. Charles I. Sparks, Republican incumbent in the Sixth, was having a fight against Katherine O'Laughlin, Democratic woman candidate.

Few returns have been tabulated in the graduated income tax limitation amendments to the state constitution, but figures showed them trailing three to one in Topeka. Strong support was expected for them in rural districts.

GALLI-CURCI AND SAMUELS RETURN FROM AUSTRALIA

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Amelita Galli-Curci, opera star, and Homer Samuels, her husband and accompanist, returned from Australia on the liner Monterey today, to complete a 40,000 mile world concert tour, and left after a short stop for Mr. Samuels' home in Minneapolis. Miss Galli-Curci said the outstanding impression she gathered from her tour was that of the way in which the United States employed radio for the education, interest and entertainment of its citizens.

"In other countries, even throughout the British commonwealths, radio broadcasting is government controlled so that no country takes the trouble to provide its citizens with the benefits that Americans secure from radio."

3 KILLED AND 8 HURT IN ELECTION ROWS AT KENTUCKY POLLS

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Three men were killed and eight wounded, four critically, in election day quarrels in five Kentucky counties today and tonight. Interest in the election was intense and voters thronged the polls in such numbers as to forecast breaking the 1928 record of 940,514 ballots cast.

Wilburn Shepherd was killed and Alec and Benton Whittaker and Tony Harris wounded, Alec Whittaker critically, in Floyd county today.

In Laurel county tonight Wilbur Dees was killed and Deputy Sheriff Peter Thompson surrendered after an election argument.

At Tyrone, in the Bluegrass, Charles Redmond, 40, was shot to death and Sheriff O. Y. Walker of Anderson county, who lodged Tommy Shyrock, 35, in jail, said he was told the men were enemies of long standing and that Redmond followed Shyrock from the polls to a store.

Bishop James Cannon Fails to Cast His Vote

Richmond, Va., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Bishop James Cannon Jr., who announced last week that in the 1928 election he would support Herbert Hoover, as he did four years ago, did not cast his ballot today, it was officially reported last night from Blackstone, Va., where he is registered. He neither appeared in person nor did he vote by mail.

DEMOCRATS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP OF MUNICIPAL COURT

Win All 12 Seats; Oust 10 G. O. P. Judges.

All twelve Democratic candidates for Municipal court judgeships were elected on the basis of incomplete returns defeating among their Republican opponents ten sitting judges who were seeking reelection. The Democrats were running ahead of the Republicans by substantial majorities early this morning.

Democrats Win Control.

Complete control of the court goes to the Democrats with their victory. Before the election the Republicans had a majority of one on the bench, the political makeup of the court consisting of 19 Republicans and 18 Democrats counting Chief Justice Sonsteby with the Democrats. With the Democratic judicial slate victorious, the Municipal court judges will number among their members only nine Republicans and 28 Democrats.

Balloting on the candidates for vacancies on the Superior court bench caused by the deaths of Judge Albert C. Barnes and Martin J. Isaacs followed the trend shown in the votes for the Municipal court judges. Here also the Democratic nominees were far in the lead of their Republican opponents in the late returns.

Municipal Court Returns.

Returns on Municipal judges from 1,000 out of 3,029 precincts in the city follow, asterisks [*] indicating sitting judges:

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE ELECTION OF ROOSEVELT.

Gov. Roosevelt's election had been anticipated. The evidences of it were sufficiently plain before the voting began. It is the year of triumphant opposition. Conditions make for the critic and confound the defense. One party goes down and another goes up. Political experience prepares the country to expect that when public affairs are little to the liking of any one and much to the disliking of many.

Roosevelt's spread of victory seems to be wide and conclusive. No one element contributed outstandingly to it. The Republicans had everything except their last ditch supporters against them. Fair weather turned foul on them and the Democrats took the profit. Dissent and discontent favored Roosevelt. Hoover's political enemies in his own party welcomed the opportunity to turn to the Democratic ticket.

Four years ago Mr. Hoover had a triumph of this sort. Democrats deserted their candidate. The south broke through its political traditions. Votes which the Republican ticket did not need were showered on it. Influences which were alien to the party's history and purpose came into camp and, unfortunately, remained there. Voting strength which the ticket did not require became weakness which the administration did not throw off.

Mr. Hoover at the beginning was overimpressed by the new elements which had been attracted to him, largely for unworthy purposes. There was no sound political reason to explain the new faces in the Republican ranks and the attempts to keep them in their new allegiance, an unreal alliance, were disastrous. The effort subverted the Republican party management. The administration and the party turned away from the sections wherein the real Republican strength lay and consorted with the presumptuous leaders of a fickle vote which regretted its waywardness as soon as the returns showed what it had done. These alien commitments of the administration and party were a part of its undoing. Mr. Hoover thought too much of electoral votes he did not need, should not have had and could not keep.

Mr. Roosevelt has the same sort of political victory. It is distinctly his own and his party's. The time was right for him and the party of opposition. His personality and his ideas pleased the people. They were impressed by his good will and good faith. In the chorus of congratulation there are many voices and many persons will seek to emphasize their peculiar services and hold the President Elect preoccupied with them.

In a win of such sweeping character the winner is exceptionally fortunate. He is free from particular obligations which he might regret. The claims of clique and group upon him are not imperative. He has taken his mandate from a whole people and there are no special services to be regarded as imposing either moral or material obligations. When a great vote, both in the popular election and in the electoral college, makes a President he is free from the importunities of special interests and special pleaders.

For the defeated candidate it can be said that his final campaign was a heroic effort to overcome the handicaps of administration mistakes. Mr. Hoover emerged from the uncertainties of confused and ambiguous policies to become a Republican candidate standing on the traditional principles of his party and taking what came of it, whether success or defeat. It has been defeat, but Mr. Hoover's stature in the history of his party and of his country is not less but larger because of the decisions he made and acted upon when his career came to its greatest test.

WESTERN MICHIGAN AND THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan referred the other day to the "incalculably important ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty."

The phrase is ambiguous, though Senator Vandenberg did not intend it to be. "Incalculably" has two meanings. If Senator Vandenberg meant that it is not easy to calculate with any great degree of certainty what the value of the treaty will be to the United States as a whole, he would have been telling the truth. That, however, was not his meaning. He meant to assert flatly that the ratification of the treaty was greatly to be desired because the benefits which would follow the construction of the seaway would far outweigh its costs.

Mr. Vandenberg hails from western Michigan and may have been taken in by tall stories of how every town on the eastern shore of the lake is to become a mighty harbor thronged with ships from every port on the seven seas. That is, of course, unqualified nonsense, though it seems to have been believed by a lot of people across the lake who ought to have known better. If it were true, every city on the Atlantic coast would be a New York. As a matter of fact, New York, with its 15,300,000 tons of imports, received about as much foreign goods as all the other ports combined, large and small, from Maine to Florida; and its proportion of exports was only slightly smaller. Of the many gulf ports, New Orleans and Houston-Galveston get the bulk of the business; but if the reasoning of the St. Lawrence propagandists were correct, every fishing village on the Atlantic and the gulf is destined to be, if it is not already, a giant seaport.

In the sense in which Mr. Vandenberg uses "incalculably" it is certainly not true that the ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty is "incalculably" important for western Michigan. Its value is calculably limited by the consuming capacity of western Michigan for foreign goods and by the producing capacity of western Michigan for export trade.

Possibly a study has been made of these potentialities, but if so, we have not seen it. Offhand it would seem that western Michigan has no great amount of exportable agricultural products. It might export some machinery, tools, and automobile parts (though the possibilities are limited), and it might export some furniture (though tariff policies abroad render that increasingly doubtful). Western Michigan imports a good deal of mahogany and other hard wood, most of which originates in the Caribbean, and therefore might reasonably be expected to come up the Mississippi at low rates, unless the St. Lawrence treaty, by limiting the diversion at Chicago, destroys the usefulness of the gulf waterway. A certain amount of such items as fertilizers and China clay also are consigned to western Michigan, but these items commonly move at distress rates to the United States to fill cargo space which otherwise would be empty, and accordingly the decrease in cost would not be great to western Michigan manufacturers.

So far as western Michigan is concerned, then, it can be said with some certainty that the value of the St. Lawrence waterway is calculable and that it is calculably so small as to be of little or no consequence. It is doubtful if the business which would come to western Michigan ports in consequence of the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway would be sufficient to justify the dredging of any harbor on the east shore of the lake to receive ocean vessels. But western Michigan taxpayers would have to pay their share, none the less, of the cost of constructing the waterway and of dredging any harbors that are deepened.

THE RIGHT TO ALMS.

A meeting was held the other day in the offices of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Spokesmen for "organizations of the unemployed" demanded that relief funds be distributed in the form of cash instead of rations. These same spokesmen also denounced the proposed state sales tax and announced that the unemployed would oppose it. They demanded instead an increase in the tax on corporations, the taxing of all incomes of more than $5,000 and a capital levy on all accumulations of more than $25,000.

The state auditor, Oscar Nelson, was present as a member of the commission. He was disposed to favor the cash distribution on the ground that it would save overhead costs. Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor and a member of the commission, also listened politely. He denied that the commission had indorsed the sales tax, but neither he nor Nelson nor, so far as our information goes, any other member of the commission did the obviously proper thing of inviting the delegates to take their hats and clear out.

That invitation was indicated, as the doctors say, not because the proposals of the spokesmen were silly, though they were, but because the proposals were impertinent. The facts are ugly, but there is no point in disguising them. The recipients of unemployment relief are objects of charity. They are on the county. It was their duty to support themselves and their families and in addition to help support the common government. For one reason or another they have failed to make the grade. The community has recognized the fact that an economic hurricane has wiped out the jobs and savings of many stalwart citizens and the recognition has taken the form of private gifts and public contributions for relief. The money has been given not because the victims of the hurricane have a right to it but because the community has a heart and wishes to prevent physical suffering.

No one expected the spokesmen for the "organized unemployed" to express gratitude, but the commission had a right to expect them to display common sense. The assumption in the minds of the spokesmen was that they are entitled to support by right and to levy the taxes which support them in idleness. It is a false assumption, and if it is allowed to go unchallenged it will place a premium on incompetence, laziness and shiftlessness. It is the dictatorship of the proletariat without a revolution. In Russia, at least, the proletariat takes the responsibility as well as the gravy, if any. Here they want the gravy without the responsibility.

The self-appointed leaders of those who support neither themselves nor the government used Nelson and Olander in an effort to dominate and incidentally rob those who support both the unemployed and the government. The complaisance of the commissioners in the face of this impertinence is funnier even than the presumptuousness of the spokesmen.

Editorial of the Day

POLITICAL JOBS WHICH CAN BE SPARED.

[New York Evening Post.]

One-third of the political places in the federal service, according to the National Civil Service Reform league, could be eliminated as absolutely unnecessary and probably would be eliminated if they could not be used as patronage. But when a reduction in the government service is made it is the employés who are under the competitive rules that are dropped. The political appointees stick. These political places are also likely to be overpaid. The postmaster at Bushnell, Fla., which has a population of 400, receives a salary of $2,100. The postmaster at Baldwin Park, Cal., which has a population of 500, receives $2,400. The postmaster at Haynesville, La., which has a population of 900, receives $2,600, and the postmaster at Bladen, Neb., which has a population of 445, receives $2,700. If these postmasters were in the competitive service instead of being political figures their salaries would be around half of these amounts, if, indeed, the places themselves were not abolished as superfluous. More than 135,000 federal positions are available for political appointees upon a change of administration. The salaries attached to these positions total more than $125,000,000. Millions of dollars could be saved every year by the elimination of such of these places as are not needed. Here is an opportunity for a real and sizable stroke on behalf of economy and efficiency in the national government.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, but the quips fall where they may. R. H. L.

THE ROSEWOOD MELODEON.

By Rachel Mack Wilson.

When Grandma Pierce awoke to find the sun
In golden patterns on her coverlet,
She thought she heard a sound like "Great Amen"
Float up the stairs from the melodeon.
"Imagination probably," she thought,
"Or dream too close to waking to be real."
But she'd arise, put on the starched percale,
Perhaps a flannen wrapper this morning.
The fall was here again in spite of her.
But when she looked beyond the woodshed door
And saw but one log left for winter fuel
She thought of plans for winter long delayed.
The cellar storehouse should be full by now:
Lavender turnips . . . beets for pickling down—
Pungent stuffed peppers . . . eggs in water glass.
Instead the empty crocks brought back the time
Their sealing wax and unbleached muslin tops
Protected quantities of gingered pear
And quince conserve and plum, that centered the Long family table at Thanksgiving time.
But Grandma Pierce would have no feast this year:
Her trees were sterile and the chickens gone:
She'd had no strength to plant the garden sauce.
Her small supply of dollars in the bank
Were used for taxes: help for Lutie's boy,
Or brother Amos over at the Falls
Whose rheumatism had him down again.

She'd better save the solitary log . . .
Get breakfast anyway. There still were chips
Enough to fire the empty-ovened stove.
Well, then . . . a pot of tea. Some tea remained,
A little sugar in the hobnail bowl,
A bit of wrapped bread in the japanned box.
"I'll eke out for another day or two,
For its own hoop binds every tub," she said.
Easing down softly in the maple chair . . .
"Another week and then the Tennant quilt,
Stitched in cathedral pattern, will be through:
I can't ask them for cash until it's done.
Then I'll have fire . . . and fresh New England stew!
A smaller thimble, wider quilting frames.
But then . . . I reckon I had better take
A few old pieces to the antique shop.
They've wanted the rosewood melodeon . . ."
She opened wide the corner cupboard door,
And took the Wedgwood platter to her breast:
Ran knotted fingers round its classic edge:
She handled, too, the old pink luster cups . . .
The crystal bread tray with "The Last Supper,"
The whirling caster and the pewter spoons.
Then she put on her black plush redingote . . .
The satin toque with jet-made wheat and oats,
Pressing the watered ribbon ties with hands
That trembled knotting them beneath her chin.
Reaching the loosened step before her house
The binding of her frayed silk skirt was caught
Upon the iron boot-scraper, throwing her,
The precious Wedgwood platter and the cups
Into a broken heap upon the walk.
"Pride came," she said, "and tripped me. Guess I love
Earthly possessions far more than I should,
And now I'll have to go on, anyway."
She stopped at Teasdales on her way to town:
Her memory was failing. Where was she?
"Too bad you didn't get here earlier,
We'd like to have you come another time:
The antique shop is only two more blocks."

But Grandma Pierce returned exhausted to
Her own house, leaned against the iron-hinged door,
Breathing a sigh as though resigned to fate.
Her curved back bent again above the quilt:
She stabbed it with a trained and expert hand
With waving thread held taut above her thumb.
The needle when it pierced the tightened cloth
Made sounds like winter apples falling on
A rain-soaked ground among the yellow leaves.
But hunger that had weakened her thin frame
Was master now. She could no longer see
To thread the large-eyed needle any more.
Why was her first-born, John, so close today?
He who had died in prison, sent for theft
His mother's faith had never believed guilt.
The time was long . . . almost her lifetime long . . .
Why had they never found the stolen funds?
"And his rosebush, the one I helped him plant
When he was six and wearing braid-trimmed kilts,
Bloomed out of season this year, when before
It was as timely as the equinox."

She inventoried things that he had made:
The chest of drawers, the lyre-carved music rack
To stand beside the instrument he loved.
"I'll dust his things . . . for the last time, perhaps,"
She staggered for a moment, then dropped down
Upon the floor near the melodeon.
The faded gingham dust-cloth caught upon
Some odd protuberance . . . a rusty nail . . .
She pulled it, and a drawer not known before
Revealed itself with stacks of yellow coins:
And paper bills fit for a prince's store
Littered her lap and braided oval rug.
Could John have known? Could he have visioned this?
The picture of his mother dependent?

And then that instant, as she tried to raise
Her weary body on uncertain feet,
A chord of music came forth from the keys
No hand had touched for twenty years or more,
And there beside her stood the form of John.
She felt the knife-sharp twinge beneath her breast;
Closing her eyes she fell back to the floor,
A peace unspeakable lighting her face.

And when the neighbors found her there next day,
With golden coins scattered at her feet,
The Deacon Smalley said through his harelip:
"The way she worked . . . and helped her kith and kin,
Who would a thought . . . or would a ever dreamed
We had a miser living in our midst?"

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

ONE KIND OF GRANULATED LIDS.

THE condition of the eyeball and eyelids, which most persons lump together under one name—pink-eye—can be divided into at least three diseases: Acute catarrhal conjunctivitis, pink-eye, and vernal conjunctivitis.

Pink-eye, properly speaking, is a conjunctivitis due to infection with the Koch-Weeks bacillus. In the particular field of pink-eye we also have forms of conjunctivitis due to the pneumococcus and another form due to the gonococcus. When we take these into consideration we find the group is composed of at least five separate diseases. Vernal conjunctivitis veers away from the acute disorders and leads us into the semichronic disorders. If we let vernal conjunctivitis bring in chronic eyelid inflammations we must add to the group two more members—trachoma and granular lids not trachomatous.

Now let us consider one of the larger group, one that stands between the acute and chronic vernal conjunctivitis. It is an inflammation of the covering of the eyeball and lining of the eyelids which is characterized by itching, the formation of mucopus, and crusting of the edge of the lids. The itching is comparable with that of a fresh case of hay fever and the secretion of matter is suggestive of pink-eye. The disorder generally lasts two years at least, and in some cases it runs for five or even more, and it is a close relative of hay fever.

Dr. L. Lehrfeld says it is of two varieties—that which involves especially the lids and which causes most itching, and the less itching variety which affects the eyeballs more than the lids.

To Dr. Lehrfeld we are indebted for a very efficient, simple treatment. It is a watery solution of boric acid—about a 3 per cent solution. The mucus and pus between the ball and lids stick so closely that are so difficult to clean out that Dr. Lehrfeld dubs it chewing gum mucus. When a plug of the mucus is present itching is intense. When it is removed the annoying symptom stops.

Dr. Lehrfeld recommends that some of this solution be used cool as a wash seven times a day. It is applied with an eye cup. The boric solution solidifies the gummy mucus and brings it away, thus ending the itching for the time. Some other remedies are employed. Among them is a radium. Many eye specialists report success from the use of radium in this disease. Some relief is given by wearing lightly tinted glasses.

CATCHING THINGS IN EYE.

E. C. writes: I am always getting things in my eyes and suffer a great deal of pain and inconvenience before I can get them out, especially when they get under the upper lid.

REPLY.

In some instances if the eyes are closed and the eyeball is held quiet the tears will wash the foreign body through the tear duct into the nose or into the inner corner where it will be out of harm's way or between the lids. In some instances the body can be removed by catching the lashes down over the lower. This may brush the foreign body out. Or proceed as follows: Have the sufferer sit in a straight back chair. Stand behind him. Use a match or toothpick to press down the upper lid. Have a clean handkerchief lying on the sufferer's shoulder. With the left hand hold a match against the upper lid, at about the middle thereof, the match being horizontal and pointing toward the nose. Grasp the lashes of the upper lid with the fingers of the right hand. Have the patient look toward his feet. Lift the upper lid and, using the match as a fulcrum, turn the lid inside out. Search for the foreign body on the inner surface of the lid. Pull the lid away from the ball and look on the surface of the ball. Pull the lower lid out and look in the socket below. When the foreign body is found gently remove it with a fold of the clean handkerchief.

If the object is stuck do not try to remove it. Send for a physician. Never use a knife blade or any metal instrument to dig or scrape a foreign body from the eye.

IT MIGHT BE CAUSE.

J. G. writes: I work in an office where there are three duplicating machines going most of the day. The fluid used in this machine is wood alcohol containing a large percentage of ether. For the last couple of days a few of us have been complaining of sick stomachs and I am wondering if the inhalation of the fumes of this fluid might be the cause.

It might.

DEPOSIT BOX.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a deposit box in a bank now in receivership. 1. The receiver has had this box sealed. Some time before the bank closed a loan was obtained from said bank on real estate bonds which at the time were at par; since then far below par. 2. The bank in turn used these bonds as security for a loan from a larger downtown bank. These transactions took place before the bank closed. 3. The receiver says I still owe the bank this money. Is this true? 4. Have I defaulted? 5. Can he legally seal the box with the securities contained therein? There is no cash in it. 6. How can I obtain access to this box?

M. A. B.

1. This would be technically justified only if the bank had some ownership interest in the contents. The mere fact that you owed money to the bank would not give them such an interest. They would have to take judgment against you and levy on the assets.

2. Presumably your note was so worded as to authorize them to sell or pledge it and with it the collateral.

3. The downtown bank could sell the collateral and hold your bank for a deficiency and this deficiency could be passed back to you. In this sense you owe money to your bank.

4. The fact that you have defaulted does not affect this.

5. See 1. Technically, he has no right to do it, but he has the power, just as any debtor has power to refuse to pay a debt.

6. One way is by taking up your note. If you sue for possession of the box contents, the receiver will probably counter by arranging to have judgment entered against you and to have the box contents levied upon, which would defeat you.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 9, 1916.

CHICAGO.—If President Wilson is shown by the complete returns to have carried California and North Dakota and if he holds all the closely contested states now credited to him he will be reelected with 269 electoral votes, a majority of seven votes over Hughes. This was the situation at 4 o'clock this morning, thirty-six hours after the closing of the polls, in the most remarkable presidential election in the history of the republic. Hughes, on latest returns, has carried Minnesota by an estimated plurality of 5,000, thereby raising his total of assured electoral votes to 259. With New Mexico he would have 262, Wilson is 4,410 votes ahead of Hughes in California, with 570 precincts yet to be heard from. In North Dakota Wilson leads Hughes by 1,248 votes, with 179 precincts missing. Hughes has taken the lead from Wilson in New Mexico, with the returns far from complete. If Wilson should be given all the electors in California it would be necessary for Hughes to carry North Dakota and New Mexico, as well as Minnesota, in order to win with 267 votes, a majority of three. The score, on the basis of the incomplete returns, now stands as follows: 18 states carried by Hughes, 247; twenty-six states carried by Wilson, 251; four states doubtful, 23.

CHICAGO.—More than half of the forty-eight states of the Union have been put into the dry column. Those which were added to the list by the election Tuesday [Nov. 7], making the total of dry states twenty-five, are Michigan, Nebraska, North Dakota, Montana, Utah, and Florida. The territory of Alaska has also been added to the dry possessions of the United States. The states which voted on the liquor question in which the dry forces seem to have been defeated, although the returns are not all in, are California and Missouri.

BUCHAREST.—The Rumanian forces in Dobrudja, continuing their offensive movement, have made a further advance toward the south, it is announced officially. All along the Danube there was artillery and infantry fire. Sulina, at the mouth of the middle estuary of the Danube, was attacked by seaplanes, one of which was brought down. On the Transylvania front, in the vicinity of Prahova, an Austro-German attack was repulsed. Violent artillery fighting occurred in this region, as well as in the Buzeu valley. The situation is unchanged along the northern Rumanian front.

BERLIN.—British attacks between Le Sars and Gueudecourt on the Somme front last night were broken up by the German fire, the war office announced. South of the Somme the French attacked on both sides of Ablaincourt. German advance detachments in the southern part of Ablaincourt were pushed back and the village of Pressoire was lost. The northern wing of the attack was repulsed.

OTTAWA, Ont.—The Hearst papers have been barred from Canada. These papers have been prohibited from circulation from Nov. 11. An explanatory memorandum issued says: "The postmaster general of Canada has issued a warrant under the provisions of the war measures act whereby the Hearst papers have been refused the privilege of the mails in Canada and are prohibited from circulation in Canada in any way. No person in Canada is to be permitted after Nov. 11 to be in possession of the newspapers or of any issues of them, and any person in possession of them shall be liable to a fine, not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment for any term not exceeding five years, or both fine and imprisonment."

CHICAGO.—Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, the largest exhibitor in the first chrysanthemum exhibit of the North Shore Horticultural society at the Durand Art Institute in Lake Forest, carried away the majority of the prizes yesterday. The advisory committee of the society contains the names of many summer residents of Lake Forest. Among them are Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. John T. Pirie, Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., A. B. Dick, E. A. Hammill, and others.

FRENCH AS AN OFFICIAL LANGUAGE.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Mr. Henning, who said that Hoover's hopes are strongest in the ultra-conservative New England states, noted the large population of French-Canadians there.

I wish to ask why we French of Canada resident in the United States have not yet been allowed the minority rights which we are racially and historically entitled to.

In Canada, where we constitute an increasing proportion of the inhabitants (now one-third), the English language is official with French. In the United States (as a whole, the greater part of which was French) we have a perfect moral right to maintain our good traditions and to honor and uphold a rich heritage, for we are not Europeans, but, while we retain our race, we are distinctly North Americans.

The imperialistic United States Secretary of Labor Doak has asked that citizenship applicants know the English language. In other words, he would have the French minority here take on an English culture to become good citizens. Is that fair?

In justifiable friendliness let the United States restore to Louisiana the correct spelling of its name (as as been done to Puerto Rico) and to its people, of whom the majority of whites are French, our language on official parity with English. This country is neither English nor French, so let it appropriately recognize the two related languages.

This doesn't mean that Europeans are all entitled to their various speeches, for the ancient officially established and prospering languages in North America are only Spanish, English, and French.

SPIRITUAL EMINENCE.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Like some of his facetious countrymen who contend that the United States won the world war, the "otherwise intelligent" editor, in his editorial of Nov. 2 on "Oriental Spirituality," will have his gullible compatriots believe that what is happening in India today is owing a little to Gandhi and pretty nearly everything to western notions of humanity and decency. Not only is he ridiculous to assume that such notions are a monopoly of any particular nations but he has also failed to mention, perhaps through ignorance, that, while slavery was a recognized institution in pre-civil war days, two millennia before then notions of humanity and decency not only existed in the orient but were also put into practice. Furthermore, Christianity, which gave sanction to the moral standard of the west, had as its founder an oriental with oriental ideals of humanity and decency.

This bit of oriental wisdom is very appropriate: "And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?"

D. O. MAHARAJH.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—I wonder if you realize that by calling those men courageous who work hard to support their families, meet their bills, pay their taxes, and manage to keep going in spite of the depression, you at the same time place the stigma of cowardice upon those who do not do the same. This attitude is decidedly unfair to those men who through no fault of their own are unable to do likewise.

L. J. SCHNUR.

THE WAR BETWEEN THE STATES.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 2.—In the obituary of David Lipman, a civil war veteran, published in THE TRIBUNE of today, is the statement that Mr. Lipman enlisted at the outbreak of "the war between the states."

Many people erroneously think that the term means that two groups of states of the United States were at war (a natural conclusion considering the facts), but the use of the term war between the states is being urged by the United Daughters of the Confederacy as signifying that the confederacy was a legally organized government attacked by the United States—although the confederates were dealt with only as rebels by the United States, and as rebels they surrendered.

To use the term in the obituary of a Union soldier is the same as saying that his service was given to an unjust cause.

The confederate sympathizers, through such gestures, are determined to keep alive the animosities of past strife. Recognition of the lost cause by use of the term war between the states only encourages them. They will not bury the unsightly bones of the slave holders' rebellion; instead they keep rattling them to call attention to their effort to dismember the Union. Some one on your staff is interested in abetting them, for this is not the first time the term has been used in THE TRIBUNE recently.

(MISS) LUCY S. STEWART,
Secretary, 31st Ohio Regimental association.

DIVERSION FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Sally Joy Brown's article in Sunday's TRIBUNE about the need of maintaining the morale of the unemployed men in the relief shelters brings to mind the great contrast between the intensive efforts made by numerous agencies during the world war to keep up the morale of the soldiers in billet and cantonment and the almost complete lack of any effort to relieve the drab, dispirited existence of the homeless unemployed.

The soldiers and sailors had their free libraries, movies, athletic shows, theatrical entertainments, and concerts.

The poor fellows in the relief shelters, on the other hand, have nothing to do in the evenings except to sit in a chair and look at the wall.

There is no end of amateur organizations, both musical and dramatic, in the city which could readily give concerts and plays in the various relief stations and do it without any expense to themselves except for transportation.

The Federal Council of Churches could easily initiate such a step, for through its organization it is in direct touch with hundreds of churches, all of which have young people's groups which give one or more plays or entertainments each year.

THE COOKING SCHOOL.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—I am just one of the many thousands of Chicagoans who have enjoyed and have profited by attending your 1933 school of cookery, and it is as a reader of THE TRIBUNE and as a guest that I thank you for sponsoring such a gigantic undertaking and rendering your many readers and friends such a great service and rare treat.

I feel certain that all who have attended are looking forward to again being present at your school of cookery in 1933.

DEMOCRATS WIN LEADERSHIP IN NEXT ASSEMBLY

Control Both Houses on Incomplete Returns.

That the next [the 58th] general assembly will be Democratic was apparent late last night as the early returns in the legislative races came in haltingly. It appeared from these scant votes that the senate would have a small Democratic majority, while the house was close but would be lost to the Republicans.

In the three Chicago districts electing a senator it appeared that two Democrats had been reelected and one Republican incumbent defeated. The Democrats were Joseph Mendel of the 2d—near west side—district and Frank McDermott of the 4th district, a southwest city section. James J. Barbour, the veteran incumbent from the Rogers Park district, was trailing Walter A. Goranson, the dripping wet Democrat, on incomplete returns early this morning.

Waukegan Race Is Close.

In the Waukegan district Senator Ray Paddock [Rep., Wauconda] was leading Leo Dailey, Waukegan Democrat, in the first precincts announced. The Rockford fight was close and it could not be ascertained at a late hour whether the incumbent, Charles W. Baker [Rep., Monroe Center], or Charles A. Thomas, the young Democrat, had the advantage.

The fight for Harold C. Kessinger's seat in the Aurora district was also close, with a slight edge apparent for James Herrington Scott of Geneva, wet Democrat, over Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, Republican. Senator Kessinger did not run for reelection.

LIBERALS HAIL U. S. INFLUENCE IN NICARAGUA VOTE

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua Nov. 8.—(AP)—President Jose Marie Moncada said today that he considered that growth of the Liberal party which won Sunday's presidential election, to be the result of "American influence which in three years of continuous free elections, notwithstanding small errors, has given my people lessons of civic virtue."

The president said that the election of Dr. Juan Bautista Sacasa, Liberal candidate, was assured with a margin of about 23,000.

The election was carried out, he added, "with the greatest order and impartiality throughout the country except in a few unimportant districts where the rebels interfered."

GOV. ROOSEVELT LEADS BY 10,000 IN WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A tradition shattering vote from one-fifth of West Virginia's precincts tonight carried a lead for Gov. Roosevelt over President Hoover beyond the 10,000 mark.

H. G. Kump, the Democratic nominee for governor, was more than 3,000 ahead of H. C. Townsend [Rep.] as returns only served to increase the majorities, which four years ago were handed to Republican candidates.

West Virginia has failed to go completely Democratic in 40 years.

With 472 of the state's 2,340 precincts reported Roosevelt had 80,905 votes while Hoover had 70,098. In 471 precincts Kump led Townsend 80,421 to 72,385.

Democrats were leading in five of the six congressional races.

Returns were slow coming in, particularly in rural districts.

FOUR ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Four persons were wounded accidentally as the shotgun of William M. Meese discharged this afternoon in a crowd in a west end street. Meese said he was returning from a hunting trip and stopped to discuss politics with some friends. None was seriously injured.

MARYLAND APPEARS SOLIDLY FIXED IN DEMOCRATIC COLUMN

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 8.—(AP)—With more than half the state's polling places heard from tonight, Maryland appeared to have gone solidly Democratic in the general election. A total of 1,048 polling places out of 1,871 gave Roosevelt 242,807; Hoover, 193,385.

The same number of polling places in the race for United States senator gave Tydings [Dem.] 226,194; Williams [Rep.], 96,933.

In the congressional races Democrats led in all instances, but returns were meager in some districts, particularly in the western section of the state.

One of Two Men Trapped by Coal Slide Rescued

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 8.—(AP)—One of two men buried under a slide of rock and coal early today at Avoca while digging fuel, was rescued alive this afternoon and rushed to Taylor hospital. Louis Doran, who was also trapped, was still in the cave and rescuers were working to save him.

ROOSEVELT WINS N. Y. STATE BY 642,000 VOTES

Lehman Chosen Governor; Wagner Victorious.

as Al Smith's lead over President Hoover in the 1928 election.

Senator Robert F. Wagner buried his Republican opponent, George Z. Medalie, under a mountain of votes. Wagner ran right along with Gov. Roosevelt upstate and had an even greater plurality in Democratic New York City, the estimated plurality being 921,000.

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Republican candidate for reelection as a member of congress from the fashionable Seventeenth district in Manhattan, conceded the election to her Democratic opponent, Theodore A. Peyser, early in the evening.

Representative Robert L. Bacon defeated his Democratic opponent, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, by more than 7,000. The fight between these two members of noted Long Island families aroused intense interest along the socially famous north shore.

Representative F. H. La Guardia, radical Republican, was defeated by his Democratic opponent, James J. Lanzetta, on the basis of incomplete returns from the 20th congressional district in Manhattan.

O'Brien Runs Behind Ticket.

In New York City's mayoralty contest Surrogate John P. O'Brien, the Tammany candidate was swept into office along with his party, although running well behind the leaders of his ticket. Returns from the city complete gave O'Brien 1,055,768 to 439,032 for Lewis H. Pounds, Republican.

The write-in vote for Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee was 57,573 in about one-third of the precincts in the city. There was a delay in counting the write-in vote in the other precincts.

Early returns indicated that the proposal for a $30,000,000 bond issue for relief of unemployment had carried by a comfortable majority.

Calls It Protest Vote.

Republican headquarters here conceded the loss of New York state shortly after 8 o'clock, when William H. Hill issued the following statement: "The loss of the state is purely a protest vote against the economic and unemployment situation."

Lieut. Gov. Lehman showed expected strength upstate and ran ahead of Gov. Roosevelt in a number of counties and cities. In Buffalo, the home city of Col. Donovan, Lehman ran almost 20,000 votes ahead.

A telegram from Col. Donovan was received at Lehman headquarters shortly after 9 o'clock. It conceded victory and extended congratulations.

Gov. Roosevelt, in addition to running behind Lehman in many of the upstate towns, lost his home town of Hyde Park to President Hoover by 139 votes. The governor, however, carried his home election district by five votes.

In the judiciary fight returns indicated the election of City Court Justice Aron Steuer and State Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter, bipartisan candidates for the Supreme court. Both candidates had been attacked by independents as having shared in a Tammany deal.

The slender working majority of two votes by which the Republicans control the present state senate was swept away in the Democratic landslide.

The Republican working majority of six in the assembly was reduced so the Republicans in the next legislature will control the house by two, possibly three votes. The returns indicated that the composition of the two houses would be as follows:

Senate—25 Republicans, 26 Democrats.

Assembly—77 Republicans, 72 Democrats, doubtful, 1 district.

Hold Up Two in Auto; Take $475 from Woman

Robbers who followed her from the South Water market, where she had gone to cash a check, received in the sale of some stock, took $475 yesterday from Mrs. Anna Pranckus, 38 years old, of Valparaiso, Ind. John Atkins, a grocer at 5104 Archer avenue, a friend of her family, drove Mrs. Pranckus to the market. Returning, their car was forced to the curb in 14th street betwen Throop and Loomis streets by two men in an automobile.

Torture Robbers Inflicted Fatal to Woman of 74

Mount Vernon, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Tortures inflicted by two robbers at her home in Woodlawn caused the death of Mrs. Katie Smith, 74. The robbers, who broke into Mrs. Smith's home Oct. 23, tortured her until she told them where $140 was concealed. They took the money and escaped. Funeral services for Mrs. Smith were held yesterday.

OHIO DESERTS HOOVER TO AID GOV. ROOSEVELT

Re-elect Gov. White, Senator Bulkley.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Steadfastly Republican in national elections, with only one exception in 76 years, Ohio apparently went Democratic yesterday. It gave substantial margins to that party's candidates for President, governor, United States senator, and many lesser offices.

Incomplete returns this morning indicated, however, a somewhat diminishing margin for Gov. Roosevelt's lead over President Hoover. The vote in 3,802 of the state's 3,678 precincts gave Roosevelt, 516,370; Hoover, 473,757.

Earlier returns were more strongly Democratic, but as the counting continued, numerous of the races tightened. On incomplete figures, Gov. Roosevelt was behind his party's candidates for governor and senator.

White's Reelection Conceded.

Gov. George White, 60 year old vet was opposed by David S. Ingalls, former assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aeronautics.

The reelection of Gov. White was conceded by Ingalls, while Maurice Maschke, Republican leader in Cuyahoga county, Cleveland, also conceded defeat in Ohio for President Hoover. Ingalls and Attorney General Gilbert Rettman, Republican candidate for United States senator.

For governor—3,472 precincts out of 3,678 gave White, 508,585; Ingalls, 422,898. For senator—3,687 precincts gave Bulkley, 489,627; Bettman, 413,493.

Bulkley Leading Rival.

In the senatorial race Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Democrat, was leading Bettman. The election was accompanied by several clashes between voters. At St. Clairsville, 25 persons were injured, two probably seriously, in a fight shortly after midnight in front of the Belmont county court house.

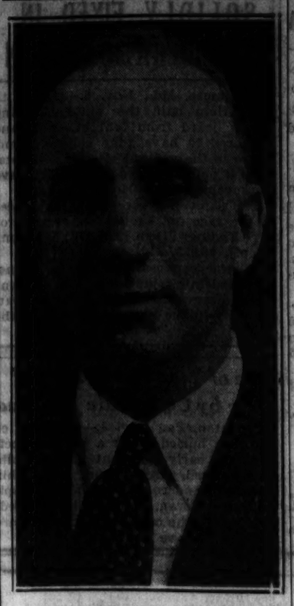
Democratic congressmen were elected in five districts, the third, fourth, fifth, thirteenth and 21st. Races in the other districts were comparatively close with Republicans leading in some and Democrats in others.

The two Democratic candidates for congressman-at-large had only a relatively advantage over their Republican opponents.

FOX POINT FOR HOOVER.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Fox Point, fashionable Milwaukee suburb, gave the first returns from Milwaukee county. Total vote was: Hoover, 207; Roosevelt, 132; Thomas, 10.

APPELLATE CLERK



SHELDON W. GOVIER.

The Democrats apparently split even yesterday in the four Appellate court clerkships in the state. Ald. Sheldon W. Govier was successful in the first district comprising Cook county. Waller M. Buckham, Democrat of Mount Vernon, won in the fourth district, defeating the incumbent, Robert B. Roe of Pinckneyville. In 48 precincts, Buckham had 8,326; Roe, 6,499. In the second district, Justus L. Johnson of Aurora, Republican, was leading the Democratic candidate, Cletus McGuire of Kewanee, the vote in 72 precincts being: Johnson, 11,960; McGuire, 11,309.

William E. Cole, Republican of Hillsboro, was also leading his Democratic opponent, Roy A. Johnston of Taylorville. On the returns from 161 precincts, Cole had 30,016 votes, Johnston, 27,979.

MISSOURI GOES FOR ROOSEVELT BY A LANDSLIDE

Democrats Win All of the 13 Congressmen.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Missouri voters in today's election gave a plurality of more than 800,000 for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for President, and swept into office by unprecedented pluralities the entire Democratic state judicial and congressional ticket. This gives the Democrats all of the 13 congressmen.

Col. Bennett C. Clark, son of the late Champ Clark, the Democratic nominee for United States senator, defeated his Republican opponent, former Mayor Henry W. Kiel of St. Louis, by a plurality of 200,000 or more.

Governorship to Democrats.

Guy B. Park, Democratic nominee for governor, who was chosen by the Democratic state committee to succeed Francis M. Wilson of Platte City, who died after his nomination, defeated Lieut. Gov. Edward H. Winter, Republican gubernatorial nominee, by a vote which will exceed 175,000.

Democrats elected three members of the Missouri Supreme court, a member each of the Springfield and Kansas City Courts of Appeal and probably swept into office two judges of the St. Louis Court of Appeals.

Control of Legislature.

Returns indicate that the Democrats will control the Missouri legislature which will enable them to lay out new congressional districts.

The thirteen candidates for congress were compelled to run at large because Gov. Caulfield, Republican, vetoed a congressional redistricting bill passed by the last legislature which was controlled by the Democrats.

QUARRELS WITH WIFE; FALLS AND LOSES HIS LIFE

Paul Dargan, 29 years old, 1628 West 100th place, met his friend, Anker Norgaard, 7400 Calumet avenue, last evening.

"I have been quarreling with my wife," he said, "and I want to go home and spend the night with you."

Norgaard assured him he was welcome. Together they went to the Norgaard home. There Dargan told his domestic troubles. Later he started into the cellar of the house, stumbled on the stairs, fell and fractured his skull. He died soon afterward. Norgaard told the police his friend had been drinking.

Vermont Keeps Faithful to Republican Record

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Vermont maintained its traditional position in the Republican ranks in today's election, giving its three electoral votes to President Hoover and electing a Republican governor, United States senator, and representative in congress.

In 222 cities and towns out of 243 the vote was: Hoover, 62,240; Roosevelt, 38,815.

25 ARE INJURED DURING FIGHT OVER ELECTION

St. Clairsville, O., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Twenty five persons were injured, two seriously, in an election fight which started shortly after midnight in front of the Belmont county workhouse.

The fighting broke out as the result of quibbling over election returns being broadcast from the court house. Windows on the main street were broken and several automobiles overturned.

Deputy sheriffs, swinging night sticks, waded into the crowd and soon numerous persons were bleeding about the head. During the melee with the officers many stones were hurled by those standing on the fringe of the gathering.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY TRAIN.

Kewanee, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Theodore Henning, 35, was crushed to death by a freight train last night soon after she had parked her automobile near a railroad crossing.

if you entrust fine things to cheapened soap flakes

Paying hard-earned money for clothes, then weakening their threads and fading their colors in the suds of cheapened soap flakes—not much sense in that!

Spending hours and hours selecting dainty lingerie and sheer silk stockings, then throwing them into a fifteen-minute battle with free lye and other harsh destructives—hardly the best way to acquire an attractive wardrobe!

Why, then, gamble with uncertain soap flakes? Win—and the most you save is a few pennies. Lose—and it's goodbye lovely clothes!

Thrifty women refuse to take such chances—insist on flakes that they know to be absolutely pure . . . absolutely safe.

"We have delicate gauze curtains, bright-colored linen hangings and valuable French lingerie that have come through innumerable American Family Flakes baths with every thread and color as fresh as the day they were bought," says Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, "It's the purest soap I know."

"Really," declares Mrs. John F. Jelke, Jr., "lacy things are quite as practical as more sturdy fabrics, if laundered in American Family Flakes after every wearing. For this soap doesn't fade colors or cut threads the way some soaps do."

"Until you have used American Family Flakes for as many years as I have," adds Mrs. William H. Mitchell, "you simply cannot realize what freedom from household cares you can have."

Why see dainty colors fade and fabrics go to rack and ruin . . when American Family is not only safe but easily the most economical soap flakes you can buy?

Use it exclusively, and save the fresh new beauty of your clothes . . save those dollars thrown away in ruined garments . . . save those hours of leisure stolen from you by sluggish soaps!

Created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region, American Family makes double the suds of ordinary flakes. And it's the pure, rich double-suds that makes the difference!

ROOSEVELT HAS LEAD OF 174,000 IN CALIFORNIA

McAdoo Is Far Ahead in Race for Senate.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Democratic tide quickly washed California, President Hoover's home state, into the deluge of Roosevelt votes tonight, bearing William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, along toward victory in a complicated triangular senatorial contest.

Republican campaign leaders conceded victory to the Democrats long before returns from slightly less than half the precincts, many of these incomplete, showed the Democratic presidential candidate leading the President by approximately 1½ to 1. In 4,649 precincts, complete and incomplete, out of 10,547, the vote was, Hoover, 350,638; Roosevelt, 525,295.

Sees Roosevelt Win by 300,000.

Maurice E. Harrison, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, said the New York governor would win the state by 300,000.

McAdoo, whose entry into the senatorial race ended several years of retirement from active politics, was holding a lead somewhat less pronounced than that of Roosevelt. In 6,496 precincts the vote was, McAdoo, 405,058; Tallant Tubbs, wet Republican, 317,719, and the Rev. Robert P. Shuler, prohibitionist, 235,842.

State Dry Law Repealed.

On the face of return up to shortly before midnight, the state prohibition law appeared buried in an avalanche of repeal votes, the count in 539 precincts being 56,274 for repeal and 9,990 against.

A proposed constitutional amendment giving the state exclusive authority to regulate liquor traffic was riding toward victory about 3 to 1, the vote in 509 precincts being 40,762 in favor and 20,280 against.

Nine and possibly ten congressmen have been elected by the Democrats. They only had one member of congress.

Congratulates Gov. Roosevelt.

Mr. McAdoo tonight congratulated Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner on a magnificent victory. In a telegram to Mr. Garner he said:

"I have carried California for election to the United States senate."

To Mr. Roosevelt he wired:

"California gives you 22 electoral votes. Congratulations on your magnificent victory in this state and in the Union. Best regards."

ROOSEVELT TAKES OKLAHOMA BY LARGE MAJORITY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A free-handed gift of ballots to Franklin D. Roosevelt, counted tonight in mounting thousands from Oklahoma's polling places, apparently was leading the state's few hard fought contests toward Democratic victory. In 1,782 precincts out of 3,314 the vote was Roosevelt, 266,347; Hoover, 79,932.

Never in doubt from the start, the presidential tally sheet gave the New York governor nearly a four to one lead by the time the first 120,000 ballots were tabulated, although President Hoover carried the state four years ago by 175,000 votes.

And, polling every ounce of its normal Democratic power, Oklahoma tendered commanding leads to Senator Elmer Thomas over Wirt Franklin, Ardmore Republican, and to J. C. "Jack" Walton, impeached governor, over J. H. Johnston, whose Republican candidacy for corporation commissioner received the support of some prominent Democrats.

At the same time M. G. Garber, the state's only Republican congressman, dropped more votes behind E. W. Marland, Democratic oil leader, in the 8th (northwest) district. This nominally Republican area was giving Marland nearly a 2,000 vote margin.

Gov. Murray seemed to be putting over his hard fought income tax measure by around 8,000 votes.

Pennsylvania Man Casts His Vote from Stretcher

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Clayton J. Dougherty, of this city, cast his vote today from a hospital stretcher. His back in a plaster cast, he was carried into the polling place on a stretcher and cast his ballot. His back was broken when he fell from a horse.

Socialist Candidate Gets Returns

SOCIALISTS MAKE BETTER SHOWING THAN IN 1928

Norman Thomas Piles Up Large Vote.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, made a far better showing than he did four years ago.

Although reports were available for only about one-tenth of the election districts in the United States early today he had votes in these totaling 192,073.

Thomas' entire vote in 1928 was 267,420, and of that number 107,332 were cast in New York state. Reports from 5,594 of the 8,337 election districts in New York give him 146,764 votes this year.

Gets Large New York Vote.

New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Returns from 5,594 out of 8,337 election districts in New York state, including New York City complete (3,794 districts), gave Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, 146,764 votes.

132 Votes in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The first 76 out of 3,678 Ohio precincts reportin their Socialist party vote gave Norman Thomas 132 for President and Upshaw, Prohibitionist, 38.

Connecticut Results.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist presidential nominee, polled 13,275 votes out of the first 500,000 tabulated in Connecticut tonight. The figures were for 121 of 169 towns.

Massachusetts Returns.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The first three Massachusets precincts reporting their vote for Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, in today's election, gave him a total of 47 votes.

Thomas Votes in Vermont.

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The total vote in 143 towns and cities out of 248 reported tonight in Vermont for Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, was 857.

Ballots in New Hampshire.

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, had received 321 votes in today's election in New Hampshire with 200 out of 294 election precincts tabulated tonight.

Gets 864 in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, received 864 votes in early returns compiled in Virginia.

SOCIALISM JUST STARTING, SAYS NORMAN THOMAS

Norman Thomas, who was Socialist candidate for President, was in Chicago last night and issued a statement in which he declared his cause would make great strides in the next few years.

"If we get 1,000,000 votes in this election," he said, "we will be encouraged moderately; 1,500,000 will be decidedly encouraging; every vote over 2,000,000 will be a cause for jubilation."

Mr. Thomas added that he expected to get more than the latter figure. Previously the high Socialist vote was 967,000 for Eugene V. Debs in 1920.

"The intellectual bankruptcy of capitalism," declared Mr. Thomas, "expressed in the futility of the two old parties, makes the Socialist vote the only one that counts. Ultimately the old parties will coalesce in some sort of Fascism and the Socialist will be the only opposition. There may be some slight improvement in economic conditions, but it will not be lasting. In the next four years I do not look for a quantity or quality of recovery that will validate the capitalist position."

Illinois "Protest Vote" Small.

Speculation as to how many would pass by the Democratic and Republican columns and mark their ballots for Thomas, Socialist candidate, or Foster, communist candidate for President, was satisfied early in the election returns. It was disclosed that this "protest vote" amounted to less than 3 per cent. The county precincts gave a slightly higher vote for these candidates, but it was apparent that Thomas' vote in Chicago would not exceed 30,000, and that Foster's vote would be less than one-half that of Thomas.

Walks Twelve Miles on Snowshoes to Cast Vote

Laramie, Wyo., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Wallace F. Pease, Albany county prosecutor, trudged 12 miles on snowshoes and rode 30 more by train to vote here today. Snowbound by winter drifts at his claim in Cinnabrak park, Pease plodded on "webs" to Centennial, at the foot of the snowy range, the nearest railroad station, and caught the daily train to Laramie.

ARKANSAS SOLID FOR DEMOCRATS; WOMAN SENATOR

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Democratic national and state tickets swept Arkansas today by the usual one sided majorities, while incomplete returns tonight from forty counties had piled up an overwhelming opposition vote on all eight proposed constitutional amendments, which included a 1 per cent general sales tax and an exemption of homesteads from taxation.

The majority of Senator Hattie W. Caraway over her Republican opponent stood at 15,551 to 1,301 in returns from 220 out of 2,100 precincts.

Her victory gave her the distinction of being the first woman ever elected to the senate for a full six year term.

The presidential vote with 333 precincts reporting was: Roosevelt, 22,584; Hoover, 2,090.

Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, had 63 votes; W. H. (Colt) Harvey of Arkansas, Liberty party candidate, had 41, and William Z. Foster, Communist candidate, 28.

Loses Bet on Election, but He Wins a Bride!

Tell City, Ind., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Patty Jaggers, Cannelton, and Ruth Olbending, Tell City, were married here tonight by Timothy Collins, justice of the peace. Jaggers made an election bet that he would wed Ruth if Roosevelt was elected. He lost his bet, but won a bride.

Roosevelt Wins, So They Wed.

Chester, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—On the strength of Roosevelt's early lead over the President, Clyde Meyers and Ester Grewe, who had agreed to wed should the New York governor be victorious were married here tonight by a justice of the peace.

ROOSEVELT WINS BAY STATE BY VOTE OF BOSTON

Gov. Ely Re-elected by Good Margin.

BULLETIN.

Beverly, Mass., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., grandson of the late United States Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, entered a career of politics today with his election to the Massachusetts house of representatives from the 15th Essex district.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—With 1,278 election precincts out of 1,707 in the state including 358 of Boston's 362 complete, Gov. Roosevelt had increased his lead over President Hoover to nearly 60,000 votes. The totals stood: Roosevelt, 554,907; Hoover, 496,707.

In 1,094 precincts, also including all but four of Boston's 362, Gov. Joseph B. Ely was leading his Republican opponent, Lieut. Gov. William S. Youngman, by 478,834 votes to 391,235. Youngman had conceded his election.

Despite the Democratic landslide, which appeared almost certain to sweep in the entire Democratic ticket for the higher state offices, the legislative seats held by Republicans appeared safe and indicated that there would be little or no swing to the Democratic fold in that direction.

An early lead established for President Hoover in the rural sections of the state was completely wiped out by an avalanche of votes amassed by his Democratic rival in the city of Boston.

Roosevelt and Ely swept into an early lead by rolling up advantages in excess of 7,000 votes in the city of New Bedford. These leads were subsequently overcome by the returns from the towns but they in turn gave way to the blizzard of Democratic votes that swirled out of the Boston precincts.

Although Hoover succeeded in carrying the vast majority of the towns, he failed to keep pace with his 1928 strength.

NEW JERSEY WON BY ROOSEVELT; BARBOUR LOSING

Outcome May Change Senate Control.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt kept his claim on New Jersey's sixteen electoral votes tonight, by maintaining his lead of almost two to one over President Hoover in the face of additional returns.

The rising tide of Democratic ballots, besides appearing to assure the state for Roosevelt, also gave indications of sweeping several of the party's congressional nominees to victory over the Republican incumbents.

Returns from 474 of 3,414 districts gave Roosevelt 113,034 votes to Hoover's 59,215. Of the districts reporting, 151 were in the Democratic stronghold of Hudson county, where Roosevelt polled 49,117 to the President's 12,704.

Run Even Elsewhere.

In the rest of the state Hoover and Roosevelt were running on almost even terms. The normally staunch Republican southern tier of counties returned the President only slim leads over the Democratic standard bearer. In some Republican counties, Roosevelt even ran ahead of Hoover.

Representative Percy H. Stewart appeared probable of election to the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Dwight W. Morrow. Stewart's victory will give the Democrats control of the senate in the lame duck session of congress in December, provided the party's nominee win in Colorado.

Barbour's Lead Fading.

Stewart trailed his Republican opponent, U. S. Senator W. Warren Barbour, who is serving by appointment, in returns from districts normally strongly Republican. Barbour's lead was so slight, however, that even Republican leaders conceded that it would melt away when returns from the populous Democratic centers were tabulated.

Barbour maintained hopes of victory until the returns from suburban Essex county began to trickle in. This usually strong Republican territory, however, failed to supply him with a large enough lead to offset the Democratic vote in Newark.

Sailors Quit Australia Warships; Protest Pay Cut

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 8.—Two hundred sailors left warships of the royal Australian navy tonight in protest against a cut in pay under the financial emergency act.

TROOPS GUARD 4 COUNTIES IN NEW MEXICO

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 8.—(AP)—With three National Guardsmen in hospitals as result of the mobilization of troops in four counties, New Mexico voters exercised their franchise today.

Troops watched the polls in San Miguel, Valencia, Sandoval and Guadalupe counties. They were ordered there by Gov. Arthur Seligman. He said he had received petitions from voters asking protection and predicting violence at the polls.

That was rigorously denied by W. H. Kane, representing business men of Las Vegas, within the area where troops appeared. Kane, publisher of the Las Vegas Optic, in a statement, defied the governor "truthfully to point out any evidence supporting his action."

Three troopers were injured by overturning of their motor car as they hurried from Clovis to their assignment at Las Vegas.

Two men were reported wounded at Terrero, a little mining town, sixty miles west of Las Vegas.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAUGHT.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Marvin Johnson of Christopher, who with four other prisoners escaped from the county jail here last July, has been arrested in Kansas, authorities here were advised today. Only one of the prisoners is still at liberty.

ELECTION DRAWS CENTENARIANS TO CAST BALLOTS

Woman of 102 Gives Vote for Roosevelt.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Youngsters of 21 summers, palpitating yesterday over their first ballot for a President of these United States, rubbed elbows scores of times with the old guard, on their way in and out of the polling places. Octogenarians and nonagenarians to whom a general election is an old, old story, imbued once more with the crucial issues of the day, sallied forth in numbers to register their voice and vote.

Few could dispute the seniority of Mrs. Mary Ashelosky of 1521 South Spaulding avenue, whose age was given as 102 years. Spry and smiling, the Russian born centenarian appeared in the polling place at 3248 West 16th street leaning on her cane and proclaiming that she was going to vote the Democratic ticket straight. She has lived in Chicago for 45 years.

Resident for 93 Years.

Down at 714 West 118th street the election board was surprised to note the arrival of Mrs. Martha Fielder, 93, of 11637 Wallace street. Mrs. Fielder, who was born in Clay county, Illinois, and lived there for 93 years, is a partial invalid and had to be carried into the building. Mrs. Mamie Conley, a grandniece with whom she makes her home, said the old lady had talked of little else the last few weeks but casting a Democratic vote as she has done all her life.

Still another vote for Gov. Roosevelt was registered by James Crook, 96, of 5937 East Circle avenue, Norwood Park. His daughter, Mrs. Jessie Temple, with whom he makes his home, declared he is tremendously active for his years

THESE VOTE FOR HOOVER.

At Tuscola, Ill., President Hoover garnered the votes of all three of the surviving members of the local G. A. R. post. C. S. Smith, 97, who told of knowing Lincoln and of having sat on the knee of Andrew Jackson, said he first voted for Fremont in 1856. J. R. Cantrell, 90, veered from the Republican ranks only in 1912, when he supported Theodore Roosevelt as a Progressive. J. S. Cambridge, 94, voted in 1868 the first time, for U. S. Grant and has been a G. O. P. man ever since.

HIS TWENTIETH VOTE.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 8.—For the twentieth consecutive time James S. Wright, 100 years old, cast a Republican ballot at the Rockport courthouse today in the identical precinct he first voted for Millard Fillmore.

DEMOCRATIC AT 100.

Robinson, Ill., Nov. 8.—After having voted a straight Republican ticket every year since the party was organized, J. L. Richmond, 100, today cast his first straight Democratic ballot. Richmond, who was born in Scotland, blames prohibition for the country's present ills.

ALSO FOR HOOVER.

Knightstown, Ind., Nov. 8.—Five nonagenarians born in or near Knightstown cast votes today for the reelection of Herbert Hoover. They are Mrs. Electa Wagoner, 96; Mrs. Harriet White, 95; Thomas B. Wilkinson, 92; Waitsell M. Heaton, 92, and Mrs. Sue Heaton, 91. Their combined ages are 466 years.

100—AND FOR ROOSEVELT.

Westville, Ind., Nov. 8.—Charles R. Baird, 100 years old last April, cast his vote here today for Franklin D. Roosevelt. He has voted Democratic since 1856, when he supported James Buchanan.

BOTH ARE 100.

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 8.—President Hoover received the votes today of two residents of this county each a hundred years old. They are Mrs. Henriette Gillespie of Elmwood and Mrs. Sarah Jane Hiday of Alexandria.

U. S. "RETURNS TO SANITY," SAYS SCHMEDEMAN

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—Mayor A. G. Schmedeman, whose election as the first Democratic governor of Wisconsin in 37 years virtually is assured, issued a statement early today expressing appreciation for the votes he received.

He refused to recognize in the votes thus far counted that he had been elected, and said he would issue another statement tomorrow after more complete returns are assembled.

The support given the Democratic party throughout the United States was characterized by him as a "return to sanity."

Late returns indicated Schmedeman would be elected by a margin of more than 50,000 votes over Walter J. Kohler, Republican nominee.

'MA' FERGUSON PILES UP BIG LEAD IN TEXAS

Austin, Tex., Nov. 8. — (AP) — The Former Governors Ferguson, Miriam A. and James E., elated over the early lead in the general election piled up by Mrs. Ferguson, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, expressed thanks to the people of Texas in a statement tonight.

"We congratulate the people of the United States upon the glorious victory of Democracy by the election of Roosevelt and Garner," they said.

"The victory is of course gratifying to Texas in the election of her native son. The nation will have new hope. We are deeply grateful to the people of Texas for this renewed expression of confidence and every effort possible will be made to render such service as will bring a satisfactory condition to the state's affairs."

One hundred and thirty-three counties out of 254 gave Hoover, 32,168; Roosevelt, 244,611. For governor: 133 counties out of 254 gave Ferguson [D.], 175,884; Bullington [R.], 114,952; Armstrong [Ind.], 461.

CLIMBERS SCALE HIGHEST PEAK IN WESTERN WORLD

PUENTE DEL INCA, Argentina, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Emil Borchers, heading an Austro-German Alpine club expedition, reported today that the party had scaled Mount Aconcagua, highest peak in the western hemisphere.

More than half way up they found an alpenstock dropped in 1930 by the Delamotte Ramsay expedition and a little higher they found the pack of the English Capt. Marden, who disappeared on the climb in 1931. They ate the tinned food they found in it.

At the summit of the highest peak they planted a staff and buried a tin box with the date and the names of the climbers.

ROOSEVELT HAS TWO TO ONE LEAD IN WISCONSIN

Kohler and Chapple Are Behind Opponents.

succeed John J. Blaine, La Follette Republican.

Reports from 1,032 precincts gave Duffy 143,000 votes and John B. Chapple, Ashland editor [Republican], 101,000.

Mr. Schmedeman will be the first Democratic governor of Wisconsin since 1898.

The electoral vote of the state, normally Republican, will be cast for a Democrat for the third time since the civil war. Grover Cleveland got them in 1892 and Woodrow Wilson in 1912.

Battle for State Offices.

Returns this morning from 464 precincts in Wisconsin brought three Republican nominees for state offices into small leads over their comparatively unknown Democratic opponents.

Levi Bancroft, Republican, for attorney general, was given 77,301 votes, a margin of nearly 3,000 over James E. Finnegan, Democrat.

The margin in favor of Edward J. Samp, Republican, for state treasurer, over Robert K. Henry, Democrat, was approximately the same, while Theodore Dammann, La Follette Progressive, led his Democratic opponent, Adam Fort, by nearly 20,000 votes.

Thomas J. O'Malley, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, maintained a lead, however, of nearly 3,000 votes over Harry Dahl, Republican.

Nominees of the state Democratic slate with the exception of Schmedemann and Duffy conducted virtually no campaign. The men are not well known in political circles.

If election results are as predicted by preliminary reports, it probably will mean that Wisconsin will have a Democratic governor, a "Progressive Republican" or La Follette assembly, and a Republican senate.

In Dane county, the county of the state capital, 37 of 54 precincts gave Hoover 7,350 votes and Roosevelt, 11,528. Fourteen of the precincts gave Schmedeman 3,075 and Kohler 1,851. Eleven precincts contributed 1,475 votes to Duffy and 983 to Chapple.

The returns indicate the full La Follette strength was given to the Democratic ticket.

Sheboygan County Results.

Sheboygan, Wis., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—With only a few rural precincts missing, indications tonight were that Franklin D. Roosevelt would carry this county by more than 3,000 while former Gov. Walter J. Kohler would lead in his own county by a vote of about 2,000 over Mayor Schmedeman of Madison.

At the same time T. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac was running almost neck and neck with Roosevelt and indications are that he will carry the county by about 3,000 also.

The county appeared to have joined the Democratic landslide with the exception of the vote for Mr. Kohler and two county offices, Sheriff Zehms and register of deeds, Alice Adams. Apparently being the only Republican officials reelected to office.

'G. O. P. LEADERS GOT DEFEAT THEY ASKED FOR,' PINCHOT ASSERTS

Milford, Pa., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania's Independent Republican governor, tonight broke his silence of months to assert that "Republican national leaders asked for defeat, and they got it." The governor had declined to give any indication of where he stood during the campaign.

The governor interpreted the election returns as a "mandate to the Republican party to discard its false gods, reorganize its lines and return to the principles of Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt."

Entire Democratic Ticket Victorious in Virginia

Richmond, Va., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Gov. Roosevelt, victor in Virginia today along with the entire Democratic ticket, amassed 158,144 votes in 1,265 precincts against President Hoover's 67,280. The Roosevelt vote was 18,000 greater than that given Alfred E. Smith by the whole state in 1928 and was just 6,000 votes short of President Hoover's vote four years ago. Reports were lacking from 421 precincts.

SENTENCE THREE HOODLUMS UNDER THE NEW GUN LAW

Three members of the "42" gang were sentenced to six months each in the Pontiac reformatory and each fined $1 yesterday by Judge Perry L. Persons in Waukegan. They were found guilty last week by a jury under a new state law against carrying concealed weapons in an automobile.

The three are John Nitti, 24 years old, 2537 West Walton street; his brother, Anthony, 26 years old, 1538 South Trumbull avenue, and George Strom, 22 years old, 2342 West Adams street. They were arrested on May 30, near Antioch, as suspects in several robberies.

As the arresting deputy sheriffs approached the car in which the three youths sat, the Nitti brothers and Strom threw out two sawed off shotguns and a pistol, according to testimony.

MUSSOLINI HOST AT DINNER TO U. S. ARMS ENVOY

ROME, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini was host tonight to Norman H. Davis, American disarmament representative at Geneva, at a dinner in one of the leading hotels of Rome. Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor, members of the cabinet, and Alexander Kirk, American charge d' affaires, with members of the American embassy staff, also attended.

Following cordial conversations with the premier and cabinet members, Mr. Davis went to Mr. Kirk's home where they listened to the results of the American presidential election over the radio.

Davis continued his disarmament discussions today with Italian experts in a long interview at the foreign office.

Fight colds this year at one-third the ordinary cost

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THE children—the whole family—can escape more colds this year. Can get quicker relief from those they catch. And you can save $2 out of every $3 by using Pepsodent Antiseptic. The money you save results from Pepsodent's high germ-killing power.

Here's the difference!

It's a simple problem of arithmetic. Pepsodent is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics—by adding water it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath. The old-fashioned mouth washes must be used full strength to be effective. So Pepsodent Antiseptic was made powerful enough to be diluted and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds—yet it is completely safe when used full strength. It's costly enough to use a mouth wash that should be used full strength. But it's more costly to add water and not kill the germs.

Don't risk health

That's why we warn you to choose an antiseptic that, even when diluted, kills germs. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe. Safeguard health and save money.

IMPURE BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

"There's something homey about a pipe!"

"YOU CAN LAUGH if you want to, but I believe I enjoy your pipe almost as much as you do. It looks so homey and companionable. And the aroma of Granger Tobacco is very pleasing."

A great many people feel that same way about Granger. It is only logical that tobaccos made for cigarettes or for chewing cannot possibly have such a fine aroma as a tobacco made for pipes.

EUROPE SITS UP FOR RETURNS ON ELECTION IN U. S.

Expects to Make Bid for War Debt Revision.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Europe turned an attentive ear toward the United States today, greatly interested in learning how the outcome of the presidential election will affect their own problems. In London many Americans as well as Britons remained awake until long after midnight to get the first returns.

War debts, disarmament and economic difficulties, the three major issues in which European countries are at present involved with America, were expected to receive added attention from European capitals after the outcome of the day's voting is known.

Plan Debt Revision Move.

Prime Minister MacDonald will appeal to the American winner for support in a move to speed up the convening of the pending world economic conference, it is indicated. It has also been persistently and reliably reported that moves for a revision of war debts will be launched both by France and Great Britain after the American election.

Meanwhile Norman Davis, American disarmament delegate, announced in Rome that important developments will take place soon in connection with disarmament. This was taken to indicate that Italy and France have been persuaded to enter the three power London naval treaty.

Paris Stays Up All Night.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—France's interest in the American election is unprecedentedly intense, with the famous Paris night life providing the setting for late reception of returns by the American colony and Frenchmen alike.

Clubs, restaurants, bars and night clubs, from Montparnasse to Montmartre, made special arrangements to display the returns. The largest number of impatient Americans gathered at Pershing hall, the headquarters of the American Legion.

Because of the difference in time Americans prepared to stay up until dawn at election parties.

Germans Watch Bulletins.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—German news agencies and American correspondents were kept busy today answering inquiries on the results of the American election. Huge crowds in front of newspaper bulletins and many columns of space in the papers also were evidence of the intense interest here.

South America Interested.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 8.—Great interest was shown in South America today in the presidential election in the United States. The voting was regarded by many political observers as the most significant in international effect since 1916. Sentiment as expressed by newspapers was about evenly divided.

INSULL JR. RETURNS TO U. S.

YOUNG INSULL REPORTED ON HIS WAY TO CHICAGO

Balks at Queries in New York.

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Samuel Insull Jr., son of the former Chicago utilities magnate, slipped back into this country today as mysteriously as he slipped away following his father's trip to Europe. Indictment of the senior Insull came while he was in Paris. He had nothing whatever to say about his abbreviated stay in Paris or where he went after leaving the French capital or what his mission was.

"I will neither impede nor facilitate the workings of the press" he told reporters who sought him in the lounge of the White Star liner Majestic coming up the bay. He stuck to that determination, repeating his statement several times.

Refuses to Be Photographed.

To a request by photographers to pose for pictures, he replied with an emphatic "no," and when some of the more insistent camera men took a snapshot of him he appealed to lounge attendants for "protection."

On the pier, the young Chicagoan was met by a man said to have been an agent of the New York Central railroad. It was reported that he had hurried direct to the Grand Central terminal and caught the Twentieth Century for Chicago.

WARRANT FOR MARTIN INSULL.

State's Attorney Swanson's office was advised by letter from the American consulate general in Toronto yesterday that the presidential warrant for the extradition of Martin J. Insull, who, with his brother, Sam, is charged with larceny and embezzlement, is ready for service.

Emil Sauer, the American consul general, wrote Assistant State's Attorney John Hampton that the warrant had been delivered to him by the American legation in Ottawa. Martin Insull's extradition case has been continued for hearing on Nov. 18, at which time the warrant will be turned over to Mr. Hampton.

STEPHENSON SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL PLOTS AGAINST HIM

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—From his cell in Indiana state prison, where he is serving a life sentence for murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis in 1925, D. C. Stephenson today bitterly assailed the Indiana attorney general's office for seeking to prevent a hearing on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus in federal court here several weeks ago.

Stephenson is seeking the federal court writ on the ground that his constitutional rights have been denied in the state courts and that he has been the victim of discrimination on the part of the Indiana Supreme court.

When the one time Ku Klux Klan leader appeared before Judge Thomas W. Slick two weeks ago four deputies of the state attorney general's office countered by filing two motions before the court, one alleging that certain allegations set up in Stephenson's plea be eliminated and the other that the remaining parts be dismissed.

"To ask this court to strike out these vital averments of the petition is the most unusual procedure ever resorted to in an action involving human liberty," Stephenson says in his written argument filed in District court.

"It is some times a proper procedure in habeas corpus action involving property, but never in a case directed to a prayer for individual rights under the constitution," Stephenson continues.

Stephenson attributes his plight to a conspiracy on the part of an element of the Klan which he once headed.

Oak Park Jeweler Hurt When Furnace Explodes

Louis Newmark, 66 years old, owner of a jewelry store at 8 Madison street, Oak Park, was seriously injured last night in an explosion in the basement of his store. The rain yesterday partly flooded the basement and extinguished the gas burner in the boiler. The explosion occurred when Newmark, who lives at 1607 West Chicago avenue, struck a match to relight the burner. He was taken to the West Suburban hospital with a possible fracture of the skull.

NEW WAGE CUT DICKER ON WITH MILK DRIVERS

Dealers Reopen Efforts to Cut City Price.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Negotiations to reopen the wage scale agreement for milk wagon drivers and inside dairy plant workers with milk companies supplying Chicago and suburbs were reported yesterday. The dealers are endeavoring to lower distribution costs of milk and to obtain milk at a lower price from farmers so as to retail milk at 9 cents a quart, 2 cents under the present retail prices.

While spokesmen for both the dealers and the milk wagon drivers' union, Local No. 753, declined to comment on the steps being taken, it was admitted that refusal of the drivers to accept a pay cut of $10 a week late in October had not been taken as final by the employers. The present scale for drivers is $45 per week.

Anti-Wage Cut Propaganda.

At the same time drivers reported they were being bombarded with propaganda from mysterious agencies calling on them to resist any wage reductions. Hand-bills are being left in the milkmen's wagons urging them to insist upon a 50 per cent cut in the salaries of their union officers.

Milk customers this week who have queried their drivers about plans for 9 cent milk have been answered with statements that drivers are now averaging only $35 a week despite the $45 basic scale. The milk dealers have issued a denial that any driver is obliged to carry the accounts of customers overdue. When a milkman carries an account past the time his company refuses to continue credit he does it on his own responsibility, the companies' statement said.

A series of closed country meetings is being held by officers of the Pure Milk association among the 18,000 farmers belonging to the organization which acts as their sales agent in Chicago and nearby cities. In these meetings, it is reported, the farmers are being prepared to look for lower priced milk in the metropolitan area "as soon as distribution costs have been lowered."

Report Dicker on $5 Cut.

A report that the wagon drivers were to be asked to accept a wage cut of $5 per week in their massmeeting next Thursday night could not be verified by the union officials. It is understood that the farmers' organization has agreed to accept a reduction amounting to 1 cent a quart retail if the dealers and drivers make up the other 1 cent.

MONACO BROKE; MAY TURN RULE OVER TO FRANCE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MONTE CARLO, Nov. 8.—Financial difficulties may oblige the principality of Monaco to surrender its independence to French control.

An agreement is said to have been drawn up by which in return for 30,000,000 francs [$1,176,000] cash and a perpetual annuity of 3,750,000 francs [$147,000], Monaco gives over to France its customs privileges and supervision of its finances. The law is said to have been sponsored by Premier Herriot and has been approved by Maurice Bouilloux Lafont, Monegasque minister of state.

The agreement was adapted to do away with one of the prized privileges of Monaco citizens, their freedom from taxation. Residents will be subject henceforth to regular taxation, the same as citizens of France. Foreigners, who in the past established themselves at Monte Carlo, drawing dividends on Monagasque investments free from taxes, would come under the taxation provision.

The proposed treaty is said to contain a curious clause providing for the right of France to fortify the famous Monaco rock in the event of war "with a foreign power."

Geo. W. P. Hunt of Arizona Stricken with Pneumonia

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 8.—(AP)—As the electorate of Arizona was naming his successor, Gov. George W. P. Hunt, seven times chief executive, was taken to a hospital tonight in a serious condition, suffering from pneumonia. Officials estimated more than 80 per cent of the 152,293 registered voters would cast ballots to establish a record for Arizona elections.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Don't Drive a COLD in!
Drive It OUT With a Remedy That Gets At It From The Inside!

Treat a cold quickly, but intelligently!

Remember, a cold is a germ attack—an internal infection—and, as such calls for internal treatment. Don't attempt to knock a cold merely with local or outside applications. External treatments can't reach the seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

Don't attempt, either, to relieve a cold with a cure-all. A cold is a cold and calls for a COLD remedy. A preparation that's good for all kinds of ills and ailments besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. Many people take remedies that actually make a cold more difficult to relieve because these remedies are constipating and also make the system acid.

The thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine! As your doctor will undoubtedly tell you, he couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if he wanted to.

4 Important Effects!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is prompt and decisive relief for a cold because it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first step in routing a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies it against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for and anything less is inviting serious complications.

No Bad After-Effects

Grove's Bromo Quinine contains no narcotics and is absolutely safe to take. It produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or make the head ring or swim. Its safety, as well as effectiveness, has made it the standard cold tablet the world over.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane wrapped and is sold by every drug store in America. A few of the tablets taken promptly on catching cold will usually expel the cold overnight and banish the danger of its settling in your system. Therefore, at the first sign of a cold take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. A wise measure is to keep it within reach all winter. Be suspicious of any dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.

FRANCE VISIONS RUSH BY U. S. NOW TO HELP EUROPE

Expects Roosevelt to Do Some "Great Things."

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 8.—France expects great things from Gov. Roosevelt's election as President of the United States. Frenchmen remember that a Democrat was President when the United States entered the world war. They remember that the founder of the league of nations was a Democrat. They recall that it was the Republican party which defeated ratification of the treaty of Versailles and the entry of the United States into the league of nations.

Frenchmen also attribute to the Republican party the system of high tariffs. They oppose the Republican doctrine that there is no connection between reparations and war debts, and they hold President Hoover personally responsible, by his sudden demand for a moratorium for Germany, for cessation of the reparations payment without a counterbalance in a new debt settlement.

Hope for a Change.

They noted with resentment during the campaign President Hoover's attempts to throw responsibility for the economic disaster on Europe's shoulders, and they believe the unpopularity of France in the United States is largely due to misrepresentation by Washington.

Now they hope there is going to be a change. In terms of their own policies, they believe that the change will be similar to that which took place here last May, when Premier Herriot and his radical Socialists defeated Andre Tardieu and the Nationalists. They hope and believe there is going to be coöperation instead of attempts at dictation.

Perhaps, in some ways, popular hopes have been pitched too high. Despite the dispatches of special correspondents who have been covering the election campaign for the Paris press, there is no very accurate estimate here of what a Democratic administration under Roosevelt can accomplish.

Hope for a Loan.

In the chamber of deputies one finds the idea current that the Democrats will take an entirely conciliatory attitude on debts. At least, it is hoped that it will be possible to work out a scheme to raise a loan for the European debtor countries.

Among business men and exporters there are great hopes for a revision of tariffs.

While today the press as a whole has awaited the issue without taking sides, some Nationalist newspapers, like La Liberte, printed such headlines as this: "

"A Victory for Roosevelt Will Be a Great Victory for France."

ILLINOIS WOMAN HUNTS BODIES OF MATE AND GIRL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Eymer Petersen of Rockford, Ill., stayed at Chabot Camp today to supervise the hunt for the bodies of her husband and daughter in the waters of Sabaskong bay. The bodies of another daughter and the guide were recovered yesterday.

The four were drowned when the motor boat in which they and Mrs. Petersen were riding was dashed against the shore and overturned.

The Petersens had arrived on a vacation trip. They were on their way to their camp when the accident occurred.

Woman Denies Poisoning Two Husbands and Son

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Daisy de Melker, accused of poisoning two husbands and a son, testified in her own defense today. She denied a charge of murder, declaring that so far as she knew both her husbands and her son died of natural causes.

SCHOOL CLASSES RAISE FUNDS FOR HUNGRY PUPILS

Promise More Gifts to Carry On Work.

"Feed yourself and a hungry child."

That is the slogan that has been adopted and put into practice by the Kenwood Loring school, 4600 Ellis avenue. A day or two ago the second contribution from a class in the school reached THE TRIBUNE for the Hungry School Children's fund. It was $9.51, enough to feed 190 children for a day, or one child the rest of the school year.

Help Needy Students.

"We have had a great deal of fun organizing a recess sale of food," wrote Milada Korinek, president of the class, "but our greatest pleasure is sending you this check, because we know that the money will be used to help children who are pupils like us, but who haven't so much to eat as we have.

"The senior class has already sent its contribution. Two weeks from today the sophomores and the freshmen will send you theirs. After that the lower school will take up our slogan: 'Feed yourself and a hungry child.'"

And THE TRIBUNE appeals to its readers to help these children by giving what they can to the Hungry School Children's fund.

Following the appeal to commuters on Monday morning to send their gifts the fund took a sudden jump yesterday, the day's total being $275. Many of the gifts were mailed from downtown.

Club Sends Donation.

One club, the A. T. A. A. of Oak Park, discontinued its activities a few days ago and sent $2.89 left in the treasury to the fund. Patsy Freer, 11 years old, of Hinsdale, sent $2.35, which she explained was some of her birthday money. A gift of $1 came in honor of Victor Joseph's birthday, and accompanying a gift from S. B. K. came the word that he would "send contributions as often as I possibly can." The day's gifts are acknowledged as follows:

EXPLORERS FIND MANY SKELETONS BURIED IN TUNNEL

OAXACA CITY, Mexico, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Prof. Alfonso Caso's archaeological expedition, which is excavating tombs in Monte Alban, where early this year he opened an extremely valuable tomb, has discovered an underground passage several hundred feet long in which were many human skeletons. Prof. Caso attached importance to the tunnel, which apparently confirms ancient legends and modern theories that the Oaxaca hills and mountains around Monte Alban, seat of the ancient Mixtecan empire, were honeycombed with connecting tunnels used in battle campaigns. Skeletons which cluttered the tunnel floor are as yet unexplained.

PAPEN PREDICTS GERMAN UNITY WILL CURE ILLS

Hints He May Step Down as Chancellor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Chancellor Franz von Papen, speaking to the Foreign Press association in his first post election address, today declared he is confident that "a real national concentration is coming" which will aid Germany to recover internationally and to regain its position on par with other nations.

The chancellor hinted that he might step down from his post when he said that "personal questions do not matter; the aims of the government will be pursued unswervingly."

Stresses Need for Strong Hand.

Von Papen placed the blame for the increase of communist strength in the reichstag election on Sunday on the "political methods" pursued by foreign countries against Germany since 1918.

"It demonstrates the need of a strong hand at the helm," he said. "Authoritarian government is not inconsistent with democracy. They complement each other."

He attacked the Versailles treaty and reiterated Germany's claim for equality in armaments. The Lausanne conference created a sound beginning by doing away with reparations, he said, and pointed to the forthcoming world economic conference as the next great opportunity for important achievements.

Sidesteps French Plan.

Von Papen would not commit himself on the new French plan for disarmament, pleading insufficient information as the reason, but he indicated that Germany would welcome it if it provided, as it appears to do, disarmament on equal terms.

"Europe never will be at peace unless the principles of equality and self-determination are accepted and acted upon by all nations," he said.

Honduran Editor Slain; No Trace of Murderer

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Pedro Fuentes Pineda, editor of the Santa Rosa newspaper El Far, was murdered yesterday. The murderer escaped and no trace of him has been found.

FAMOUS LONG ISLAND HOME BURNS; LOSS IS PUT AT $1,000,000

Kings Point, L. I., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Fire early this morning destroyed Preston Hall, the home of Dr. Preston Pope Satterwhite, with nearly its entire contents, including many fine paintings, rare books, and valuable rugs and tapestries and famous echo organ. The damage is estimated at close to $1,000,000.

The fire, believed to have started from a short circuit in the pipe organ, was discovered by Dr. Satterwhite a short time after he arrived home from New York. A few valuable possessions were salvaged by servants.

Preston Hall, known formerly as Martin Hall, was considered one of the showplaces of Long Island and before the death of Mrs. Satterwhite, the former Florence Brokaw, in 1927, was the scene of many brilliant social functions.

U. S. EMBASSY HIT BY FIRE BALLS IN RIO; REDS JAILED

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 8.—The police today seized several men on charges of hurling blazing pitch balls at the United States embassy here Sunday night. The pitch balls, thrown from a speeding automobile, blackened the porches and entrance doors.

The police said the prisoners were members of a communistic society. The prisoners said they attacked the embassy to protest against the death sentence imposed on seven Negroes in the Scottsboro, Ala., rape case.

Communist propaganda pamphlets were found on the embassy lawn. A similar attack was made on the Chilean embassy last month.

[Last Monday the United States Supreme court set aside the death sentence of the Negroes and ordered a new trial on the ground that the defendants had not been fairly tried.]

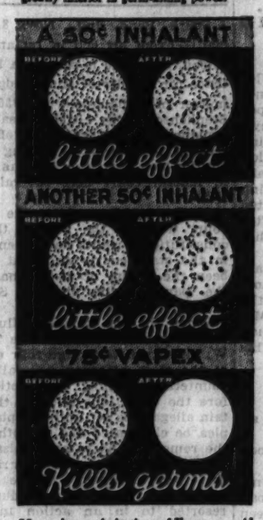
SCIENCE PROVES VAPEX IS EFFECTIVE INHALANT

Unbiased laboratory tests show it is preferable to imitations for relieving head-colds

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.



Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are sold as be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

THESE tests prove that one inhalant, even at five times its price, would be far more valuable than the others. This inhalant is Vapex, and it now costs only 75c.

For Vapex kills germs always present during a head-cold. Far better than words, these photographs show you the extra protection and value that Vapex gives you. They prove that "imitations" of Vapex are seldom "just as good."

When you find yourself catching cold, breathe the refreshing Vapex vapor. It quickly relieves distress . . . clears the head, stops sniffling, lets you breathe easily. Safe to use for children. Easy to apply—just a few drops on the handkerchief and at the ends of the pillow.

Insist on V-A-P-E-X—at your druggist's.

AS President of Medinah Athletic Club I take pleasure in extending to all Masons, Blue Lodge, Chapter, Council, Knight Templar and Scottish Rite, also to their families, a cordial invitation to avail themselves of the facilities of this beautiful club, joining with us of the Shrine in making this institution a monument to the whole order of Masonry.

It is my hope that in mingling with your fellow craftsmen you will find many opportunities for recreation, congenial companionship and the making of social and business contacts of lasting worth.

World's Most Beautiful Club, complete with Banquet Rooms, Ball Rooms, Living Quarters and Athletic Facilities unsurpassed.

Suites and Single Rooms

For Members, Guests —and their FAMILIES

All the pleasures and advantages of the most magnificent club in the city—combined with the comforts of a home.

ORGANIZED and incorporated in 1925 as a Corporation (not for profit) for the purpose of building a Club based on the fraternal principles of Masonry and restricted to the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine and their families. Construction began in 1928 and on April 15th, 1929, the bronze doors were opened wide to its members.

Towering 42 stories above the street it looks to be what it is—the finest and most magnificent club in the world, fifteen of its floors housing the recreational facilities—consisting of luxuriously appointed lounges, beautiful dining rooms, ball rooms, swimming pool, gymnasium, Turkish bath and all forms of athletic diversions. Millions of dollars were spent on the building, millions more on equipment, furnishings and decoration. No expense was spared, no detail overlooked that might add to the richness of its interiors, to the comfort and convenience of its appointments.

Memberships in this magnificent club previously sold from $550.00 to $3,500.00 and were well worth it, for the prestige, social and business advantages which membership in such a club conveys.

Word of its wonders soon spread to all parts of the country and abroad and men internationally famous made it a port of call. Today its 442 rooms and apartments are constantly filled and many of the business and social leaders of Chicago live here the year round.

In the last year the club has gone forward, all departments having prospered during recent months so that today Medinah Athletic Club is successful and sound—a credit to its management and source of pride to its faithful members.

Such is the institution which voted to change its by-laws so as to enable others of Masonic affiliations to apply for membership—free from any initiation fee whatever, and subject only to the payment of small monthly dues guaranteed to be non-assessable forever—terms more favorable than those reserved even for charter members. Available only for a limited time and until our roster has been completed.

The objective is to make of the Medinah Athletic Club the greatest center of Masonic activity in the world.

NO. SIDE WOMEN VOTE, THEN GO TO COOKING SCHOOL

Tribune Expert Tells All About Pie Dough.

Going to the polls to cast their votes yesterday did not prevent several thousand north side women from considering that their own special realm is the kitchen. They came alike, Democrats and Republicans, to THE TRIBUNE's School of Cookery, being held this week in the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue.

When Master of Ceremonies Phil Maxwell emerged from a voting booth on the stage to begin the program's intial hour of entertainment and asked how many women in the audience had visited the polls virtually every woman raised a hand. Which did not impress Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, nationally known home economics expert, nearly as much as their response when she asked how many of them "really loved to cook."

A Capacity Crowd.

Despite the drizzly morning a few women began to arrive at 8:30 o'clock. By 10:20 o'clock, when the doors were opened, 500 were there. Before 1 o'clock, when the program opened, every seat was occupied, while other women sat on window ledges, on railings, on tables and other improvised seats.

At noontime hundreds of women could be seen eating their lunches from paper parcels. Others had brought books, magazines and newspapers to read while they waited.

One woman produced a pink silk baby's coat in a matter of fact way and began sewing on it. Another got out her knitting. The room was buzzing with political talk, but other conversation overheard concerned recipes. Two young women, scanning the sheet of recipes for the week, pointed at the recipe for "eggnog pie."

About Pie Dough.

"Now I hope she tells us whether it is all right to use your hands in making pie dough," one said earnestly.

Mrs. Chitwood did.

"Your hands were made to work with," she said with vigor. "Always use them when you need them. You don't need to feel apologetic about it at all. The best cooks do."

As for pie crust, however, her rule was: "The quicker you handle it the better it is."

A comfortable German matron among the club women who acted as hostesses clicked her teeth and smiled.

"Just what I always said," she said with satisfaction to the woman next to her.

Stuffed Baked Apples.

Eggnog pie was not the only delicacy she prepared with a few twists of the wrist and a deft turn of the egg beater and mixing spoon. There were stuffed baked apples and stuffed steak, the latter transforming inexpensive cuts of meat into succulent morsels.

The party sandwiches brought exclamations of delight from the housewives, and oatmeal cookies, made for a depression pocketbook and a discriminating palate, came out of the oven in time to remind the audience they would be a simple thing to fix for dinner.

Every one at the cookery school had a fine time. They sang songs with Frank Bennett, accompanied by his wife, Cathryn Bennett, at the piano. When "Sweet Adeline" was announced they sang it with as much gusto as several thousand sentimental tenors would. They heard Ruth Streeter and the W-G-N Neapolitan baritone, Lawrence Salerno, in vocal solos. They laughed as Billy Bryant and his supervillain, Clyde Shafer, who are playing in "Hamlet" at the Cort theater, clowned in solemn manner.

Gives an Encore.

Carl Moore, orchestra director, who appeared by the courtesy of the Kennaway Music and Entertainment, Inc., sang an Arkansas song about an old pine tree, and was called back by applause to do his hog calling act.

Several children's numbers, under the supervision of the Betty Jones School of Dancing, were featured. The most popular number was by a group of children about 4 and 5 years old, each of whom danced with total disregard of what the others did. They were applauded loudly.

Ed Smith, W-G-N announcer, also was introduced to the audience.

Mrs. Chitwood was introduced by Miss Mary Meade, THE TRIBUNE cooking editor, who is directing the School of Cookery, now in its final week. In the two previous weeks 40,000 women have attended from the south and west sides, and Miss Meade is receiving hundreds of letters a day asking information on recipes, she said

Miss Rhea Seeger, fashion editor of THE TRIBUNE, made a brief talk.

Today's session in the Aragon ballroom will begin at 1 p. m. Among the features of the program will be Ben Bernie, who will act as guest master of ceremonies through the courtesy of the College in, Hotel Sherman.

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

Leo Tellibrini, 13 years old, 2314 West 23d street, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries suffered two weeks ago when he fell from a tree in the yard of his home.

Cold ABORTION
(with lemon juice)

Have you ever tried aborting a cold? When you abort your cold, it's gone; the system is rid of it! The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

GERMANY JAILS RACKETEERS FOR TRICKING ENVOYS

Fake Soviet Papers Sold to Diplomats.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—To please the soviet Russians, a Berlin court staged secret sessions to decide the fate of two petty swindlers who were charged with selling fake news to foreign diplomats stationed here. Members of the foreign press were called as witnesses and were compelled to spend several days in the cold corridors of the court building. A sign "public excluded" was affixed and taken off from the courtroom door at regular intervals.

The trial was the result of the apparent gullibility of diplomats. A former Russian actor, Gelagin, and a former Persian accountant, Afschar, made their living for years by hanging around the terminal of trains to and from Russia. Sometimes they spotted a prominent man trying to get on or off incognito. Then the two rushed to sell their tip to newspaper offices for a dollar or two.

Pay for Russian "Papers."

They also sold their tips to embassies at a much higher rate. The pair then discovered that embassies were willing to pay high prices for Russian documents. They brought documents and press departments of embassies and legations paid for them.

Gelagin and Afschar called on their customers clad in the height of fashion. Afschar offered to sell a death sentence signed by Dictator Josef Stalin. It looked crude, but diplomats fell for the story and paid as high as $250 for such document. Each diplomat believed Afschar and Gelagin were his own private tipsters.

By chance it was discovered that any and all diplomats were in the market. The diplomats denounced Gelagin and Afschar to the police.

Refuse to Testify.

The Russian embassy was indignant. The German courts decided long sessions and severe sentences were necessary to show Russia—Germany's ally by the treaty of Rapallo—that Germany felt highly concerned about the matter.

The diplomats, who had ordered and bought documents from the arrested men, made use of their prerogatives and refused to appear in court to testify. Representatives of the foreign press who had purchased tips from Gelagin and Afschar concerning Russian officials were summoned as witnesses.

U. S. IS SPENDING 315 MILLIONS ON PUBLIC BUILDINGS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The treasury department announced today that public buildings costing 315 million dollars when completed are now under contract or under construction by the government. Approximately one-fifth of the money involved is being expended in the District of Columbia where nine buildings are being constructed under treasury department supervision. Other federal construction agencies are spending other millions on new public buildings in the capital.

The treasury's latest report showed that 493 million dollars has been specifically authorized for public building construction up to date. A total of 254 buildings have been completed at a cost of $92,000,000.

30,000 REBELS DEFY JAPANESE; SPREAD TERROR

Tokio Hurls Manchurian Army Against Foes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 8.—The Japanese army today faces the most difficult task that has ever confronted it in peace time. The full force of its strength in Manchuria is concentrated on a drive on the ubiquitous guerrilla bands and insurgents that infest the Tungpien region east of Mukden, the most productive area in Manchuria. The great Fushun colliery is situated in this area.

The Japanese had to wait until the crop of kaoliang [a grain resembling kafir corn] was harvested before launching their drive, and now they will have to work fast before the full rigor of the bitter Manchurian winter sets in. It was practically impossible to do anything until the kaoliang was cut, as the guerrillas used the vast fields of tall stalks with great success as a shield for their operations.

Similar to Eastern U. S.

If, for comparison's sake, a map of the United States were used instead of one of Manchuria, the Tungpien region would include all the eastern states and cover the area westward as far as Illinois. The Tungpien region is as important to Manchuria as these states are to America.

Much of this region is mountainous and ideal for the activities of the guerrillas. They have availed themselves of these natural advantages to the fullest extent, swooping down on towns and villages, and especially isolated outposts of Japanese and farming communities of Corean settlers, murdering and looting the desolated homesteads without mercy.

According to the most reliable estimate, the guerrillas in the Tungpien number 30,000. The Japanese subjects in this region, mostly Corean farmers, are estimated to number 170,000.

Long Swords and Red Spears.

The Japanese in their present campaign will have to contend principally with the Lord Swords and the Red Spear band. The Long Swords operate in the northeastern corner of Tungpien. Here Tang Chu-wu, the leader of the insurgents, has gone to the extent of establishing a training school for officers, a depot to supply his men with clothes, and an arsenal to replenish their arms and munitions.

The Japanese claim Tang is being supplied with funds by Chang Hauchiang, who was ousted by Japan as governor of Manchuria. Tang is also printing and issuing paper currency, imitating the Manchukuo bank notes, with which to purchase supplies from the people of the surrounding country when his funds from Chang run short.

The Long Sword men have been most active near Hailung. They are the ones who have ripped up the tracks of the Mukden-Hailung railway on numerous occasions, causing great difficulties in its operation.

The Red Spear Band.

The Red Spear band operates in Kirin province. These obstinate guerrillas, numbering somewhere between 5,000 and 10,000 strong, have been terrorizing the region around the city of Hailun [not to be confused with Hailung]. Also in Kirin is a band of several thousand guerrillas under the command of the notorious chieftians, Li Tu and Ching Chao.

Another extremely difficult situation confronts the Japanese army in the northwest, in Heilungkiang province, where Gen Su Ping-wen, who was a high officer of the Manchukuo army with the duty of guarding the Chinese Eastern railway, obtained control of the extensive region between the Nonni river and Manchuli, on the Siberian border.

Seeks to Replace Gen. Ma.

The Japanese charge that Su, under cover of having part of his troops revolt on the pretense of not having received their wages, managed to get a movement well under way before its true meaning was discovered, which was the establishment of a separate state with himself at the head. It is generally felt here that Su's ambition is to take up the rôle of the vanished Gen. Ma Chan-shan.

There is no doubt, say the Japanese, that the influence generally directing the widespread disturbances in Manchuria is doing so with the object of embarrassing and discrediting the Manchukuo-Japanese régime as being unable to maintain order.

59 MISSING JAPANESE SOLDIERS ARE FEARED KILLED BY CHINESE

TOKIO, Nov. 9 [Wednesday.]—(AP)—Rengo News agency dispatches from Tsitsihar, Manchuria, today said it was feared a Japanese detachment of 59 infantrymen had been wiped out by guerrilla fighters north of Tsitsihar.

The detachment has been missing for eleven days. It was dispatched on Oct. 28 to the relief of the Tainchen garrison, near the Chinese controlled branch railway out of Tsitsihar, where Chinese irregulars were reported to have attacked.

Eight bodies were recovered. Dispatches said it was feared the remainder of the troops had encountered an overwhelming enemy.

TO THE MAN WHOSE CANDIDATE LOST!
(OR WON!)

Well—it's over. The air is cleared. The mood of suspense that has charged the atmosphere these past hectic weeks is dispelled. The American people have made their decision. Decisions are always stimulating. Once a certain problem is off your mind you turn to the next one. And so—

WINNER or LOSER—whether you are on the "winning" or "losing" side—the profit platform for keen-sighted industrialists during the next four years is built of these planks:

☐ (1) Analyze—Put your business under the microscope. Give every department—production, sales, merchandising, advertising—another searching analysis. Check and double check every detail of your plans. Be sure you're right, then go ahead.

☐ (2) Apply Research—Put the searchlight of science into every nook and cranny of the business. Apply this efficient tool to the development of new ideas, new methods, new products, new ways and means of creating new avenues for business.

☐ (3) Diversify or Concentrate—Which? Many a concern will reap profits by adding new products and even extending its activities into new fields of distribution. Others will advance by "sticking to their knitting," by improving present products and by applying intelligent selling in the fields they know best. Still other astute industrialists will throw out products which offer little for the future and involve high overhead. There is one "best way out" for every manufacturer. Have you found it?

☐ (4) Modernize—Revamp those plant facilities that were good enough a few years back, but will be hopelessly obsolete tomorrow. New layout for continuous flow of materials has, in many a case, proved itself the answer to "too much plant, not enough earning power." Many a plant modernization program held in abeyance during the recent period of uncertainty will now be pushed to completion . . . actively cutting costs in your industry before the robins come again.

☐ (5) Re-Locate—If your plant is hopelessly off center, if freight charges are eating up profits, if markets have shifted to other localities, if sources of raw materials have dipped out of range . . . don't let sentiment keep you from abandoning the old "white elephant." Strategically located branch plants whose construction has been delayed "until after election" will now get under way.

☐ (6) Advertise—Fortify and improve your sales position by an investment in carefully planned advertising and sales promotion. Insist that full support of the entire organization—from executives down to mailing clerks—is given to the men on the road.

"MEAT"—At considerable expense, time and effort, Austin Engineers are now compiling valuable facts, statistics, charts, etc., relating to the profitable re-location of plants for many different industries. This data includes actual examples (offered with permission of the owners) of plants that have been moved (1) from Chicago to Ohio (2) Minneapolis to Chicago (3) New Jersey to Chicago (4) California to New England (5) New England to Pittsburgh—and others. It also includes statistics covering labor costs, taxes, house rents, electric light and gas rates, school facilities, etc.—in fact all worth-while information that has a bearing on plant re-location. Here's information that is deserving of special study by industrialists, railroad presidents, directing directors, and bankers. It will make men think! Phone, wire, write or use the memo below.

THE HOME VOTE Decides

NEVER before during the last twenty years has the domestic caucus been so important in reaching decisions as it is today. Every politician knows that national elections in this generation are won or lost in the councils of the home. And any power that can influence decisions within the family council is of paramount importance not only to politicians, but to all whose business is dependent upon the purchasing habits of the family.

Despite political changes . . . despite the fluctuations of economic conditions . . . family life goes on. Family necessities . . . family aspirations must result in sales of commodities and services. The chief problem of the manufacturer or merchant of today is to win the confidence of the family . . . and to demonstrate that what he has to offer represents real value in the home.

There is no surer way of entering the homes of Detroit than by a message in The Detroit News.

This paper is recognized as one of the most influential home newspapers in the world. It has the largest circulation in Michigan, the largest circulation in the Detroit area, and the largest circulation in Detroit. But of greatest significance is the fact that The News reaches 71% of homes with better than average incomes—$3000 or more annually!

WIFE OF BANKER ENDS LIFE IN CHICAGO HOTEL

An inquest will be held today into the death of Mrs. Merlin M. Dunbar, 40 years old, wife of a vice president of the Union Trust company of Indianapolis, who committed suicide early yesterday in her room at the Morrison hotel. Mrs. Dunbar made a long distance telephone call to her sister in Indianapolis, Mrs. H. F. Emick, after swallowing poison in her room. The latter notified Mr. Dunbar, who in turn called the hotel. Dr. F. K. Hick, house physician, was summoned, but he was unable to revive her and she died three hours later.

Mrs. Dunbar left two letters, both sealed, one to her husband and the other addressed to the Rev. W. W. Wiant, pastor of the North M. E. church, Indianapolis, of which she was a member. Neither letter was opened by the police. Mrs. Dunbar had registered in the hotel on Monday night. Her husband left for Chicago immediately after her death. In Indianapolis Emick declined to make a statement concerning the death of his sister-in-law. The Rev. Mr. Wiant said that he knew nothing of the Dunbars' private life.

The husband and a son, Lucian, who is a student at Indiana university, came to Chicago yesterday and identified the body of Mrs. Dunbar. The husband told police his wife had been in ill health for several months and that she disappeared Monday morning.

FOES OF RADICALS SPLIT; ARGENTINE RULE IS IN PERIL

Justo's Path Is Thorny; Rivalries Grow.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 8.—President Justo of Argentina is beginning to realize that the path of a government placed in power by an alliance of political parties having nothing in common with each other beyond opposition to the radical oligarchy deposed by the Uriburu revolution of 1930 is a thorny one and full of pitfalls.

Himself a Radical, he is a nominee of the conservatives—now known as the National Democratic party—who form the main body of his supporters, the moderate radicals and the Independent Socialists.

Against him are arrayed—though not in coalition—the vast bulk of the Radical party, which still clings to the idea that unquestioning obedience to the wishes of former President Trigoyen is its first and last duty, the Progressive Democrats and the Socialist party proper.

Own Supporters Split.

This lineup conceivably would cause President Justo little uneasiness if complete harmony prevailed among his own supporters in congress, who by sheer weight of numbers can easily swamp the combined opposition. But the harmony among his supporters, which marked the election campaign, has lately been perturbed by several jarring notes.

Each group is chafing at the restraints imposed upon it by the others. The National Democrats—or at least a great many of them—are bitterly opposed to any concessions to ideas not strictly in accordance with orthodox conservatism, while others dislike Justo's steadfast opposition to any financial measures savoring of inflation. A third group, the dyed in the wool Tories, never cease to urge the advantages of a semi-Fascist régime.

Two Disturbing Factors.

The growing coolness towards Justo among a large section of the public may be attributed to the persistence of hard times and to disillusionment resulting from the British economic conference at Ottawa. It is apparent that in neither case can the blame be justly attached to President Justo and his colleagues, but they are now called upon to suffer the consequences just the same.

While these factors do not imply the imminent disintegration of the Justo government, they are sufficiently disturbing to cause serious misgivings in official circles which feel that a loss of popularity has been sustained.

New Maugham Book Is Tense Story of Life

But 'Narrow Corner' Has Calm Surface.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Narrow Corner," by W. Somerset Maugham. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published today.

IN Somerset Maugham's most dramatic manner "The Narrow Corner" tells the story of a corner of the earth so narrow as to be scarcely discernible on the map, inhabited by no more white men than can be counted on the fingers of one hand and a lone white woman. There is drama in the very meeting of the men—all fugitives from life, each man a "character" in the very fact of his being in such out of the way places of the earth.

SOMERSET MAUGHAM.

Mr. Maugham's "narrow corner" is a more esoteric one, however, than the geographical. The flyleaf of the book contains this unexplained sentence: "Short, therefore, is man's life, and narrow is the corner of the earth wherein he dwells," which, although there is no indication of its source, is to be found in Marcus Aurelius' Meditations, and ends the paragraph which begins: "Remember that man's life lies all within this present, as 'twere but a hair's breadth of time; as for the rest the past is gone, the future yet unseen."

The intensity of life—the "present"-ness of it—is apparent in every page of "The Narrow Corner." It is, in relation to time and eternity, but a hair's breadth that is recorded in the pages of this strangely pulsating novel. There is a quality in it like the throbbing of a nerve in the throat at moments of high excitement. No matter how outwardly calm a person that nerve is a telltale to a keen observer. With just such outer calm as a well poised person can muster in moments of high tension "The Narrow Corner" faces the reader, dignified, master of itself in every line and every paragraph, but underneath its calm surface the nerves of the tale are so a-tingle that the reader senses, almost on its first page, that throb of excitement, and never throughout the three hundred-odd pages do the nerves of the book cease to twitch under its serenity, and never, even when the last page is finished, are the tensions loosed, for the secret of the main character in the book is never disclosed.

He is a doctor, an Englishman living by choice in the native section of a Chinese city, famed among the Chinese as a miracle worker with diseased eyes, and, as the book opens, waiting for the boat to take him back to Fu-chou after having made a month long journey to an island in the Pacific to remove a cataract from a wealthy Chinaman's eyes. Disillusioned—but why the reader is never to know—a materialist and an idealist at the same time [so far as youth is concerned], an addict of opium, he serves as a sort of modern Greek chorus to the drama which takes place, filiping it with observations interpretive and wise.

Nor is disclosed the whole truth about Nichols, the sea captain, to whom only the crooked ways of man were enticing and enheartening, who "if he thought there was twenty pounds to be made without risk by doing us in, you and me," as Fred Blake says to the doctor, wouldn't hesitate, but who gave a stupendous performance in the monsoon. He serves as a sort of wizened Falstaff, with all of the Falstaffian virtues turned to meannesses, but with an endless flow of words vivid with reality.

But the mystery which tingles through the first pages of the book—the reason why a young man, Fred Blake, is adrift [almost literally that] in Malaysian waters—is disclosed before the end, only to be topped as the book closes, with an even more mysterious ending.

Erik, a young giant Dane who loves the island on which he lives with a passion only second to the passion with which he loves the memory of a woman and the actual being of that woman's daughter, is mysteriously abloom with goodness, so evident that the hearts of all who meet him are touched.

In Louise, the sole woman in the book; is a dame fatale with all of the most vibrant mystery of the type.

On the surface, three men meet on a remote island in the Pacific, take boat for another island, go through a monsoon, reach their port safely at last, meet three other men and a woman, and, after a few days, leave. A calm and, for most of the book, uneventful tale. But under the calm that pulsing nerve of mysterious realities, hinted at, sometimes disclosed, oftener only made more mysterious as the pages fly through the reader's excited fingers.

Things certainly look good over at McVickers! The house is jammed with people laughing heartily at two of the most popular women in the movies—Marie Dressler and Polly Moran.

And they're good—in spite of their vehicle, not because of it. The film hasn't a very strong plot, is hampered by some pretty righteous and Pollyann-ish dialogue, and a good bit of common, ordinary slap stick, but with Dressler and Moran you can take almost anything. I thought Polly Moran particularly good this time—she sails grandly and ludicrously through the film, and isn't saddled with some of the awkward and sticky lines handed out to her partner, Marie.

We see Miss Dressler as one of the leading citizens and bank president of the town of Warrensville. She hands over the presidency of the bank to her son, John, on the day of his marriage to the daughter of her old friend, Lizzie Praskins. Things go smoothly until the depression arrives—and then the bank fails. The way in which Miss Dressler settles everything would sound unconvincing and silly on paper, but it's not so bad in this movie with such a competent actress to interpret it.

The film isn't very skillfully or well done, but it certainly had the audience roaring yesterday morning. The two leads and a little white dog called Mutt made the picture worth while for me.

Lovely Arms Are Attainable, Says Expert

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One nice thing about the fall and winter fashions is that if your arms aren't pretty you don't have to expose them in short sleeved or sleeveless frocks at the tea or bridge hour and during the business day. For evening wear you can't keep them hid unless you remain jacketted the evening through, which isn't according to Mrs. Hoyle, we understand. So, there they stand or fall on the whiteness and smoothness of skin and the clearness of the elbow corners.

It's a question in my mind whether the shape of the arm is worth worrying about. If it is fat, of course you'll worry conscientiously until the excess is off. But if it is thin and you're thin, or if the shape is not anything like the prettiest arm you have seen, I do not see any point in wasting time worrying about it, because you have an ally in gestures of grace. And these can do marvelous things for a stringy arm or one not too well proportioned. I could name a half dozen theatrical stars with what might easily be called homely arms, but this homeliness is lost in their clever management. I've watched performances carefully, for arms fascinate me.

Of course, clearing the blotched, mottled or gooseflesh skin on the arm is something else. This you can do. Also, you can whiten the elbow joint so it will look less like a "joint," if I may be permitted a lowdown pun. If your elbows are like dried and dirty old parchment skin, you can scrub them like merry old Ned. With a husky brush, too. Then rub your cream or olive oil in. Bind them for the night and rub in more cream in the morning.

You can shape them up quickly with ever so little care. For the rough and red arm we can only recommend arm exercises to get the circulation up; then let water run over them more and more, and let it get colder and colder. Warm up after with a rough towel.

Don't be afraid to use a stiff brush on your arms. The worst it will do will be to make them temporarily red from improved circulation.

Sport Clothes for Cold Days Win Approval

Blankety Materials Come in Bright Colors.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Shivering shoppers will be glad to hear about the new blankety looking sports clothes that are a find for chilly weather any hour of the day whether you are a sports enthusiast or not. There's nothing warmer looking than these new ideas, and if thickness and wooliness keep you cozy these are the clothes for you. The fabric is something new—a smooth surface that looks exactly like a warm blanket, to be practical and properly descriptive.

The colors are as heated as the thickness of the material—deep old gold, maroon, green, and brown. But the way you anchor these swanky new clothes around your slowly congealing blood stream is something to cheer about. Huge hingelike clips are all you use, three or more on the jackets and coats in most models, glittering gold and copper clips that are positively blinding to the interested spectator, but are the smartest keep your togethers that have yet arrived to shock a busy world.

One street ensemble tailored with a swanky Savile row manner consists of three pieces. A short, separate skirt [modestly eschewing any of the aforementioned clips], a skirt that fits warmly and flares slightly around the lower edge with a lot of fashionable gores.

A military short jacket that is double breasted tops the skirt to make a knockout suit for general wear.

The third piece of this trio is the long wrap around long coat. This coat costume is perfect as far as the general tailored description is concerned but the color combination will leave you gasping with suspense until it belongs to you.

The enveloping Greta Garbo type top coat is of maroon as the match to the separate short skirt and the stunning short jacket of gold. With this exciting combination a knowing clothes hound can have the time of her life matching sweaters, thick crinkled crêpe blouses, and the thoroughly chilled soul can find some of the new corduroy blouses as an extra and warming layer.

Another swagger affair is the same sort of blankety stuff in a good bright green wool, but this time it is just a skirt and jacket duet with shining brass buttons that march up the front of the chest in double formation. Again you can have a grand time collecting suitable blouses or sweaters with dizzy striped effects to wear with the windbreaker ensemble.

If you crave furs and plenty of fur to keep you warm, look for the bold, blustering woolens in checked patterns that almost scream for attention . . . the wildest checks and plaids are the smartest, especially when they are combined with sports furs such as lapin and silver muskrat.

For the shopper who doesn't fancy checks and plaids there are some heartening colors that ought to more than satisfy—good brilliant shades of copper, burnt orange, mahogany and sizzling blues and greens that certainly do great things to such hitherto neglected silver muskrat pelts.

Clever designers have thoughtfully provided all kinds of cold weather clothes this year, the good looking things that keep you wrapped warm and thickly, but keep you slim and swanky with all kinds of fashionable personality.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright 1932, by News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

WHILE THE CITY SLEEPS.

Prof. Fordney met Sergt. Reynolds and Benny Waters in the corridor of St. John's hospital.

"He just ran down and killed a guy with his Ford," explained Reynolds nodding toward Benny. "We're waiting for the report."

"Hello, professor," greeted Dr. Lyman as he joined the group. "Well, Waters, you certainly hit him! The fatal blow above his right ear fractured the skull, his left arm and leg are broken and his glasses cut him badly around the eyes."

"My God! I'll never drive again. I couldn't prevent the accident," moaned Benny turning toward Fordney. "I was going south on Grace and as I came to Webster street this fellow stepped off the near curb and started to run across the street. He tripped and fell headlong right in front of the car, otherwise I'd have missed him. Jumping out, I turned him over and saw his face was covered with blood, but I didn't think he was dead. Just then two fellows came along and helped me pick him up. As we were putting him in the car this officer arrived and drove here with me."

"You were on the right side of the road?" inquired Fordney.

"Yes."

"Did the two fellows witness the accident?"

"No. That section is pretty deserted at this time of night."

"Well, I guess you couldn't help it," offered Reynolds. "I'll get in touch with you if anything develops."

"On the contrary, sergeant," said the professor. "I don't believe it was an accident."

WHY?

'Brilliant' Is Term for Two Art Exhibitions

Critic Praises Works of H. A. Patterson.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two brilliant exhibitions of painting by Chicago artists have opened.

One is a group exhibit in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, and the other is a one man show in the Marshall Field galleries.

The group exhibit features the work of the "Tree studio" contingent, Pauline Palmer, Anna Lee Stacey, John F. Stacey, Wellington J. Reynolds, Marshall D. Smith, Lucie Hartrath, Gerald Frank, and Allen St. John. It includes also sculpture by Albin Polasek and John David Ercin.

The one man show is the work of Howard Ashman Patterson, who last spring delighted us at the Arts club.

Mr. Patterson is still delighting us. His paintings are fresh and lovely. They are spontaneous and natural, apparently bubbling out of the depths of his palette with little conscious effort on his part. They are charming in their grace and beauty. Whether he dilates upon the enchanted coast of Corsica with its green hills and red roofs lying along an azure sea or wanders in the grayer peace of a French village, or stops to perpetuate the wonders of a vase of flowers, in every case he presents his conception with clarity of color and an intelligent continuity of plan.

He is a modern in the best sense, a hedonist reveling in straight cut design and crystal tones. His various pictures, particularly "The Harbor, Corsica," "Villefranche sur Mer," "The Coast, Corsica," "Waterfront," and "French Riviera" are of such sparkling, genuine beauty that one would not tire of them easily.

Other paintings rich in color and line are seen in the Chicago galleries. The exhibit is so good it must be seen to be appreciated. Pauline Palmer has an exquisite still life, "Her Majesty." Lucille Hartrath has another perfect moment in her flower painting. Anna Lynch is delightful in her painting of the Tree studio garden; Gerald Frank is gay in "Dawn" and decorative in "Leopard."

Marshall D. Smith offers a beautiful, sleepy canvas in "The Old Lane" and J. Allen St. John shows up our gray municipal atmosphere, a mixture of smoke and mist, in "The Chicago River." Robert Grafton offers the finest portrait of Calvin Coolidge that has yet been seen.

This is a most unusual show, repeatedly brilliant. It will continue into December. The paintings by Mr. Patterson will be on view only two weeks. Both exhibitions are very well worth seeing.

Church Prohibits Kiss at Altar in Wedding Rites

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The practice of the bride and bridegroom kissing at the altar after the wedding ceremony is condemned by St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church, Chicago, according to the current issue of the American Lutheran. The same church prohibits the throwing of rice and confetti at weddings and it rules out the singing of "O Promise Me," "At Dawning," "I Love You Truly," and other songs "which have no religious or churchly character."

Thorne Donnelleys Plan Journey to Spend Christmas in Mexico

May Use De Luxe Auto Trailer That Is Furnished with All the Comforts of Home.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Thorne Donnelleys are planning to spend Christmas in Mexico, but how they are going to get there is a moot question. Mr. Donnelley is anxious to motor south, using the new trailer he has acquired to hitch on to his car, but Mrs. Donnelley thinks she would prefer to travel in a more de luxe style—not that the trailer isn't the last word in elegance and completeness as far as such things go, but it is a little cramped.

The trailer has a wee living room with bridge and backgammon tables that fold up and can be put away, and a radio to keep the occupants in close touch with the rest of the world; a tiny bedroom and a kitchenette with stove, refrigerator, and all the other necessities for such an important part of a traveling household.

The Donnelleys plan to leave about Dec. 15 for old Mexico, but whether they will go by caravan or by train or by air, or perhaps by a combination of the various modes of travel is not a settled thing.

The senior Princess Cantacuzene, who came to Chicago last week-end to make talks in this vicinity for the windup of the Republican presidential campaign, has been staying at the Palmer house in order to be near the national Republican woman's committee headquarters there.

With the election over, she is moving today to the residence of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, to have a quiet visit of about a week with them.

There will be no large entertainments for the princess, since she wishes to rest after the arduous work of the campaign and to visit with her son, Prince Michael Cantacuzene, and the other Chicago members of her family.

Former Harriet Houghteling Here

Mrs. Charles Curtis (Harriet Houghteling) is in Winnetka visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling. Dr. Curtis will come down in about ten days from the Grenfell settlement in Labrador, where he and his wife have resided since their marriage several yars ago.

Mrs. Curtis will meet him in Boston and they plan to spend most of the winter there and then go abroad for a short trip before returning to the Grenfell mission in the spring.

Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, who has been patiently convalescing for three months while her broken leg has been healing, has as her house guest this week Donna Fernanda Villarosa of Italy. Although the charming Mrs. Harris is unable to do any formal entertaining for her guest, she is at home every day to her friends and to the Chicago friends of Donna Villarosa.

Mrs. Harris has to face more months before she can try the difficult business of learning to walk all over again, and her many friends are doing all they can to cheer her with calls and flowers and books to while away the long hours.

Miss Jane Willett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Willett, and Samuel Gale Taylor III., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gale Taylor of 73 East Division street, will be married on Dec. 10. The ceremony will be a quiet one, with the Rev. Dr. Harrison Anderson, rector of the Fourth Presbyterian church, officiating, at the Willett residence at 2130 Lincoln Park West.

The service will be followed by a reception. Miss Gloria Griffiths will be Miss Willett's maid of honor, and Miss Imogene Bucklin and Miss Mildred Lawrence will be bridesmaids.

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Squeaking floors are certainly an inharmonious note—to put it mildly!—in the home interior. Because the trouble is so common does not mean that it is hopeless, or even very hard to remedy. Loosened nails cause most of the squeaks. Perhaps the wood has shrunk or the nails are pulling out. Whether the loosened nails are those which fasten the subfloor to the beams or the finish floor to the subfloor, the looseness must be taken care of. Call in a good carpenter, have him examine conditions—and remedy them. LOUISE BARGELT.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. The three hold nightly seances in the library. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Bradleton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to search for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The Tilburys are left Caroline's fortune, on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruin of an ancient abbey on the estate, which Caroline believed to be her father's wish. Natasha is arrested. It is learned that the man she'd been meeting secretly was her wastrel brother, Michael, who is wanted for theft and has left the country. News is received of his death. Natasha is brought to trial. There is no proof of guilt. She is freed, though still under suspicion. Neil continues the murder search. A notice appears in newspapers asking the return of an alligator bag, reward offered, no questions asked.

INSTALLMENT LI.

A STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

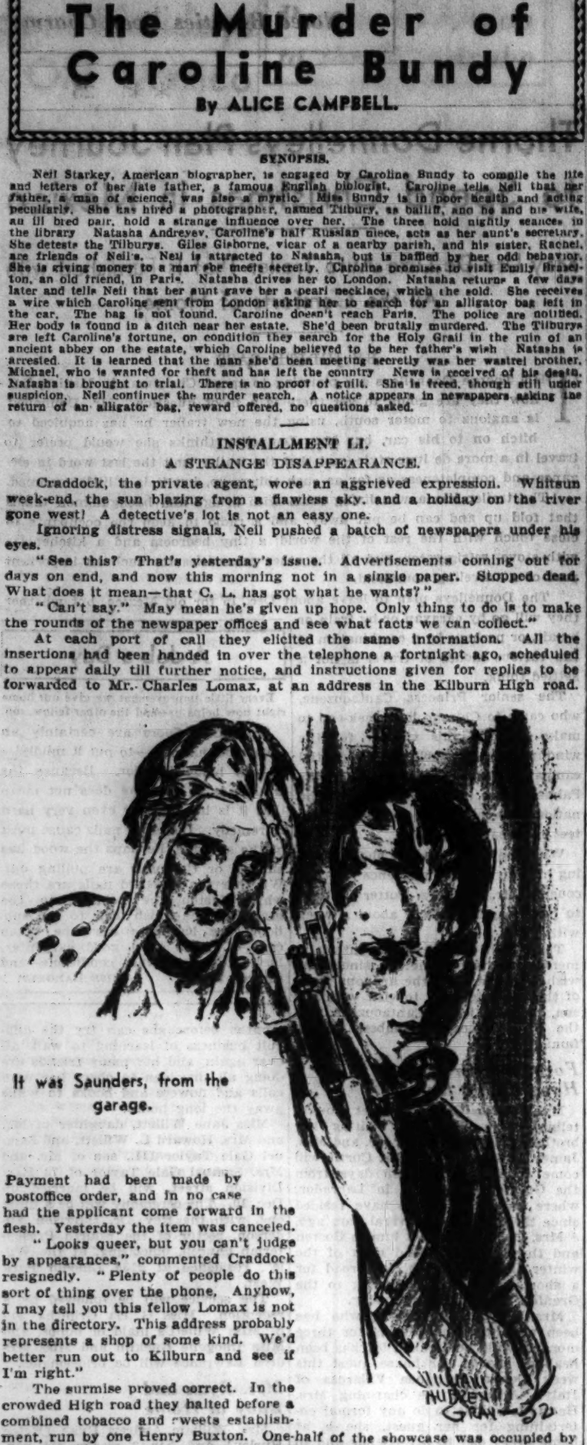
Craddock, the private agent, wore an aggrieved expression. Whitsun week-end, the sun blazing from a flawless sky, and a holiday on the river gone west! A detective's lot is not an easy one.

Ignoring distress signals, Neil pushed a batch of newspapers under his eyes.

"See this? That's yesterday's issue. Advertisements coming out for days on end, and now this morning not in a single paper. Stopped dead. What does it mean—that C. L. has got what he wants?"

"Can't say." May mean he's given up hope. Only thing to do is to make the rounds of the newspaper offices and see what facts we can collect."

At each port of call they elicited the same information. All the insertions had been handed in over the telephone a fortnight ago, scheduled to appear daily till further notice, and instructions given for replies to be forwarded to Mr. Charles Lomax, at an address in the Kilburn High road.



It was Saunders, from the garage.

Payment had been made by postoffice order, and in no case had the applicant come forward in the flesh. Yesterday the item was canceled.

"Looks queer, but you can't judge by appearances," commented Craddock resignedly. "Plenty of people do this sort of thing over the phone. Anyhow, I may tell you this fellow Lomax is not in the directory. This address probably represents a shop of some kind. We'd better run out to Kilburn and see if I'm right."

The surmise proved correct. In the crowded High road they halted before a combined tobacco and sweets establishment, run by one Henry Buxton. One-half of the showcase was occupied by bonbons, the other displayed cigarets, lighters and leather pouches. The detective left Neil in the taxi and lounged into the door with a nonchalant air.

Racked with suspense, Neil asked himself whether Charles Lomax was a real person in search of some bag totally unrelated to the Bundy case. Twice he started to join his companion and with difficulty restrained his impatience. The third time he was half out of the taxi when Craddock reappeared.

"Well?" cried Neil, bursting with anxiety.

"Just as I supposed," announced the other. "This Lomax is or pretends to be a traveling salesman with no fixed abode. For a short time he arranged to have his letters sent here and has been calling in several times a week to collect them. Nothing came, though, till yesterday morning."

"Yesterday!"

"Exactly. One letter, and he got it. As the advertisement's stopped, it must have been the one he was hoping for. If he's your man, he won't come back."

"One day late!" groaned Neil. "But did the woman say what he looked like?"

"Yes—or tried to. Might be Tilbury, and again it might not. England's full of small, fair men with moustaches. She examined the envelope, too, before giving it up. It was directed to C. L., care of the Express, and the original postmark, almost effaced, began with the letters G-l-a."

"Glastonbury!"

"Don't forget there's Glasgow, Glassford, and Glasbury, to name a few."

"It is Glastonbury—I'm sure of it. The letter was from the garage employé I've got my eye on. God! If only I'd known of this sooner!"

"Too bad. If both men live in the same town, your chance to catch either of them is gone now. It wouldn't take twenty-four hours for the property to change hands and be destroyed—if it is a case of getting rid of evidence."

"I'm afraid you're right. What's the next move?" urged Neil.

"Ah, that's a hard question. Neither of those two will admit anything, and you may be sure there were no witnesses to their deal. We could haul this tobacco woman down to Somerset to identify Tilbury, but where would that get us? The man has a perfect right to try to get back something Miss Bundy lost. He's her heir and trustee."

"Can't we arrest him on suspicion?"

"Suspicion of what? We've got to have a formal charge. No, the law won't help us there.

"O, I quite see it's no use, cried Neil. 'The scoundrel's slipped through our fingers. Carry on with the other line. It's all we've got left, I'm afraid."

"Meaning the lady's brother?" The tone sounded disparaging. "As you say. Of course I'll do my best, but don't be disappointed if it doesn't get us anywhere. The ground's been pretty thoroughly covered already, you know. It's like looking for a needle in a haystack. . . . Waterloo for you, I suppose? If you keep clear of the traffic, you can just make the 12:40."

Alone in the westbound train Neil cursed the fate which had brought him knowledge too late to turn it to account. What if Tilbury and Charles Lomax were the same? By no conceivable device could he now hope to trap the offerer of the reward, or force Bert Stokes into a damaging admission. Craddock was right. Whatever had been planned was already accomplished.

Still, even as the bearer of ill tidings, he was soon to see Natasha again. He must hold on to her with might and main, and if she fled from the scene of her wretchedness, go with her.

Four-eighteen . . . four-twenty. The platform at last! He sprang out, reached the street, looked eagerly around. No Natasha—no familiar two seater. Never mind, she would come. He would wait for her here.

A quarter of an hour's vigil found him less confident. With dampened spirits he betook himself to the garage to see if his car had been left there. No, apparently it had not. Perhaps the girl had not dared brave the neighborhood after all. He jumped into a taxi and hurried to Bishop's Paulton to find out why she had not met him.

The Gargantuan female at the George stared hard at him.

"Miss Andreyev? Haven't set eyes on her since she left with you yesterday. I supposed you knew where she'd got to. We don't."

"You mean she's not been back?" he roared at her.

She elaborated, maliciously.

"Taken nothing with her, left no message. I'm sure I don't know what to think. Car? If it's yours you mean, I've not seen that either. Look if you like, but I promise you it's not on our premises."

Gone, without warning, without explanation. Knowing him away, she had seized the opportunity to vanish. Why had she done this thing?

Dazed, benumbed, Neil crossed the street to the vicarage. She did not love him, she could not bring herself to love him. She was taking this way out to avoid explanations.

He spoke to Rachel dully. "Natasha's gone. I left her in my car at the station yesterday afternoon, and she's not been seen since. Do you know about it?"

"Gone?" Her startled eyes betrayed bewildered ignorance. "Why, she can't be! And yet—I wondered why I got no reply when I sent over some lilac to her. You don't think she's——"

The telephone pealed. She darted indoors, answered it, and handed the receiver to Neil. "It's for you . . . a man speaking. . . ."

It was Saunders, from the garage.

"Mr. Starkey? . . . a two seater's been brought in. We think it's yours. Constable noticed it standing empty between here and Stoke Paulton."

Empty——! What did this mean?

"No, I'll come. Keep the constable there." With a perturbed face he imparted the news to Rachel. "I don't like the look of this. I must report it right away."

She uttered a cry. "O, Neil, not that! You can't really think——"

He was already out of the gate and jumping into a taxi he had left unpaid.

Girl Resents Proposal of 50-50 Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I was going with a nurse still in training. I asked her one evening if she'd marry me and keep on with her training. She had only another year to go and I figured that I'd be making more money in a year and she'd be in an earning position, and together we could make a more assured go of it.

"She was furious. Argued that it was bad enough for a man to suggest that his wife work when emergencies arose in marriage, but counting on her working was something she could not admire in a man. Now, what the heck was wrong with my talk?—BILLIOUS."

Not a thing wrong with it, "Bill," unless your delivery was too brusque and businesslike. The material was O. K. But our sex keeps on dreaming of the "great protector" in bridegroom form, regardless of the economic adjustments that modern marriages demand.

The biggest problem we have at the moment is to get young couples to look at this financing of a home in terms of 1932. Generally, men are the ones to hug jealously to the old claim as sole provider. They are the ones loathe to face the possibility of letting a wife share the expenses. They are the ones who refuse to get right down to brass tacks and talk this home financing business out in modern terms.

It's fine and commendable where the finances are such that only the man has to be the provider. But the millions of women in employment are not there on any pin money pretext. They're working to help the family budget.

In countless cases, the only way marriage is possible is on the basis of the two pay envelopes. So, a young woman who hasn't earned the proposal of a man of means offers a slightly unbalanced picture in resenting a frank talk on the money end of marriage. In this particular instance finishing the training course is thoroughly recommended. Hers is a profession that stands one in good stead. And wives today are awake to the wisdom of being fortified with some kind of work that might prove self-supporting in an emergency.

The girls who attended the classes st year are all eager to return this ason and it is quite likely that many the current deubtantes will join em in the work. Of all the social rvice work done by members of the nior league and other charitable ganizations child care is the most ppealing, and the girls who have been iping at St. Vincent's are all sinrely interested in the children.

Hour of Bach Wins Ovation for Symphony

Orchestra Puts Breath of Life in Music.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Who would have dreamed only a few years ago that Mr. Stock, or any other orchestral conductor, could put on a full hour of Bach and make a success out of it? Mr. Stock did just that yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall, and as he went on interest and applause kept mounting until at the end there was what for a symphony audience amounted to an ovation.

Of course Mr. Stock has uncommon ability at putting the breath of life into music. He and the Chicago Symphony orchestra work together into that sort of an extra special organization. But there is rejoiceful evidence to the effect that Bach is getting to be considered an extra special composer, too, and not merely for the students but also for those who simply like music.

The program started with the Bach-Abert Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue, the prelude from the Well Tempered Clavier, at once creating a good tempered audience; the chorale by Abert himself, the fugue transcription of the greater G minor organ fugue. It passed to the B minor suite for strings and flute, during which Mr. Liegl became a brilliant virtuoso on the solo instrument. The third was Mr. Stock's transcription of the great prelude and fugue sometimes known as "St. Anne's."

There has been reason to say before, and there is equal reason for repeating it here, that Mr. Stock knows more about rewriting Bach in orchestral terms than any one in existence. One believes that Bach would have heartily approved this transcription. Mr. Stock used pretty nearly every known orchestral instrument, even to triangle and sleigh bells, but never for an instant did he step out of the Bach character. It was bright, but it kept its dignity, it built up a mighty climax without screaming over the fact, it stirred the feelings and satisfied the soul.

In the second half Mr. Stock conducted Dvorak's "New World" Symphony, a repetition of an inspiriting performance played earlier in one of the Thursday-Friday concerts.

While the orchestral concert was going on, Diana Huebert appeared in a dance recital in Fullerton hall across the street. The two events were so nearly simultaneous that it was impossible to be present at all of her program, but what was seen indicated that she is obviously of the contemporary school, approaching the dance as an abstract art as well as an interpreter of emotions and a maker of pictures. In them she displayed both expressive skill and the technical ability to make it count. She was assisted by Ruth Gordon at the piano.

A Diet Rich in Thrills Makes Life Seem Dull

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The other night a family was listening to something on the air—a program listened to faithfully every evening.

After it was over, the thirteen year old complained:

"Aw, I think it's a gyp having to go to school and do homework and not ever having anything exciting happen. Look at John and Betty in the play. They don't have to go to school and they travel around all the time and have all sorts of exciting adventures. Nothing ever happens around here."

Did you ever come out of the theater—after a thrilling or romantic or glamorous play— and have life seem awfully dull? Did you ever close a novel or biography of colorful personalities and events—of beautiful women and interesting men and have every day life seem flat and stale?

I suppose this child felt like that. It's perfectly natural. And all right occasionally. Children have to get some of their high adventure vicariously—through books or plays or radio. Not many of them meet excitement first hand.

But they must not have these excitements too young. Nor at any age must they have them too often.

Too much second hand adventure, thrill, romance, and glamour are likely to make ordinary school and play and amusements and affections seem pale. They're apt to throw out a child's sense of values.

Beware too rich a diet of romance movies, excitement, and even parties. I think it was Bertrand Russell who said that a child must be able to stand being bored. I'm not sure I agree with that literally but it would be preferable to the hectic unrest that some young people experience because they have too much mental and emotional stimulation.

"Sojourn in Mars" Ball Will Provide Funds for Gallery

Miss Cati Mount of the committee in charge of arrangements for the "Sojourn in Mars" artists' ball at the Stevens hotel on Dec. 9 yesterday said that some persons were confusing this affair with another to be given this month by the recently formed union of artists' models. The two events are entirely separate.

Gallery directors and art patrons of Chicago are backing the Mars ball, Miss Mount stated.

The "Sojourn in Mars" ball is held for a fund to create a permanent gallery for Chicago artists and to promote next year's outdoor art fair, Miss Mount added.

A $12.50 Pony Earns 7 Million with Tom Mix

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 9.—The old partnership of Tom Mix and Tony has been dissolved. The partnership took in $7,500,000 in the 23 years since it began, with Mix, then an obscure cowboy, paying Tony Gonzales, a small scale Mexican rancher of near Prescott, Ariz., $12.50 for the horse in 1909. Now Tony is being retired from his professional duties for the rest of his life and will live as a pensioner while Tony Jr. [no relation to him] carries on with Mix in the films.

There's a bit of pathos in the change—more than a bit, from Tony's point of view—for all the pony's life interests, likings and career are wrapped up in his master, the movies, and the crowds that are synonymous with Mix and movies.

Tony's last film was "Hidden Gold." Tony Jr. makes his bow with Mix in "Oh, Promise Me," in which he fell with his master while doing a scene ten days ago, causing Mix to suffer two fractured ribs, a wrenched leg, wrenched side, and other injuries, although Tony Jr. was not hurt. "Oh, Promise Me" is just being completed at Universal studios.

The final decision to retire Tony came while crossing a stream in "Hidden Gold," with Tom riding Tony. An accident took place and Tony was slightly injured. An injury to a horse age 24 is too much for a tender hearted master like Tom Mix, who reserves the right to forget injuries to his own hide and bones, while he may allow himself the luxury of tears over a stone bruise to his mount. That injury to Tony determined Tom to end the professional partnership.

Old Tony is a light sorrel with four white stockings and a white diamond in his forehead. Tony Jr. is a chestnut sorrel without any particular pedigree, but boasting a strain of Arabian and colored like Tony with white stockings and a white diamond. He was given to Mix by an admirer. Mix and his head horse trainer, John Agee, have been concentrating their equine instruction for several years on Tony Jr. in expectation of the sorry but inevitable moment when the actor would have to agree that slowing muscles and gathering years had decreed less active life for Tony.

Mix said today: "Tony and I have been partners for more than 20 years. I trained him from the beginning. I fed him oats mixed with milk out of my hands. We grew up together. Now I have got to put him out to pasture. Tony Jr.'s a fine horse and I'm fond of him, but I love Tony. No horse will ever take his place in my heart. For the last year I have been feeling I should carry Tony instead of Tony's carrying me."

Tony, who is the most photographed horse that ever lived, never was what Mix calls a "cue horse"—that is, a horse who went through stunts when his master signaled by flicking his hand, or nudging his side, or moving his whip in a certain way. Tony's intelligence was such that he would rehearse his scenes several times with Tom and thus learn the "business" he was supposed to do for the camera. After that he obeyed what Mix indicated.

In this way Tony brought canteens of water to Tom, lifted mortgages and pistols from tables in cabins, jumped through windows, leaped chasms, swam rivers, walked narrow logs between cliffs, and dared death in feats where a slip would mean death to Tony and Tom both.

The estimate what Tony helped earn during his movie career is Mix's own.

I feel that more than half of that $7,500,000 is rightfully Tony's," Tom said. "He did more than I did to make it."

Adelphi Theater to Reopen November 20 with 'Merry Go Round'

The Adelphi theater will reopen Nov. 20 with "Merry Go Round," a drama based upon incidents brought to light in the recent investigations of judicial and administrative corruption in New York city. This play, written by Albert Maltz and George Sklar, attracted favorable attention when staged in New York last season, but it was closed, according to Broadway gossip, by political pressure.

Charles Freeman, the stage director who has been associated with the little theater group of the Jewish People's institute, will make his debut in Chicago as a producing manager with this re-staging of "Merry Go Round." He has engaged many of the members of the original cast, which calls for 42 players. He promises a first rate professional performance.

Expert Names These Recipes Prize Winners

Sure to Make Triumphant Table Appearance.

BY MARY MEADE.

Occasionally I become super-ambitious about cooking. Not just an ordinary exhibition of culinary enthusiasm in which I prepare an especially top-notch dinner and then call up all my friends to come in and help me eat it. Not that. Rather, a three day cookery session in which to try all those delicious sounding recipes you folk have sent me, my friends have told me about, or I have resurrected from some old dog-eared "receipt" book.

I sit down and plunge into the business of market list making and finally, by means of phone or market basket, have all the necessary ingredients in the kitchen.

And then the fun begins. But I won't tell you—just let you see for yourselves, for the following dishes, which I call real prize winners, are a few which came forth triumphant from my last kitchen party.

First for a cheese and banana luncheon dish, the like of which—but try it yourself.

BANANAS AU GRATIN.

4 bananas
¼ cup butter
1-3 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 cup toasted bread crumbs
1-3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1-3 cup grated Gruyere cheese

Place the bananas in a heated casserole in which the butter, salt, and paprika have been simmered together for a minute. Scatter half the bread crumbs over the fruit, then add the cheese combined with the remaining crumbs. Dot with butter, sprinkle lightly with cinnamon, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for thirty-five minutes.

PINEAPPLE CREAM TEA CAKES.

The basis of these is sponge cake. For this beat the yolks of three eggs until thick, then add one-half cup sugar, still beating. Add one-quarter teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon of water, one teaspoon lemon juice, and one teaspoon grated lemon rind. Mix well. Fold in one-half cup of pastry flour. Beat three egg whites until stiff and fold in last. Turn into small ungreased muffin tins and bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) twenty to twenty-five minutes. Cool in inverted pans, then remove. Just before serving cut out the center of each cake with a fork and fill with a mixture of three and one-half cups of crushed pineapple, one cup of cream, whipped; one cup of diced marshmallows, and one-half cup chopped almonds. This recipe should make two dozen tea cakes.

RUSSIAN STEAK

Rump steak 1½ inches thick
1-3 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¾ cup chopped green pepper
2-3 cup chopped celery
1 cup sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 cup canned tomatoes
1 cup tomato catsup
2-3 cup water
2 tablespoons flour

Wipe the steak with a damp cloth, then dredge with the one-third cup of flour, and season with salt and pepper. Brown on both sides in a skillet, then transfer to a deep casserole and pour over it a mixture of the remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and bake in a moderately slow oven (300 degrees F.) for three hours, or until the steak is tender.

FROZEN TOMATO SALAD.

2 cups sieved canned tomatoes
Few drops onion juice
Salt and pepper to taste
Few grains cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar

Combine the ingredients and turn into a refrigerator tray to freeze. When frozen turn out, cut in squares, and serve on lettuce with whipped cream mayonnaise.

NORWEGIAN CREAM PUDDING.

Place two cups of freshly soured cream in a saucepan and heat to simmering. Now add carefully two level tablespoons of flour and stir constantly until smooth and thick. Let the mixture come to a boil and continue to boil for twenty-five minutes. At this time add one-eighth teaspoon salt and one-fourth cup sugar, stirring until dissolved. Turn into glass sherbet cups or a bowl and chill. We Americans often serve fresh fruit atop this pudding. Berries or sliced peaches are especially good.

Maggy Rouff Combines Two Jewel Colors in One Evening Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Jewelry worn for evening this winter in Paris runs to the extra precious stones, but semi-precious jewel colors are all the rage. Garnet red, coral red, and coral pink, amethyst, etc., are valued high in the style color mart.

Maggy Rouff combines two of these semi-precious jewel shades in one evening ensemble. She uses amethyst and jade together, and coral with garnet red. Color combining on the informal evening dress is a big stunt of French styles, and two jewel colors brought into union is about the best of the combinations.

The Maggy Rouff ensemble, shown in our sketch today, has a frock of coral pink lacquered satin, trimmed with garnet velvet ribbon and a short wrap of garnet velvet. The velvet is the dull kind, and makes a pretty contrast to the brilliant surface of the satin dress. Remember this, if you have part of any ensemble in a lustrous material, be sure to combine it with something else that hasn't a suspicion of a sheen, for this is the unbreakable rule of taste.

Maggy Rouff makes the pictured frock exceedingly simple in cut to let the material shine at its true value. It has a square necked plain bodice with little sleeves, and a gore flared skirt that rises in points high in front and back. The bodice is high in back, but split below the neckline. It's trimmed with braids of garnet velvet. The garnet velvet jacket has huge sleeves, and one oversize rever edged with sable fur.

Beat Out Hill, Binda in Final Hour.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Jules Audy, 18 year old half pint blond from Montreal, and Torchy Peden, 240 pound red head from Vancouver, won the six day bike race last night. The Canadians won on sprint points scored during the final hour.

Fifteen minutes before the finish it appeared certain that Norman Hill and Alfredo Binda had clinched the race by lapping the field early in the evening. Hill and Binda finished second, in a mileage tie with the winners but with 362 fewer sprint points.

The outcome of the long race was exceedingly popular with the 12,000 on hand for the windup. The spectators had been in an uproar most of the evening, but conserved enough lung power to give the Canadian youths a big hand as they circled the track after their victory.

What a Finish!

Followers of Little Jules and Big Torchy had just about lost hope when the 146 hour competition turned into the final quarter hour and they were in second place, a lap behind Hill and Binda.

Hill and Binda had gained the lead when they lapped the field at 8:50 o'clock last evening, and then set about the task of riding a defensive race. Whenever a lap was gained Hill and Binda were found to be in the party. Riding this sort of defensive finish, the American-Italian team did not go after any of the 73 point sprints in the first three-quarters of the final hour.

During the 16th sprint of the windup hour, however, George Dempsey of the Dempsey-Wissel team fell and the racing was suspended. Then, just as the bell sounded for a resumption of activity, Binda's bike developed a puncture and before Hill could realize what it was all about and start defending alone, Audy and Peden and Letourner and Debaets started a jam. The two teams lapped the field and the effort established the mileage tie which prevailed at the end of the competition. Hill and Binda then went out after sprint points, but their efforts fell far short of success.

Four Teams Tied.

The final night of racing started with four pairs in a mileage tie for the lead, but with the stars, Letourner and Debaets, in second place. Then at 8:50 o'clock when the teams were taking it easy, Debaets broke loose in an effort to wipe out the lap which kept him and his partner Letourner from the group of leaders.

Debaets and Letourner gained the lap all right, but with them were Hill and Binda. This put Hill and Binda in the lead and placed Letourner and Debaets in a six way tie with the five other teams in second place.

At 9 o'clock Deulberg and Grimm and McNamara and Horan, earlier third flight teams, gained a lap which was not especially contested, thus continuing Hill-Binda as the first place team, with the remaining eight combinations tied for second place, one lap back of the leaders.

Audy's First Victory.

The field again was broken up into three flights in jams around 9:15, but every time a team or teams gained a lap Hill and Binda were present.

Last night's victory was the first big league six day win for Audy, competing in his seventh race. Peden won the New York race last March teamed with Reggie McNamara. Audy and Peden won races together in Minneapolis and Milwaukee a year ago, but the fields were not comparable with the personnel of the race just ended.

Results of final hour sprints follow:

1. Linari, Letourner, Wissel, J. Walthour.
2. Dempsey, McNamara, Grimm, Binda.

'NO TRESPASSING' SIGNS TO GREET HUNTERS AGAIN

Farmers Are Forced to Protect Interests.

BY BOB BECKER.

Hunters who are awaiting the opening of the Illinois pheasant and rabbit season tomorrow may expect to find the same barricade of no trespassing signs which they saw last year on farmlands. A large majority of landowners in Chicagoland do not wish to expose their land and their stock to the abuses of the free lance, shoot-and-run hunter.

In Du Page, Kane, and Lake counties we found few farmers who will permit hunting on their acreage. Of 13 landowners visited the majority said they could not trust city hunters. Several admitted that there were some real sportsmen who asked for permission to shoot pheasants and rabbits, but they stated that most of the hunters assumed that every field was theirs and they shot everything from suckling pigs to tame ducks. Two farmers, who will charge small fees for hunting privileges, were glad they had found a couple of "gentlemen" to take over the shooting rights.

The composite picture of the type of hunter who has spoiled hunting for the law abiding sportsman and caused so many no trespass signs to be erected on farmlands was vividly sketched by the landowners with whom we talked. It was anything but a flattering picture.

Hunters are warned to watch their step in Du Page county. The "keep out" signs will be backed up by deputies ready to march trespassers into court. For several years an effective protective association has been waging a war against the poachers. The Illinois trespass law gives a landowner complete protection against fence climbers and poachers if he has posted his acreage.

Farmers Tell of Abuses.

The recital of abuses suffered by farmers at the hands of so-called hunters clearly shows why farm lands open to pheasant and rabbit hunters are getting scarcer each year. A few typical replies to our question, "Do you allow hunting on your land?" follow:

Farmer number 1: "No, I do not. I have too much trouble with hunters. I am posting my land again this year. The hunters think they own the country. Apparently they take us farmers for chumps. I have met just one hunter who was courteous enough to ask for permission to come on my land."

Cow Shot; Chickens Killed.

Farmer number 2: "This hunting season is nothing less than an aggravation to us farmers. Wish there was no such thing. I can't open my land to any strangers because those who have been here shot everything. I have had a cow shot and a house cat and chickens killed. All hunters are not pot hunters. I know that. But the majority seem to have no regard for the law. This year I am leasing my shooting rights to two responsible men for $25 for the six day pheasant season. Everybody else will be run off the place."

Farmer number 3: "No hunting here and I do not give permits, either. Last year a car stopped in front of the house on the first day of the pheasant season. A hunter stepped out and shot a cock pheasant running across our front lawn. He fired toward our front porch to bag this bird. Then he ran into the yard, picked up the bird and speeded away."

HOLY CROSS DENIES M'EWAN WILL RESIGN

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Capt. John J. McEwan, coach of the Holy Cross football team, will continue to coach at Holy Cross next year if he wishes to do so, Cleo A. O'Donnell, director of athletics, said today in denying rumors that McEwan might leave at the end of the season. It has been reported that friction between McEwan and other athletic officials would cause him to sever his connections with the university.

Capt. McEwan, one time coach of the Army eleven, refused to discuss the rumors. His contract does not expire until the end of the 1933 season.

My Greatest THRILL in FOOTBALL

BY JOSEPH A. (RED) DUNN.
[As told to Charles Nevada.]

I PLAYED 15 years of amateur and professional football and participated in 150 games in that time, I think, but my greatest thrill in the sport came at Boston in 1923 while I was a junior at Marquette university. We were in the east to play Boston college that year for the first time and until that game we had a record of ten straight victories, the last three of which had been over St. Mary's of Winona, Ripon, and Carroll colleges during the month preceding.

RED DUNN.

Boston college, as I recall it, had even a more impressive record, especially, because of a recent victory over Yale, and that was regarded as one of the outstanding intersectional contests of the season.

Red Breaks an Arm in the First Minute of Play.

Moreover, we had finished the season before undefeated and were not scored against, other than a lone field goal by Creighton university and since most of the 1922 regulars were back, including myself, we were out to beat everybody. In the very first minute of play against Boston college, I got a crack on the elbow, a fracture it was, but I didn't know it and continued in the game. Between halves my arm was heavily taped and bandaged but I was not permitted to start the third quarter.

Boston was leading, 6 to 0, as the game went into the last quarter. Then, we finally tied it up when Irv Leichtfuss scored after Earl Kennedy, our center, had recovered a fumble near the Boston college goal. That extra point, if we could make it, certainly looked like a victory clincher.

Coach Frank J. Murray turned to where I was sitting on the bench and asked "Think you can do it, Redhead?" I needed no further exhortation. I had been doing most of the point kicking and drop kicking for Marquette, so my reentry created no surprise among our fellows. Nor did it among the Boston college players, since Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, their coach, had us pretty well scouted.

There Goes the Kick, and —It's Good!

With my arm dangling uselessly from my side and all pain forgotten in the excitement of battle, I dropped back to kick when play was resumed. Kennedy passed the ball. Robert Demoling held it. There was a rush of opposing players and then my kick from placement. The ball sailed true between the uprights, the point was scored, and the game won.

Red Dunn, hailed as one of Marquette university's greatest football players of all time, was appointed freshman coach and scout for his alma mater last spring, succeeding John Hancock. Dunn was graduated from Marquette in 1924 and starred not only on the gridiron but also on the basketball court during his undergraduate days. After leaving the Hilltop, Dunn turned to professional football and played eight years with the Milwaukee Badgers, Chicago Cardinals, and Green Bay Packers, serving with the last mentioned club for six years, or until he retired following the 1931 season. He also played with the old Marquette academy elevens. Dunn's home is in Milwaukee. He is in the insurance business.

LAKE FOREST AND BELOIT RENEW 41 YEAR RIVALRY

The Lake Forest college homecoming Saturday will revive one of the oldest rivalries in the middle west when Beloit tackles Lake Forest. Forty-one years ago, on Nov. 1, 1891, the series was begun at Farwell field, Lake Forest, where Saturday's game is to be played. Lake Forest won the first game, 10 to 6, and in the 40 years since Lake Forest has won eleven times, Beloit nine, and six have been ties.

Dr. Moore, president at Lake Forest college, played on two Lake Forest teams against Beloit in 1895 and 1897.

Saturday's game will mark the last home game of the season. Lake Forest will be seeking to keep its three year home game record clean.

MAROONS MOVE 'STOP MICHIGAN' COURSE INDOORS

Predict They'll Play Best Game Saturday.

The big roof of the Midway fieldhouse, which has saved the Maroons many a wetting this fall, yesterday sheltered the University of Chicago's little band of valiants from a driving rainstorm as they experimented with ways and means of stopping Michigan Saturday.

The big daily question around the practice quarters these days, however, is not "What are the Maroons doing today?" but "How is Pete Zimmer doing today?" Yesterday Pete Zimmer was doing well. Coach Stagg said, "I assume Pete will play," and all was cheery.

When the Maroons go knocking at the Wolverines' door Saturday they aren't going to be devoured, many fans believe. Not too promptly, anyway. In some unpremeditated way Chicago's players have been pointing for this game. Several of them yesterday said they expected to play their best game against Michigan.

Will Quit Hospital.

Hugh Mendenhall who worked for five months to regain eligibility only to have an unkind fate reward him with five minutes of play, will be released from Billings hospital today, whither he was sent with a slight concussion last Saturday, it is expected. He should be in uniform today, but his confinement may impair his effectiveness Saturday.

Those definitely out of the Michigan game are Walter Manelkis and Frank Spearing, guards, and George Mahoney, reserve half back. Don Birney spent yesterday afternoon having his foot baked, and Al Summers was home with a cold, but both will be ready to leave for Ann Arbor with the team.

The Chicago Alumni club will hold its annual football banquet tomorrow evening at the La Salle hotel to honor Coach Stagg and to key the varsity for the Michigan game. Speakers will be John Schommer, James Weber Linn, France Anderson, Merrill C. Meigs, and Kenneth Rouse, with Ray Maddigan toastmaster.

MICHIGAN, BLOCK!

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The age-old plea of coaches to "Block, block, block" was heard on South Ferry field this afternoon as the Michigan coaching staff spent a good share of the drill period trying to get results in the execution of this important fundamental and to determine whether the workout had taught the squad anything.

The combination of blocking drill and offensive scrimmage, both of which brought a maximum of physical contact, seems to be the answer to the problem of bringing out the latent power which apparently went to waste in the games with Princeton and Indiana. Hard work, Coach Kipke feels now, will bring results in the Chicago game Saturday, and plenty more of it next week will put the team on edge for its game with Minnesota.

Alternate teams, the regulars and the first reserves, made up the attacking force this afternoon, and while they pushed the yearlings back, the results were not pleasing. Of course, such first string men as Petoskey, Regeczi, Williamson, and Kowalik were forced to watch the drill from the sidelines. There is some speculation whether any of this group, except Williamson, will play next Saturday, and that Newman, Fay, Everhardus and Oliver will be allowed to carry on over most of the route against Chicago.

NICK CATCHES HIMSELF A FIVE YEAR CONTRACT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Nicholas Gibich, 18 year old catcher who was given a tryout by both the St. Louis Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates, has a contract now that assures him of a berth for one to five years. Gibich was sentenced to the Jackson state prison for that length of time today by Judge Henry S. Sweeny after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary.

"If I have to go to prison, send me to Jackson," Gibich asked. "They need a catcher for their ball team up there."

Gibich had kept informed of the athletic situation at Jackson through a brother who was already serving a sentence there.

700 Watch Hawks First Home Practice

More than 700 braved the rain last night to watch the first practice session of the Blackhawks at the Coliseum. The ice sheet was slow in forming and the players were unable to do anything except practice shooting and skating.

To give the fans a chance to see a real practice session, concluding with a scrimmage, the Hawks' management invited those present to return to the session scheduled this afternoon at 2 o'clock. By that time the ice should be hard and in good condition for skating.

Last night's crowd, despite its disappointment, was enthusiastic and cheered every motion of the Hawks. Charlie Gardiner stood in the nets at the south end of the rink and gave a brilliant exhibition of turning aside shots by Paul Thompson, Johnny Gottselig, Mush March, and other Hawks' sharpshooters.

The Hawks last night recalled Louie Holmes, youthful forward who was loaned for the season to the St. Paul Greyhounds. In return the Hawks gave up all right to Jerry Lowrey, left winger, who will join the St. Paul club this week. Holmes will report today and will play at Detroit tomorrow night in the opening game of the season.

PLAYER LOSES 12 POUNDS BATTLING FROM BENCH!

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—If you think playing football is hard work, try sitting on the bench through a full game.

Johnny Metras, captain of the University of Detroit football team, who was out of his team's games with Marquette and Georgetown, insists that he worked harder as a spectator at those two battles than he would have as a player. During the two weeks he was forced to watch the game from the bench he lost 12 pounds, considerably more than he ever lost in two weeks of active competition.

ILLNESS FORCES KELLY TO QUIT PRO FOOTBALL

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—John (Shipwreck) Kelly, former University of Kentucky football star who was with the New York professional Giants this season, has been forced by illness to quit the gridiron.

Attendants at the Roosevelt hospital, where Kelly was taken several days ago, said his condition was not serious. Pending a more definite diagnosis of his case today, however, denial was made that he was suffering from heart trouble.

Tad Jones Is Defeated in Race for Congress

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Tad Jones, former Yale football coach, was defeated in his race for congress tonight by Mayor Francis T. Maloney of Meriden, the Democratic nominee, on the basis of unofficial returns from the principal cities in the district. Maloney will succeed Representative John Q. Tilson, former Republican floor leader.

In the Wake of the News

COLLEGE LETTER BOX.

DEAR Wake: Why all the squawk from Purdue '23 over newspaper publicity and Michigan? He should be thankful experts have not harped on two glaring weaknesses of the Boilermakers—namely: no power from the 20 yard line to goal line and inability to break up a good passing attack.

Minnesota completed ten of eighteen passes against Purdue. Wisconsin caught Purdue flat-footed with a lateral good for a touchdown, but failed to convert the extra point. Lucky Purdue! Northwestern pulled a lost game out of the fire with three passes in the last two minutes. And don't forget the Boilermakers were inside the Wildcat 20 yard line three times, yet their vaunted power scored only once.

Michigan takes the easiest way to victory, as a touchdown on passes counts as much as one earned by pounding 90 yards and saves much energy and labor. Purdue is fortunate not to have to meet Newman and the Wolverines, who would pass them dizzy. Michigan Pete.

Wake: I echo the sentiments of Purdue '23. Only, my question is: Why cannot Wisconsin have more newspaper recognition? Until the open free-scoring contest with Illinois other opponents, Marquette, Purdue, and Ohio State, had counted just 16 points against the Badgers. Purdue and Ohio State may have scored more yardage from scrimmage, but this yardage was not made inside the 20 yard line. Therefore Wisconsin must have something in the way of defense. Offense is only half the game. Defense is the other half. Wisconsin '15.

H. T. W.: Please tell my fellow alumnus, Purdue '23, that if he thinks Chicago newspapers are overemphasizing Michigan to the partial neglect of Purdue he should live for a season over here in Detroit, where we have to take Chicago papers or else think the other teams have quit playing the game. Tell him that he is in clover and doesn't know it. Purdue '10.

Dear Old Harve: I congratulate you on being able to find a few good things to say about the Maroons in your report of the Purdue-Chicago debacle Saturday. While the team really is much improved over a year ago, those of us with normal lenses instead of rose tinted ones have realized all season that a strong running attack would ruin us. Purdue had that. Zimmer's absence probably cost a touchdown when we had the ball on the Boilermaker 1 yard line.

The Good Old Days?

O, where is the game of yesterday,
The game we played of yore—
Where we knocked 'em down and dragged 'em out
Amidst the grand stand's frenzied shout
For broken bones and gore?

With tackles back and guards around
And mass plays through the line,
The flying wedge and hurdle play,
Which put the victims out to stay
And left them quite supine!

Those were the days when he-men played
And stuck till they were done.
No chance to get back in the game,
No second chance had they for fame—
Gosh, weren't the old days fun?

Harvey: There was a political advertisement in the street cars depicting a live donkey and a dead elephant, with the caption, "A Live Donkey Is Better Than a Dead Elephant." I understand a dead elephant's carcass is worth $1,500, so I was wondering just how many live "jackasses" that much money would buy.

IT'S A CHANCE TO ATONE FOR BIG 10 DEFEATS

Wildcats' Fight May Decide Outcome.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern has lost three conference games and tied another, but the annual game with Notre Dame Saturday remains one of the outstanding battles, if not the climax of football in this section. Public support of these teams may be due to the location, for until Notre Dame built its new stadium Soldiers' field was its home gridiron. Notre Dame, as does Northwestern, draws its support from the metropolitan territory.

Attendance also may be based on the series of closely fought battles, culminating in a scoreless tie last fall and including a victory by one touchdown for the Four Horsemen of 1924 when that national championship eleven nearly succumbed to a Wildcat team which probably was no better than Northwestern is this year.

A Chance to Forget Big Ten.

Notre Dame presents Northwestern with an opportunity to atone for the losses suffered in the Big Ten. With Iowa the only conference game remaining, and granting that the Wildcats win that game, the final standing of two victories, three defeats, and a tie will send Northwestern into the second division. All this may be forgotten if Northwestern whips Notre Dame.

Defensive power, running attack and reserve material are factors which point of a victory for Notre Dame. Excellent kicking, which, however, has not been up to standard in recent games, and forward passing are bases for Northwestern's hopes of conquest.

Northwestern has a team of fighters. Michigan was forced to the limit to win, 15 to 6; Minnesota finally forward passed over the defense, which three times had halted the Gophers, for a 7 to 0 victory, and Ohio State also used forward passes to bring about two touchdowns and then blocked a kick for a third. Consider that Northwestern tied Purdue, 7 to 7, and it is apparent that the Wildcat record isn't one of utter rout and demoralization.

Expect Crowd of 40,000.

So Northwestern, despite these defeats, will probably play before a larger crowd than that which saw either the Michigan or Purdue game. Certainly the crowd will be as large. Forty thousand saw Purdue and Northwestern and official attendance at Michigan was 42,000.

Pug Rentner, of course, continues as a threat in running and passing. His touchdown dash against Ohio State, which held Pittsburgh scoreless, was his best run of the year. It is likely that Olson, at full back, will not make consistent gains against the Notre Dame line. But Jake Sullivan, who probably will start at left half back, may be the surprise of Saturday's game. Sullivan has been more or less forgotten in Northwestern's back field. This has been due to inefficient work on the part of the quarter backs for Coach Hanley, in the Ohio State contest, sent in instructions to "give Jake the ball." On the few occasions that Sullivan ran against the Buckeyes, he averaged more than ten yards a try.

Kawal to Play Guard.

Al Kawal, who has been understudy to George Potter at quarter back, and at other times has been at left half because of his blocking ability, now has been shifted into the line at guard. Kawal is too good to leave out of the lineup, yet his inexperience, particularly on defense against forward passes, has been costly several times.

Northwestern's probable starting back field of Potter, Olson, Rentner, and Sullivan will be its best defense against passes and it will be at least fair against running plays. The bulk of the defense, of course, will be thrown on the line, and Northwestern's line is capable of rising to heights unsuspected. Notre Dame offers just such an occasion, for against Notre Dame the Wildcats always have been a bit wilder than usual.

Augustson May Get Chance.

Northwestern may use Roy Augustson at quarter back in place of Potter. Augustson started the season at full back. He has developed rapidly, however, and if he is sent into the game, he will give the Wildcats three excellent forward passers. Augustson, so it is said, can throw as effectively as Rentner and Olson.

Rain yesterday afternoon handicapped Northwestern's practice, but Coach Hanley hopes to get in heavy duty drills today and tomorrow.

NOTRE DAME SCRIMMAGES.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 8. — [Special.] — Notre Dame's football squad went back to fundamentals today and then right up through the fine points into a short scrimmage.

Coach Hunk Anderson lined up Hugh Devore and Dominic Vairo at the ends on the second team. Devore was with the varsity last week. Tom Roach and Dick Pfefferle were at tackles, and Joe Pivarnik and Harry Wunsch at guards. Pivarnik replaced Jack Flynn of Quincy, who was battered up in the Kansas game. Ben Alexander was at center.

In the backfield Laurie Vejar was at quarter back, Nick Lukas was at left half; Ray Brancheau, also a varsity graduate, at right half, and Steve Banas at full back.

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The French bred 6 year old Golden Meadow, bearing the gold and purple of the Sanford Stud Farms, scored an impressive victory in the Temple Gwathmey Memorial steeplechase, feature of the United Hunts program today at Belmont Park. As a result many horsemen already are comparing him to his great stablemate, Tourist II.

Running in front from start to finish of the two and a half miles, the gray won by ten lengths in the easiest sort of manner. He had up 153 pounds and finished over a muddy, holding track in 4:55 2-5. Mrs. Marshall Field's Outlaw was second, a length and a half before Mrs. T. M. Durant's St. Francis. Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Green Cheese, winner of the Grand National of 1931, was fourth and was the only other to finish the course.

Two Lose Riders.

Cree and King's Crier lost their riders, while Chenango, Citron, Red Bridge, and Tourist II. were scratched.

When the scratching of Tourist II. was discussed it was learned that the Sanford connections made no secret of the fact that they thought Golden Meadow a worthy substitute.

Green Cheese was made the choice at 9 to 10, with Golden Meadow well backed at 2 to 1. The pair failed to put on the duel which the betting indicated. Green Cheese had trouble at the twelfth jump when he was moving up to challenge the leader. A bad landing evidently took a lot out of him, for he dropped back to last place and finished dully.

Beats Off Challenge.

Golden Meadow first showed his class by easily beating off the challenge of the lightly weighted King's Crier. Later he was rated to await the challenge of Green Cheese. When this did not develop Jockey A. Pikor let out his mount sufficiently to turn back Outlaw. Thereafter the gelded son of Filibert de Savoie and Golden Hour galloped home on his own courage, with the others driving back of him.

The racing was the last of the year in the metropolitan district, and was watched by 5,000 persons.

The most thrilling finish of the day took place in the first running for the Whitney gold cup when the Wheatley stable's Blenheim, 9 to 2 outsider, won by a head from A. C. Bostwick's Mate. The only other starter was Mrs. Payne Whitney's St. Brideaux.

DARK SECRET WINS.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The Wheatley stable's Dark Secret, which enjoys heavy going, romped through the mud to win the $5,000 added Bowie handicap at Pimlico today. The Shandon farm's Evergold, another good mudder, finished second, while W. W. Vaughan's Canron was a distant third.

Dark Secret, a heavy favorite in the betting, was much the best of the field of five. He was sent away fast by Jockey Alfred Robertson and drew out into a commanding lead after the first few furlongs.

The race was over a mile and a half, but after the winner had gained a five length lead at the end of the first six furlongs the result was obvious.

Dark Secret, a roan son of Flying Ebony and Silencia, earned $3,950 by his victory. He ran the distance in 2:37 1-5 and returned $3.80 for $2 in the mutuels.

Dark Secret's victory marked the second time the Wheatley stable has won the Bowie handicap, Diavolo having won it in 1929.

12 REPORT FOR COURT PRACTICE AT MONMOUTH

Monmouth, Ill., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Twelve Monmouth college basketball candidates who are not playing football reported for practice today. They will meet three times a week until joined by men now on the football squad following the Thanksgiving day game with Knox. The squad is expected to be doubled when the football season ends. Among players who have reported are: Osborn and McLoskey, letter winners from last year; Huggins and Meyer, letter winners in 1930, as well as six members of last year's freshman squad. Among players to be replaced are Robinson and Corgnati, all conference guards, who were regulars for three years.

Iowa State Tackle Reports Despite Injury in Game

Ames, Ia., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Paul Berger of Manchester, Md., Iowa State sophomore tackle believed seriously injured in the game with Kansas State Saturday, donned his football suit and took a light workout today. A blow on the back of the head rendered Berger unconscious for some time following the game, but he seemed to be fully recovered in the week's first drill.

Barney Ross on Road to Title Battle

Fans predict Barney Ross, who received his boxing education in the 1929 Golden Gloves tournament, is headed for a ring career that will carry him through a title match with the lightweight champion, Tony Canzoneri, and possibly to the world's championship.

Ross first gained general recognition on Aug. 26, when he won a 10 round decision over Ray Miller. Barney showed that the accomplishment was no accident by knocking out Frankie Petrolle later and then whipping Bat Battalino. He will receive another chance to show his championship possibilities in a 10 round match with Goldie Hess at the Chicago Stadium Friday.

Finishes Training Today.

Ross received his largest purse when he fought Battalino at the Stadium last month. It amounted to about $2,500. There doesn't seem to be any reason why he can't emulate the earnings of Canzoneri, who has grossed more than a half million dollars. Barney will finish training today at Trafton's gymnasium.

Hess sparred several rounds yesterday with Johnny Reba, south side lightweight. He weighed 137¼ pounds after the drill and indicated that he would have no trouble making the stipulated poundage of 136 pounds for Ross, who is a natural lightweight.

Slaughter Arrives Today.

Sammy [Kid] Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., middleweight, and his manager, Bud Taylor, former bantamweight titleholder, will arrive today for Slaughter's 10 round contest with Dave Shade on the Stadium card.

Frankie Battaglia is favored by the fans to whip Young Terry in another bout on the card, but the Trenton fighter has a chance to upset their predictions. Terry is an aggressive, fast moving target who continually throws punches at his opponent. His punching is not as good as Battaglia's, who has won most of his bouts by knockouts.

Barney Ross and Lew Massey of Philadelphia will head the show at Milwaukee Nov. 21. Sammy [Kid] Slaughter and Osk Till have signed to meet in the eight round semi-final on the card.

King Levinsky started training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for a contemplated match at the Stadium on Nov. 25. . . . Mickey O'Shea and Jack Parker meet at the Midway arena Tuesday. . . . Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, will make his first professional start against Max Mazsick at Milwaukee Tuesday. Johnny Datto and Franklin Cheek clash in the windup.

COLUMBIA FACES TRIPLE WINGBACK AGAIN SATURDAY

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Lou Little and Tuss McLaughry, whose football systems are peculiarly their own, clash in the Columbia-Brown game on Saturday. Little's defense, effective despite Columbia's meager man power, will vie against McLaughry's new and highly successful attack, based on a formation called the "triple wingback." He stations two backs on one wing, the outside one flanking the defensive end. Columbia has seen the maneuver the last two years, winning once and losing once, but McLaughry has developed it to a high degree since last season.

Shamrocks and Panthers to Play Indoor Game Tonight

Bernie Leahy, former Notre Dame half back, will probably be in the Chicago Shamrocks' lineup tonight when the team meets the Cleveland Panthers in an indoor game at the 124th Field Artillery armory, it was indicated yesterday. Leahy was kept out of the last game with Grand Rapids because of an ankle injury.

OLYMPIC TEAM IN 1944

Margery Horner, 4447 Carroll avenue, is only five years old but has amazed officials at Tilton playground with her skill at chinning herself, climbing a 20 foot pole, and other events. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

CHAMPION AT 5

If extraordinary athletic ability at the age of 5 is a criterion, then the United States has a certain point winner in the women's Olympic games of 1944. Margery Horner, whose home is at 4447 Carroll avenue, has surprised the neighborhood with feats which would be difficult for the average boy in his teens.

Among Margery's accomplishments are chinning the bar seven times, climbing a 20 foot pole, and crawling up 25 foot slides.

"In my fifteen years of athletic work with boys and girls I have never yet come across a child with such stamina and endurance," said C. A. Scott, director of the Tilton playground.

Margery attracted the director's attention when she was placed on the horizontal bars along with six children, for the purpose of seeing how long each could hang on. At the end of a few minutes, when Scott came to help each one down, he found Margery chinning herself.

According to her sister, Frances, their parents were only fair athletes themselves, and are at a loss to account for these amazing maneuvers.

"She started to walk when only nine months old," Frances said.

As a reward for her work Margery has been given a playground athletic letter, given only to those accumulating 100 points in various events.

NORTH CENTRAL AND AUGUSTANA MEET SATURDAY

North Central college will meet Augustana on Saturday in North Central's homecoming at Naperville. Coach Shorty Almquist of Augustana was a teammate of Coach Fisher of North Central at Minnesota and a spirited rivalry has existed between the two colleges for five years.

Augustana has won all its Little Nineteen games except the one with Monmouth, which it tied. North Central has defeated only Wheaton and Elmhurst.

Augustana will have a small weight advantage. Capt. McWhinney, Stone, Merrick, and Hobert have been playing well. Capt. Massier, Dillon, Reichenbacher, and Smith have appeared to advantage in North Central's games.

Officials to Entertain Prep Coaches Tonight

The Central Officials association will be host to college and high school athletic directors and coaches tonight at the Great Northern hotel. Among the speakers will be H. V. Portern of the Illinois High School Athletic association, Dutch Lonberg, Northwestern basketball coach, and Leonard Sachs, basketball coach at Loyola.

NAVY BOXERS TO SEEK REVENGE ON ARMY TONIGHT

Fight on Crusader Card at Broadway Armory.

The army-navy boxing feud will be revived tonight at the Broadway armory, 5375 Broadway, where the Illinois Naval Reserve team will clash with the state National Guard under the auspices of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization. The bouts will be directed by Capt. J. A. Reilly.

The army holds the edge in this series, having beaten the navy boxers last summer at Camp Grant. Since then the naval reserve has collected a team rated superior to that which invaded the soldiers' encampment.

O'Connor Meets Coyle.

Among the newcomers are Francis O'Connor, welterweight, and Erwin Pat Coyle, featherweight. O'Connor, who is 24 years old, seeks to be a city policeman, following in the footsteps of his father, who has been at the Austin station for thirty years.

O'Connor has been a member of the naval reserve for seven years. He is a graduate of St. Mel's High school, where he played basketball. He began boxing with the naval reserve and last year was welterweight runner-up in the 33d division of the state National Guard tournament.

Wins Naval Title.

Coyle, who is 21, began his boxing career at Kid Howard's gym. He won the naval reserve featherweight championship the last two years. The complete card follows:

Joe Cieda, Navy, vs. Charles Wilhelm, 202d Coast artillery, 115 pounds.
Ed Coyle, Navy, vs. Ralph Lubansky, 122d Field artillery, 126 pounds.
Tommy O'Brien, Navy, vs. Max Thornton, 202d Coast artillery, 135 pounds.
A. A. Gurnack, Navy, vs. Hank Sullivan, 108th Medical corps, 135 pounds.
Frank O'Connor, Navy, vs. John Graves, 108th Medical corps, 147 pounds.
Fred Miller, Navy, vs. Dave Thompson, 108th Medical corps, 147 pounds.
Paul Congdon, Navy, vs. Tom Kendall, 108th Medical corps, 160 pounds.
Tommy Tomlinson, Navy, vs. Chester Bukowski, 124th Field artillery, 165 pounds.
John Gira, Marine corps, vs. John Percha, 124th Field artillery, heavyweights.
Navy opponent not yet announced to meet Pete Jensen, 108th Medical corps, 150 pounds.

WEATHER AGAIN HALTS BADGERS; COACH WORRIES

Only Two Days Left to Drill for Gophers.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin football squad was forced to practice indoors this afternoon as the second day of rainfall flooded the field.

Because the floor of the fieldhouse, where practice was held, is of cinders and hard clay, intense scrimmage had to be abandoned. A semblance of attack and defense was obtained by all teams going through their paces in slow motion.

As first and second team men who played in the game with Illinois Saturday were not given a chance to scrimmage yesterday or today, only two days are left in which Coach Doc Spears can try new plays before the game with Minnesota here Saturday.

Training was concentrated upon defense for both the back field and line-men in anticipation of a powerful running attack from the heavy Minnesota team.

MANDERS IS BACK.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Fifteen hours of treatment in the student health service repaired Jack Manders' injured ankle sufficiently to permit the Minnesota full back's appearance in uniform this afternoon. He was limping so badly, however, that he will not practice much the rest of the week.

Coach Bernie Bierman said Manders would play against Wisconsin at Madison Saturday. Doctors think Manders will be fully recovered by then.

After the signal drill and dummy scrimmage in the field house because of the steady all day rain, Manders, with Pug Lund, returned to the students' hospital for additional treatment. Lund's leg is very stiff, but he is expected to be ready by the end of the week.

Injuries forced Bierman to rest most of the regulars again today. Capt. Hass has been shifted to Lund's left half for the time being, with Profitt at right half. Nold continued to replace Oen at center, Larson and Robinson, ends, also were kept out of today's workout.

ILLINI WORKS INDOORS.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Rain today forced the Illinois football team indoors as preparations continued for the Indiana game, which is expected to be one of the hardest fought of the season. Capt. Gil Berry continued at half back with Jack Beynon at quarter and Frank Froschauer and Herman Walser as their running mates.

Paul Carson worked at Froschauer's post in part of a dummy scrimmage. A long session at the tackling dummies preceded the signal drills. Fred Frink, veteran end, took his regular turn at the dummy, indicating that he will be ready for the Hoosier game.

A defense to stop the Hoosier passing attack will be stressed in practices the remainder of the week.

HOOSIERS MEET FRESHMEN.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Until rain drove the squad inside the field house, Indiana football regulars engaged in a game with a picked freshman team this afternoon. The freshmen, using Illinois formations, showed to good advantage.

An injured finger probably will keep Bernard Dickey, end, out of the line-up the rest of the season. Coach E. C. Hayes is preparing the team to meet an Illinois passing attack.

PURDUE LOSES STARS.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Purdue's hopes that Jim Carter and Doxie Moore, fleet half backs, would be able to get back in uniform for Saturday's game with the vastly improved Iowa eleven and enable the foursome of Roy Horstmann, Fred Hecker, Duane Purvis, and Paul Pardonner to catch its breath were definitely smashed this afternoon as the Boilermakers reported for their first drill of the week.

The team physician reported that while Carter was recovering from the attack of flu that laid him low before the Chicago game he would not be released from the hospital until Thursday and would be unable to make the trip. An examination of Moore's healing collar bone also revealed that he would be unable to resume action. Coach Kizer is hopeful that both of the ball carriers may be able to get into shape for the final game with Indiana here next week.

Building up the offense for the invasion of the Hawkeye camp occupied the main attention of the coaching staff tonight. The defensive ability displayed by the Hawks against Nebraska provided plenty of worry.

Roy Horstmann's prowess as a full back was adequately backed up by ground gaining statistics for the Boilermakers' first six games compiled today from official charts. On running plays from scrimmage Horstmann, who is tied for the scoring leadership in Big Ten games, has carried the ball 88 times for a gain of 400 yards, an average of 4.54 yards a crack. He is the leading ground gainer of the back field by a neat margin, Purvis being next in line with 364 yards.

HAWKS DRILL IN RAIN.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football team scrimmaged today in preparation for Saturday's game against Purdue in a cold rain on a soaking gridiron.

After a short blocking drill, Hawkeye regulars attempted to advance the ball against a second varsity team. Freshmen spent the session learning Boilermaker plays. Coach Ossie Solem retained Wilmon Hass and Byron Bury, former linemen, in the back field, but both served on the second varsity team. In the first team back field were George Teyro, quarter back; Herman Schneidman and Joe Laws, half backs, and Bernard Page, full back. Jack Radloff continued at right tackle. He made his debut in the first string lineup against Nebraska last Saturday.

OHIO GUARD HURT.

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Charles Kabealo, substitute guard, suffered a broken arm while participating in a scrimmage against the varsity today.

The varsity stopped all the reserves had to offer in Penn plays. Jack Smith and Davy Jones may be the starting half backs in the game with the Quakers, which will be the annual homecoming event for the Buckeyes.

DICK TRACY—Dark Hour

Star Tackles Meet in Prep Charity Game

Four of the best prep tackles in the midwest, whose aggregate weight is in the neighborhood of 900 pounds, will be on the field Saturday when St. John's and Culver meet in a charity game at Dyche stadium.

The lightest of the quartet will be Irv Londy, a St. Louis boy, who weighs 203 pounds, while the heaviest will be Ed Klich of Riverside, who scatters over his six feet 244 pounds of bone and muscle. Both of these boys will be in Culver's starting lineup.

St. John's Trifle Light.

St. John's is slightly behind in the matter of weight. Capt. Park Wray, the Chicago boy who has been a member of the team for four years, weighs in at 220, while Dick Georgi, hailing from Lincoln, Ill., carries five additional pounds.

In reserve material St. John's has the better of the argument. Vange Burnett and Paul Flanagan are 200 pounders, while Joe Schwaba is a comparative lightweight at 168. Culver's first squad carries only one sub tackle in Johnny Hale, whose weight is 176.

As for the rest of the line the Delafield cadets also are capable of putting out heavier starters. At the ends will be stationed Pat Carrol, 190, George Wilson, 180, a Chicago boy who starred for Austin High, and Frank Riley, the latter a brother of the Northwestern stars in the 190 pound class and will probably start at guard. The pivot post will either be handled by Mike Calvano of Waukegan or Tom Alvey. Both weigh 185 pounds.

Rutzen Watch Charm Guard.

Culver's weight average is pulled down by Bob Rutzen, a watch pocket guard of only 154 pounds, who is one of the best fighters in the line. Johnny Richter at the other guard also is smaller than the St. John's man, weighing in at 172. Capt. Stan Hack, a Chicago boy, fills in his 192 pounds at center. The starting ends will be Irwin Evans, 165, a good pass receiver from Oak Park, and Addison Bowers, 170, whose home is in California.

Promoter Doc Krone yesterday received assurance from George Zaharias that he will be here to meet Everett Marshall in the semi-windup to the Jim McMillen-Rudy Dusek finish battle at the Coliseum next Tuesday night.

Marshall is managed by Billy Sandow, who guided Strangler Lewis for many years. He holds victories over Henri De Glane, Joe Malcawicz, and a host of other stars.

St. Louis Hockey Team Wins Claim to Rennie

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Manager Kay Iverson of the St. Paul club of the American Hockey association announced today that Ralph Rennie, wing man, will play with the St. Louis Fliers this season. Iverson had signed Rennie, but St. Louis claimed him on the grounds that he played with the Fliers in the American league last season and was the property of that club.

Manlius Prep Eleven to Battle Augusta Friday

3 Leading Jumpers Enter Llangollen Steeplechase

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Green Cheese, Barometer, and Rideaway, three of the best known steeplechasers in training, have been entered for the Llangollen national steeplechase handicap, $3,500 added feature of the hunt meet to be held Saturday at the estate of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Whitney, Upperville, Va., it was learned today. Green Cheese was the beaten favorite today in the Temple Gwathmey memorial steeplechase, feature of the United Hunts program at Belmont Park. He is owned by Mrs. Whitney and won the Grand National steeplechase in 1931.

Princeton Is Favorite to Defeat Yale

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special]—What a whale of difference a few months make in football values! Back in September, Harvard and Yale looked like two of the greatest eastern elevens on paper, while Princeton, in the throes of a complete reorganization, seemed doomed to comparative mediocrity during the 1932 season, though building soundly for the future.

Now, in mid-November, the situation has been turned upside down. Under the competent and inspirational leadership of Frits Crisler, Princeton has made amazing progress, considering the chaotic regime he inherited.

Concentrates on Attack.

Having first consolidated Princeton's moth-eaten defense, Crisler has now turned his attention to perfecting the attack. The scoreless ties with Cornell and Navy and the superb showing at Ann Arbor indicate how well Crisler has solved his defense problems. The landslide margin against a fair Lehigh team reveals the effect of Crisler's concentration on offense. The Tiger is on the prowl again after a long sleep.

Meanwhile, the paper strength of Harvard and Yale never materialized. The poor physical condition of its key men has hobbled Harvard. Yale's troubles sprang from a dearth of ends, plus the failure of the coaching staff to pick the proper players for the system of offense selected.

Princeton Becomes Favorite.

Instead of suiting the men to the system or fitting the system to the material, Yale attempted to make the Notre Dame offense function with cumbersome guards.

The amazing turn of the wheel now makes Princeton 7 to 5 favorite over Yale in the betting odds quoted along Broadway.

Poser, Miller Pitcher, Recovers from Injuries

Madison, Wis., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Bobby Poser, pitcher for the Minneapolis American Association club and for a time a member of the Chicago White Sox, will be released tomorrow from the University of Wisconsin infirmary, where he has been recovering from a broken collar bone, suffered in an intramural football game Sunday. Poser, a law student at the university, was injured while playing on the Sigma Chi team in a game for the interfraternity championship.

Harrison or Englewood? Preps Wonder

Englewood or Harrison Tech?

From the south side to the west this question is asked as the teams continue practice for their semi-final game in the Chicago Public High School league football championship playoffs at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue, Saturday afternoon. Based on the manner in which both squads achieved sectional championships, the game promises to be one of the most interesting semi-final contests waged in several years.

No one, with the exception of Coach Bob Dougherty of Harrison, has ventured to predict the outcome. Dougherty already concedes Englewood victory. His squad is much different from the one which scored 12 consecutive victories last year, capturing the Chicago city title.

Harrison Outclassed.

"Englewood has a fast, strong squad and we have little hope of coming through the semi-finals," Dougherty said. "With the exception of Andy Puplis, the backs are slow and the line is weak, although we were not scored on in the west section. But there were no strong teams in the west division this season."

Dougherty points out the scoreless tie with McKinley, perennial cellar occupant in the west section, and Harrison's slow start against Marshall, which lost four consecutive games. Marshall held Harrison scoreless in the first half, but the Harrison backs finally broke loose and scored four touchdowns in the second half to win the sectional championship for the third year.

Englewood Is Unbeaten.

No ties or defeats are found on Englewood's league record. It scored four straight victories and displayed its full strength last Saturday when it defeated Bowen, 20 to 0, for the central section title. Bowen was undefeated and unscored on in league competition.

The league records of Englewood and Harrison follow:

HARRISON.	ENGLEWOOD.
13—Crane, 0.	6—Tilden, 0.
7—Austin, 0.	12—Lindblom, 2.
0—McKinley, 0.	24—Hyde Park, 6.
26—Marshall, 0.	20—Bowen, 0.

Coach Dougherty plans to use Modell and Puplis at half backs, Strasad at full, and Smerzalski at quarter back. Skarva and Slavab will play ends; Janulis and Holanik, tackles; Hodal and Boss, guards, and Kovalchuk, center. This was the same starting lineup used against Marshall last Saturday.

Rozgus Plays Quarter.

Englewood's starting back field lineup probably will be Rozgus at quarter; May, left half back; Barier, right half back, and Atwood, full back. Little and Miletzky will play ends; Brennan and Ponco, guards; Edwards and Adkins, tackles, and Babich, center.

The winner will meet the winner of the Morgan Park-Schurz game at Logan Square park, Kedzie and Elston avenues. Morgan Park captured

WORLD WAITS STOCKS ACTION AS TRADE GUIDE

Late Upward Trend Held Good Sign.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

All eyes are turned toward the stock market this morning. Everybody from Wall street to Main street is anxious to discover the effect of the election on the market. Perhaps never before has the ticker been watched with such intense interest.

Business men, investors, traders—in fact, people everywhere—are hoping to find encouragement in the market's reaction to the decision of the people.

For three days immediately prior to the election prices of securities and commodities moved briskly upward. That was regarded as a good omen.

Fresh Start Today.

With the election over business today makes a fresh start.

For some time it has been the concensus of opinion that no matter what happened in the election, after the event business—especially that part of it relating to the commodity and security markets—would be steadier.

Markets can withstand almost anything better than uncertainty, and during the last few months they have undergone their quadrennial period of greatest uncertainty.

During the campaign it was inevitable that each side should exhibit a chamber of horrors to frighten the voters. Between the stories of how bad times had been, how bad they might have been, and how bad they might be if the proper candidates were not chosen the public was treated to a series of cold chills that effectively checked the improvement in business that had begun in July.

Business Picks Up.

During late summer and early fall industry began to show some signs of pickup. Security and commodity markets took the lead and shot upward.

Then the campaign got under way. Prices of stocks, bonds and commodities began to decline. They did not, however, lose all of the ground they had gained. Bonds, especially, have continued to show strength.

While prices were falling off from the early autumn high, business continued to forge ahead. Railroad freight carloadings have maintained a better than seasonal trend. Electric power consumption has gone steadily upward.

Steel Industry Advances.

The improvement in the steel industry since July is especially impressive when comparison is made with the industry's performance in the corresponding period last year. In the last four months the rate of operations has advanced from 14.66 per cent of capacity to 19 per cent of capacity. In the corresponding period of last year the rate fell from 34.17 per cent to 27.12 per cent.

Activities have therefore been stepped up more than 4 points since July, whereas last year operations declined more than 6 points.

OIL PRODUCTION INCREASES 7,100 BARRELS IN WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 8.—Production of crude oil in the United States for the week ended Nov. 5 averaged 2,103,700 barrels daily, compared with 2,096,600 the previous week, or an increase of 7,100 barrels, the American Petroleum institute announced yesterday. Production for the four weeks ended Nov. 5 averaged 2,122,550. During the week ended Nov. 7, 1931, the daily average was 2,456,800.

Imports of crude and refined oil at the principal ports of the United States for the week ended Nov. 5 totaled 742,000 barrels, as against the revised total for the week ended Oct. 29 of 840,000 barrels.

Schwab Raps Optimism, but Is Optimistic

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 8.—Filled with modified optimism, Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, returned here from England, where he went one month ago to receive the Mellhett medal for distinguished service in industry. Mr. Schwab, who has declared for Hoover and is a Republican, arrived in time to vote.

He did not seem as buoyant as he has been. Some one remarked on this and Mr. Schwab said: -

"There has been an overproduction of optimism in the United States in the last several years. I am optimistic. I have not lost my faith in America if I have lost a lot of money. I feel that ultimately this country is going to be just the same as it was when everything was bright and sunny."

Mr. Schwab said that present tariff schedules should be examined, and perhaps adjusted, with a scale high enough to prevent foreign dumping of steel, which he asserted is coming into the United States from Belgium, France, England, and Germany at low cost because of cheap labor, and contributing to unemployment.

He said that English steel mills are now operating at from 40 to 50 per cent of capacity.

The steel company chairman does not believe that the attempt to inaugurate the five day week will be effective.

BENNETT SAYS CANADA TO TRY MILD INFLATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 8.—Premier Bennett told parliament today Canada had proved her ability "to ride the financial storm" and he felt the government was justified to a limited degree in joining the United States and the United Kingdom in the adoption of monetary measures designed to encourage trade recovery. "However," he added, "any broad action along this line is unnecessary and Canada will not depart from the established principles of sound money."

LOAN LACKS ONLY $12,000,000.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 8.—With eight days left before the closing of the subscription lists for the Dominion of Canada 4 per cent long term bond issue of $55,000,000 the total at noon stood at $43,000,000, leaving $12,000,000 still to be subscribed. In the last 24 hours subscriptions totaling $6,000,000 were received.

ELECTRIC OUTPUT IN SEPTEMBER IS 12% UNDER 1931

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 8.—The National Electric Light association reported figures today on the electric light and power industry showing the kilowatt hours generated in September as 6,223,591,000, or 12 per cent below that of the same month last year.

For the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1932, the total was 78,721,607,000, against 86,320,978,000 for the same period last year, or a net decline of 8.8 per cent, with total revenue received $1,872,012,800, against $1,988,337,500, or a decline of 5.8 per cent.

Oil Concerns Nearly Ready to Loan Mexico $10,000,000

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8.—Reports that oil companies operating in Mexico would lend the government $10,000,000 as an advance on taxes are likely to materialize in a few days. The actual amount likely to change hands now is $7,000,000, the balance being offset by a loan already advanced by the Standard Oil company. The money will be held temporarily by the Banco de Mexico in order to avert too great fluctuations of exchange pending the loan's disposition.

Barnsdall Corp. Showing Is Better Than Last Year

Barnsdall corporation and subsidiaries reported for the September quarter net loss of $108,702 after taxes and all charges. This compares with net profit of $30,183 in the preceding quarter and net loss of $723,053 in the three months ended Sept. 30, 1931. For the first nine months of this year net loss amounted to $468,643, as against $6,538,551 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Canadians Buy Liquor Shares; Prices Double

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 8.—In anticipation of a Democratic victory and early repeal of the prohibition law, liquor stocks were a feature on Canadian stock exchanges today, advancing at both Montreal and Toronto.

Distilleries are expecting a very substantial spurt in demand from the United States upon repeal of the Volstead act. All companies in the dominion have large inventories of matured spirits, available for shipment to the American market on a moment's notice. Obviously, of course, American distilleries will be able to produce certain brands of whiskies in a reasonably short space of time, but it is not possible to produce a fine type of matured whisky in a period of less than five years.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol, a leading distillery company, was very active today on both Montreal and Toronto exchanges, and sold as high as $3.25 a share, against a low earlier this year of 50 cents a share. Hiram Walker, Gooderham and Worts, another important distillery, sold up to $7.00 compared with $2.75 low this year. Distilleries Seagrams sold at $7.00, twice its former price. National Breweries, leading beer manufacturer, sold as high as $18.50, a gain of 9 points from its year's low.

Markets to Reopen Today; Friday an Illinois Holiday

Friday, Armistice day, will also be a holiday in Illinois. The Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Stock exchange, the Curb and Mercantile exchanges as well as banks and other financial houses will be closed. New York banks and markets, however, will be open as usual Friday.

Mexican Peso Reaches High Mark for Last Six Months

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The value of the Mexican peso closed higher yesterday than at any time in the last six months, the quotation being 32.5 on the dollar. Increased Mexican exports and higher prices for products was given as the reason for the steady valuation increase over the last ten days.

ELECTION OVER BRITISH EXPECT TRADE REVIVAL

Uncertainty Seen as Recent Curb.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—London, is expecting an international boomlet in stocks, in trade and in general cheerfulness now that the presidential election has been decided. This expectation has nothing to do with Franklin D. Roosevelt nor with the prospect of debt revision after the election. Within the next month the debt issue will become acute, but for the moment Britain expects nothing of the new administration.

The optimism in the air here is mostly a feeling of relief at the ending of a long political convulsion that has prolonged unsettlement and uncertainty everywhere.

See Election as Barrier.

For months there has been a feeling in London that the American election has prevented decisive and constructive steps being taken in the economic field. No one is agreed as to what those decisive steps should be but it is felt that with the German and American elections over there should be a move forward.

The London stock exchange behaved today as if the load of uncertainty already had been lifted. All issues except government stocks showed strength. The weakness in government issues was partly explained by the prospect that sterling would fall further as a result of a pronounced upturn in Wall street. The financial papers already are counseling calm if sterling slumps and insist that the fall will not be serious or lasting.

Election News Fills Papers.

Although neither candidate this year interests Britain as Alfred E. Smith did in 1928 there has been more publicity for the present campaign than for any American election in history. In recent weeks it has been possible for Americans her to follow the speeches and travels of their candidates through the London popular papers and even the tabloids.

Foreign Grain Markets Fall After Bulge in Early Trading

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

With American markets closed yesterday, Winnipeg and the other foreign grain markets closed lower after an early rise. First sales reflected the advance in wheat in Chicago Monday but profit taking soon cut into the rise and the prices did not hold.

Hedge sales as well as profit taking in Winnipeg took the edge off that wheat market. Liverpool opened ⅝c higher, but like the Winnipeg market closed ⅛ pence lower for December and ¼ pence up for March. Last sales were 49⅝c for December and 51¼c for March, based on the Canadian exchange at 15c discount.

Winnipeg Off 1⅝c.

At the extreme low, Winnipeg was off 1⅝c from which there was a moderate reaction, and the close was at losses of ¾@1¼c for the day, July being the weakest. Monday's advance in Winnipeg increased farmers' marketing in the interior, which were in excess of 2,000,000 bushels. Local traders there took hold more readily; export interests were not at all encouraging, although a little business was said to have been worked by Vancouver.

After a sharp decline in world's wheat prices due to the pressure of the new crop and the lack of buying power, the market rallied owing to the distribution of world's shipments, says Broomhall. The continent is taking fair quantities and non-Europe, good sized amounts. China purchased eight full cargoes of Australian wheat last week.

Russia's Supplies Low.

Russia's food supplies are said to be deficient, but she is still making a few sales of wheat to neighboring countries. Broomhall's foreign crop summary is moderately favorable. There was a private report of frost in the north of the Argentine which caused some buying of futures by outside interests.

Buenos Aires opened ¼c to ⅜c lower on wheat and at midday was ⅝c to 1⅛c lower, with November 41⅝c and February 39¾c.

Liverpool reported a better inquiry for nearby parcels of Argentine corn, at ¼c to ⅜c advance. Liverpool's regular corn prices, however, were ⅛c lower. Buenos Aires corn was unchanged to ⅛c up, November being 29⅜c and December 29⅞c.

Oats in Buenos Aires were unchanged at 17⅞c for November, while in Winnipeg oats were unchanged at 22⅛c for December and 24⅛c for May. Shorts were active buyers of rye in Winnipeg, especially the May, the advance being 1⅜c to 31⅛c for December and 35 cents for May, the latter being 1⅝c over Monday's close. Winnipeg barley advanced ¼c to ⅜c, with May leading.

R. F. C. ADVANCES $811,898 TO OHIO, KANSAS, OREGON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today advanced $811,898 in emergency relief loans to Ohio, Kansas, and Oregon.

Ohio received a total of $791,264, of which $611,264 was made available for relief in Cincinnati and surrounding county of Hamilton. The remainder, $180,000, will be used in Toledo. Previous relief loans to Ohio total $5,614,262. The Kansas loan, totaling $13,634, will be used for relief purposes in two unnamed counties of the state. Kansas has previously received $450,000 for relief.

Oregon today obtained $7,000 for relief needs in Wasco county until the end of this year. The corporation had previously advanced $221,558 for relief purposes in the state.

Loans made by the corporation thus far from its 300 million dollar direct relief fund now total $66,665,131.

Wabash Railway Handles 54,322 Carloads in October

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Wabash Railway company today announced it handled 54,322 carloads of freight in October this year, compared with 64,930 in the same month last year.

VESSELS CROWD CANADIAN PORTS TO CARRY WHEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 8.—Demand for tonnage to carry Canadian wheat from St. Lawrence ports has quickened with the definite ruling as to the applicability of the British six cents preference. Of 26 ocean vessels in port today nearly all, with the exception of three colliers, will take grain.

Doubts are being expressed if there will be sufficient available shipping in the few weeks remaining for St. Lawrence navigation to meet the demands of the shippers and it is likely that several ships now on their way to United States ports will be diverted to Montreal.

The port of Montreal expects to ship out over 110 million bushels of grain, the largest amount in four years. Announcement was made today by the federal government that October wheat exports totaled over forty million bushels, the largest in two years.

Grain Exports from U. S. Are Under Preceding Week

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week were 827,000 bushels as compared to 1,807,000 bushels the previous week and 3,140,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year.

HOG PRICES RISE FOR FIFTH DAY; TOP SALE $3.65

Average Up 40 Cents in Last Week.

The advance in hogs entered its fifth day yesterday when prices went up 5@10c further to the highest level in more than two weeks. Current quotations are 35@40c above the lowest point of last week. Top sales reached $3.65, the highest in 15 days. The general average at $3.55 stood highest in 22 days and compared with $3.15 last Wednesday.

While the advance here has gained good momentum since it started after the middle of last week, the leading outside points are setting an even faster pace. Some points in the east have gone up 35c in three days, with several markets quoting top sales at $4.00@4.10.

The wider spread between eastern and western prices warrants broader eastern buying.

Prime Beeves Lower.

Light steers and yearlings and also the plainer grades of cattle maintained steady price levels yesterday, but the market for prime weighty beeves struck 25@50c, to new low levels for the fall season. Trading turned sticky on closing rounds and buyers found it easy to make a saving in steers weighing 1,200 lbs and more. Many long fed steers were in the receipts and quality graded better than usual.

Some choice 1,203 lb steers topped the market at $8.60, but few loads on the market were in the class to sell at $8.00 and above. Bulk of all beef steers cashed at $5.75@7.65, a long string of 66 yearlings averaging 956 lbs making $7.90. Cattle selling at $5.00 and under comprised a small share of offerings and were mostly steady for the day. All other classes of cattle sold steady.

Lambs Reach $6.00.

Yesterday's bulge in the lamb market brought prices to par with the highest point of last week, which was equal to the highest spot since Oct. 12. Receipts were exceptionally small and outside interests were more aggressive, taking 25 per cent of the receipts.

City butchers bought hand picked natives up to $6.00, while packers took their selections at $5.75 and below. Favorable reports from the wholesale market for dressed lamb, coupled with the better outside demand and small receipts swung the advantage to the selling side. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and steady. Feeding lambs sold steady.

AS METALS ARE SHAPED INTO MOTORS

BANKS LENDING MONEY for the mining of iron ore start a cycle of credit which reaches through all the processes of manufacture and distribution to the finished car in your garage.

Mining, shipping, smelting, steel making, automobile manufacturing, distributing and retailing—at each step, money is borrowed from banks and returned when the step is completed. Thus credit flows from bank to industry and back again, in an ever moving stream, as season follows season, as demand for credit diminishes here, increases there.

In every industry affecting the daily life of the nation, commercial banking plays an essential part. And the Continental Illinois National Bank, strategically located, is an important factor in mobilizing credit to serve American business.

BOND OFFERINGS IN WEEK JUMP TO $30,837,000

All Issues Put on Market Are Governmental.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 8.—Despite the fact that no new corporation financing was done last week, new bond and note issues aggregating $30,837,000 were placed on the market, of which $25,837,000 was state and municipal and $5,000,000 federal intermediate credit bank system debentures. In the preceding week the new financing amounted to only $2,548,000. A year ago new bonds in the amount of $7,950,000 were placed on the market.

New York's Issue Biggest.

The municipal financing this week was headed by the issue of $21,500,000 New York City 5¼ per cent special corporate stock notes, dated Nov. 4 and due June 14, 1933, offered on a 4.75 per cent basis.

This financing for the city took the form of short term obligations for the reason that the well below par quotations on New York City long term bonds at present precluded the offering of long term serial bonds or corporate stock at this time. The bankers report that large blocks of these notes have been purchased by savings banks, National banks, insurance companies, and corporations, as well as by private investors.

U. S. Issue Oversubscribed.

Other municipal issues offered to the public this week ranged in size from $1,500,000 to $66,000. The issue of $5,000,000 federal intermediate credit bank 2½ per cent debentures, due Nov. 15, 1933, was reported by Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent, as five times oversubscribed. As usual, banks were the chief purchasers of this issue.

Offerings of bonds in the New York market, by groups, for this and last week, follow:

Wants a New Loan.

TO THE EDITOR: I own an eight room frame house near the lake. There is a $3,000 mortgage due May, 1933. There is also an $800 note due at the bank now closed. If the bank has filed judgment, how far can they legally go? I protested the taxes for the last two years. The place has not been rented for the last three years. I am a lone woman, unemployed and have no money. Do you think it better to live in the house or rent it to some one? Please give me the best advice, as I am worried.—M. G.

ANSWER: You will have a better chance of renting your property if you are living on the premises. Renting is a business and today should be handled as such. The house and yard should be cleaned up, all the windows washed, and you should have an attractive sign, well placed, so it will attract the attention of people passing.

Regarding the $800 note, you do not state whether or not this note is secured by your property. From the information given, we assume judgment is filed against you and you will be ordered to appear in court. Your most important problem at this time is to secure a paying tenant for the property.

Should Live on Property.

TO THE EDITOR: I own an eight room frame house near the lake. There is a $3,000 mortgage due May, 1933. There is also an $800 note due at the bank now closed. If the bank has filed judgment, how far can they legally go? I protested the taxes for the last two years. The place has not been rented for the last three years. I am a lone woman, unemployed and have no money. Do you think it better to live in the house or rent it to some one? Please give me the best advice, as I am worried.—J. R.

ANSWER: We have written Mrs ——, requesting the suspension of foreclosure for six months pending refinancing of the property. We suggest you write the Federal Home Loan bank, Evanston, Ill., stating your case and describing the property. Request either an application for loan or the name of a building and loan association near your home that has been accepted to membership in the bank.

If foreclosure becomes inevitable, you should secure the services of an attorney or, if your funds are limited, we suggest you call at the Legal Aid society, Chicago.

RESULT: "We have received your letter of Oct. 26 regarding Mr. J. R. I would like to get my money as soon as possible for I am really in need but seeing that they are unable to pay, I will try and wait until they can. If they will pay up the loan in six months, I will gladly wait. They are very fine people and have always paid their interest on the building and trust you will be able to help them.—Mrs. ——."

HATTER RENTS 3 STORY BUILDING ON SOUTH STATE

Arthur Fellchenfeld, Inc., who operates a chain of six stores in the downtown district under the name of Arthur the Hatter, retailing men's headwear, yesterday leased the entire three story building at 206-12 South State street for an undisclosed term of years from the John R. Thompson company. According to Gordon B. Chase of L. L. Sachs & Co., who negotiated the transaction, the lease calls for a monthly cash rental with no percentage clause. J. A. Kelly represented the lessor in yesterday's transaction.

The building has a frontage of forty feet on State street and has a depth of 100 feet. The lessee will use the entire first floor for what he claims will be the largest hat store in Chicago. The upper floors will be used for stock rooms.

I. C. C. Approves Cut Rates on Wood Pulp from Atlantic

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—The interstate commerce commission yesterday approved reduced rates on wood pulp in carloads from Norfolk and other North Atlantic seaports to destinations in central territory. The wood pulp is carried in intercoastal traffic, much of it moving by water through the Panama canal.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Speculative trading in butter and eggs for future delivery on the Chicago Mercantile exchange was suspended yesterday on account of the presidential election. Business on the street was fair, with no change in butter or egg prices.

Business in poultry was of moderate volume, with young hen turkeys and tom turkeys a cent lower. Colored spring chickens were ½c higher and heavy white ducks 1½c lower, and colored 2c lower. Golden geese were a cent higher. Receipts of poultry were three cars by freight and one car due, while trucks brought in 43 loads. There were 52 carloads of potatoes yesterday with trade slow and prices unchanged.
